Found No Documents On Gifts From Cuba

. . .To Democratic Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard L. Barker said Thursday he broke into the Watergate "as a matter of national security" to look for documents showing leftist or Cuban contributions to the Democratic presidential campaign.

He said he found none.

"I considered it duty for my country," said Barker.

Barker, whose parents are Americans, was born in Cuba and spent half his life there—part of the time in the pre-Castro Cuban police. He was one of five men arrested inside the Democratic offices last June 17 and one of five who pleaded guilty to conspiracy, burglary and illegal wiretapping.

"What sort of documents were you primarily looking for?" Barker was asked.

A. Documents that would involve contribution of a foreign nature to the Democratic campaign, especially to Sen. (George) McGovern and possibly to Sen (Edward M.) Kennedy.

Q. Were you looking for documents reflecting a contribution from any particular foreign government?

A. Cuba.

Barker said that—like James W. McCord Jr., a co-conspirator—he received money from Mrs. E. Howard Hunt, the now-deceased wife of a third conspirator.

He said he received in cash $17,000 bail bond money, $10-12,000 for expenses during the period before the trial; $18,000, of which $5,000 was for McCord's civil suit legal fees to attorney Henry Rothblatt and another $13,000, to cover Rothblatt's fee for the four Cuban-Americans involved.

The last payment, he said, was in October 1972—some two months before the Watergate trial began.

Barker, brought from jail and testifying under immunity, was asked whether any conditions were attached to this money.

Absolutely no conditions, he said.

Barker said repeatedly that his decision to plead guilty was his own and not the result of pressure or payment.

Barker expressed his admiration for Hunt, but said Hunt's decision had no bearing on his plea. And he said he paid no attention to opposition to the guilty plea by his attorney, Rothblatt, or from his daughter.

He said he participated in three operations with Hunt last year, all on Hunt's word that "this was national security and above the FBI and CIA."

"The original operation was the Ellsberg operation," said Barker, one of the team that rifled the psychiatric files of Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

"It was explained to me that this was a matter of national security," Barker said.

Preceding Barker before the committee was Gerald Alch, the attorney who represented McCord at the Watergate trial and Wednesday accused him of lying. He offered to take a lie detector test to support his version of the difference in their stories.

Alch's offer to take the lie detecter tests came after Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., asked what the committee could do "to tell us where the truth lies" in two major discrepancies between Alch's testimony and McCord's

McCord had told the committee that last Dec. 21 Alch suggested he use as his defense in the Watergate trail a claim that the Watergate burglary was a CIA operation and that the director of the agency would go along with doctoring McCord's CIA employment record.

"I did not say it," Alch said. "You can't infer words of that nature unless they were said."

But he said that a third person was present at the Dec. 21 meeting — his former co-counsel Bernard Shankman, who could be questioned and that he would agree to take a polygraph examination

The second major difference, Alch said, could be resolved only through a lie detector test because it was a telephone conversation with Bernard Fensterwald, who joined McCord in April and subsequently succeed Alch as his lawyer.

He quoted Fensterwald as saying "We're going after the President of the United States."

Outside the hearing room Fensterwald denied making the remark. He told newsmen he and McCord will agree to take lie detector tests, but only if it becomes the policy of the Senate committee to require them from all witnesses.

The arguments between lawyers and client had already taken up an entire afternoon and morning, diverting the senators' investigation.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., said, "The committee does not intend to get bogged down with the controversy between lawyers neither of whom . . . have any personal knowledge of the matters that the committee is investigating, except insofar as they gained it through the trial."

He said Fensterwald and McCord could submit sworn statements and meet with the committee staff. Fensterwald said later his written statement was not accepted because it was not taken under oath and that the committee counsel did not make it possible to submit a sworn affidavit.

Deserter Urges Total Amnesty

Washington (AP) — An Army deserter came out of hiding Thursday to tell a group of congressmen that unconditional amnesty will help erase a decade of bitterness over the Indochina war

Edward Sowder, 25, of Detroit, appeared before an unofficial House panel discussion amnesty to men who fled the draft, deserted or resisted the war while in the service.

His statement before the group followed emotional testimony by his mother, Lori, who said her working-class family could not afford college for him to get him a deferment.

She said he went into the Army against her wishes and that she told him the "only thing he could accomplish was to get killed."

Eddie, as he calls himself, then entered the hearing room and told the panel when he volunteered for Vietnam he supported the war.

"I was assigned to an evacuation hospital where we received fresh casualties direct from combat areas Many of these victims were Vietnamese civilians, mostly women and children hit by U.S. artillery and bombing.

"Many had been severely burned by napalm and white phosphorous, weapons used only by the U.S."

He said those scenes and the attitude of some of his fellow GIs led him to decide to desert.

"In April 1970, I made my decision . . . I went on strike against the war. For the past three years, except for a period in Canada, I've lived underground in America, cut off from my family and friends.

"I make no apology for my act of resistance. I could do nothing else at the time But, underground life has become so intolerable to me, So, I'm here today, to draw attention to the true facts concerning my case and the cases of tens of thousands just like me.

"Only by winning a universal, unconditional amnesty for all categories of war resisters can we begin the long process of changing our country and learning from the decade of blood and bitterness in Indochina."

Legislature Approves Deficiency Funding Bill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Warming up for its most momentuous day of the session, the 1973 Legislature Thursday gave final approval to a parcel of bills, including $2.3 million in deficiency funding for municipal waste treatment facilities.

The deficiency appropriations measure, LB505, cleared its final test on a 42-0 vote.

Passed by a 35-6 score was LB534, a Revenue Committee proposal which will hand tax exemption to goods stored in transit or for shipment in bonded and licensed warehouses.

The day's major action featured creation of a bill to propose a reduction in the 1973 personal income tax rate from 15% to 13%. (See story on Page 16.)

Senators face a host of crucial decisions Friday when the final reading showdown features two school aid bills, the capital construction budget bill and other major budget, education and government reorganization issues.

Friday will mark the Legislature's 89th day in session. A one-week recess will precede its final meeting June 1.

On the 90th day, senators will be able to consider gubernatorial vetoes of any bills passed prior to that date

Heralding the approaching battle between Democratic Gov J. James Exon and the nonpartisan, but heavily Republican, Legislature, Sen Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff suggested that the Unicameral is "a partisan Legislature . . . at least until after the next election."

The governor and 13 Democratic senators are "dominating" the Legislature, Carpenter said, "and you Republicans don't even know what's going on"

A bloc of about 10 Democratic votes on major issues often turns the tide the governor's way, Carpenter declared.

There are 35 Republicans and one registered independent in the Legislature

LB505 appropriates $2,320,930 for the 1972-73 fiscal year to provide additional state aid for the construction of municipal waste treatment facilities

Although $292,773 of that amount will be distributed on the old formula of 25% state matching funding, the remainder will be allocated on a new formula under which the state matches funds at a 12½% level.

The new formula provides for 75% federal aid and a 12½% local funding effort.

LB534, strongly supported by the Exon administration, extends Nebraska's "freeport" law to restore a tax exemption voided by a State Supreme Court decision last January which limited the exclusion to public warehouses.

Also approved on final reading was LB110, a bill implementing the constitutional amendment revising the composition of judicial nominating commissions.

The measure, sponsored by Sen Fred Carstens of Beatrice, was passed on a 41-0 vote and a $13,373 appropriations rider cleared its final barrier on a 34-6 count

LB110 abolishes present seven-member nominating commissions and replaces them with nine-member units, appointed by the governor, and consisting of four lawyers, four lay citizens and one non-voting Supreme Court judge

No more than two of the lawyers and two of the citizens may be members of the same political party.

The commission must nominate at least three candidates for consideration by the governor, assuming there are at least three qualified applicants for the post

Astronauts, Parasol Packed For Mission

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Skylab 1 astronauts, the first space do-it-yourself repairmen, were poised for a 9 a.m. EDT launch Friday and the start of a salvage mission which must succeed if America's space station is to be saved

Astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J Weitz will be drilled into orbit aboard an Apollo command ship packed with tools and materials to repair the overheated and underpowered Skylab station.

Space Agency officials, meanwhile, announced that a solar screen resembling a lopsided beach umbrella will be the primary device for shading the sweltering Skylab

There was some concern that the parasol might deteriorate in the intense sunlight of space, but if this happens, officials said, another device would be substituted

Other devices to be flown said William C. Schneider, Skylab program director, would be a sail-shaped curtain and a shade deployed on an A-frame

"All of the devices work to one degree or another," he said "All of the devices have drawbacks to one degree or another

Engineers, scrambling to complete the sub shields, raced against the clock to have them ready for stowage on the command ship in time for launch

Righting Of 'Awful Maldistribution' Urged

By GORDON WINTERS

To create a genuine community in America, it is first necessary to correct the "awful maldistribution of goods and services," the pastor of the Abyssian Baptist Church Thursday night told delegates to the American Baptist biennial convention.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel D. Proctor, the successor to Adam Clayton Powell at the church in New York City, said that the U.S. is a "finely tuned and efficient technological society."

He said the U S system of government represents man's most sublime thoughts

'Atraid Of Headlines'

"But with all this capacity to produce from abundant raw materials and with this refined paraphernalia of government, here we stand — a nation divided, torn asunder, afraid of every morning's headline," Proctor said

"We have a nation, but we have no national community."

For all too long, he said, we have had two Americas: "One America which is dizzy with gadgetry and the other America looking on from the roadside watching the Galaxies and the Furies whiz by."

"After we look to our poor and meet that need," Proctor said, "we then need to create a climate in the society that is humanizing, that enhances and enobles life."

'Real Community'

"Real community explores all dimensions of human relationship," he said. "It searches for ways of communicating, it seeks to remove the arbitrariness of life . . . it enlarges options, it enhances human potential and pursues voraciously that tiny margin of freedom, however thin it may be, and seeks to expand it."

"It ends up teaching a paraplegic to fly a plane, showing the deaf how to make computers, leading a drug addict out of his dungeon back to the marvelous light of freedom," Proctor said.

Earlier Thursday, Dr. Peter H. Armacost, president of Ottawa (Kan.) University, was nominated to be the next president of the American Baptist Churches.

Only Successor

Armacost, who has headed the Baptist affiliated church since 1967, is the only nominee to succeed Dr Gene E Bartlet, of Newton Centre, Mass., as leader of the 1.5 million-member denomination.

In a news conference Thursday, Armacost said that "integrity in government" is one of the issues that should concern the denomination.

"Politics without principle is sinful," Armacost said. "Where power is being misused we must be concerned"

Armacost also said that the denomination should make an effort to interest young people in the church. He said "kids are really turned on to the Gospel when they can see the emotional side."

Hunger Sensed

Armacost said he also sensed a hunger for spiritual renewal among American Baptist members. He said he hoped the impetus of Key '73 can be capitalized on to nurture an individual's basic personal encounter with Christ.

Plans for coping with the problems posed by the huge convention, one of the largest Lincoln has ever hosted, seem to be working out well, according to James Ekstrand, chairman of the local arrangements committee.

GOP Official Questions Computer Dealings

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

In testimony prepared for the Legislature but never delivered, State Republican Party executive secretary Glenn Wilson urged a special subcommittee be formed to investigate the Exon administration's handling of computer services which he described as "lacking in good business judgment."

Hinting at possible favoritism toward Honeywell, Wilson charged that bidding on the computer system, presently costing $1.2 million annually, was reopened amid a shroud of secrecy and false economy.

"In reopening the state computer services question," Wilson said in a copy of the testimony obtained by The Star, "I am concerned that the Exon administration will continue the pattern of mismanagement and false economy begun. . . earlier. . ."

The testimony was supposed to be aired before the Legislature's Executive Board several weeks ago; however, at the last moment board chairman, Sen. Terry Carpenter, postponed the meeting.

It was reportedly going to be rescheduled, but Carpenter said Thursday that unless the full board votes to schedule the testimony, it has been dropped.

Carpenter said the Executive Board will be looking into the bidding on computer services during the summer and next fall.

Bidding on the system was reopened last July by Department of Administrative Services Director Gus Lieske in hopes that a less expensive alternative to IBM could be found.

Bids by Honeywell, Univac and IBM are still being evaluated.

Wilson charged, however, that DAS has attempted to remove a decision on the system from the full view of the public by refusing to disclose methods of evaluation or a comparative rating of bidders.

What DAS is saying boils down to, Wilson said, " 'We'll make the decision as we see fit, and we'll be damned before we will disclose the basis on which that decision was made.' "

He continued, "The refusal . . raises serious questions as to the true motives of the administration in making this computer decision . . . Allowing this type of decision-making is an invitation to arbitrary and capricious government."

These provisions, Wilson charged, violate the fundamental accountability of government

Secondly, Wilson quoted unidentified computer industry experts as saying that the system provided to Nebraska by IBM "was widely regarded as the best state system in the nation."

"According to people in the industry, it is highly unusual for a state to consider switching computer vendors. In a letter to me, a high-level data processor from a larger state said, 'Unless you are able to consolidate onto larger scale equipment and lower operating costs and improve your utilization, it is doubtful that one can gain or stay even on a conversion.' "

The total costs of such a switch, Wilson said, have not yet been completely calculated and made public Calculations which must be considered, he said, include an estimation of time lost before the new system reaches the existing system's capability, softwear costs not borne by the supplier; waste in outmoded supplies, cost of dual operation during installation, and the cost of retraining operators

Secondly, Wilson quoted unidentified computer industry experts as saying that the system provided to Nebraska by IBM "was widely regarded as the best state system in the nation."

"According to people in the industry, it is highly unusual for a state to consider switching computer vendors. In a letter to me, a high-level data processor from a larger state said, 'Unless you are able to consolidate onto larger scale equipment and lower operating costs and improve your utilization, it is doubtful that one can gain or stay even on a conversion.' "

The total costs of such a switch, Wilson said, have not yet been completely calculated and made public. Calculations which must be considered, he said, include: an estimation of time lost before the new system reaches the existing system's capability; softwear costs not borne by the supplier; waste in outmoded supplies; cost of dual operation during installation; and the cost of retraining operators.

Gray Warned President Staff Trying To Hurt Him

L. Patrick Gray III — AP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former FBI acting director L. Patrick Gray III said Thursday that he warned President Nixon last summer "that people on your staff are trying to mortally wound you."

Gray made the disclosure before a closed session of a Senate appropriations subcommittee and was quoted by the subcommittee chairman, Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Gray told the subcommittee, according to McClellan, that he spoke to Nixon last July 6 after agreeing with Lt. Gen. Vernon Walters, deputy CIA director, that confusion had arisen about the investigation of Mexican aspects of the Watergate case.

Former CIA Director Richard Helms has said that last June 23, White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman instructed Walters to tell Gray that the FBI should quash its Mexican investigations for fear of uncovering covert CIA operations in Mexico.

Gray testified Thursday that the message was delivered and the FBI investigation was curtailed for a time, but that he went to Clark MacGregor, director of Nixon's re-election committee, and asked MacGregor to inform Nixon that Haldeman's orders were causing a lot of confusion.

World News

On July 6, Gray said, Nixon called him and Gray told him, "Mr. President, there is something I want to speak to you about. Dick Walters and I feel that people on your staff are trying to mortally wound you by using the CIA and FBI and by confusing the question of CIA interest in, or not in, people the FBI wishes to interview."

McClellan said Gray reported Nixon paused and then replied, "Pat, you just continue to conduct your aggressive and thorough investigation."

Meanwhile, CIA officials told a House subcommittee that the CIA received six letters from Watergate conspirator James W. McCord warning that someone was trying to connect the CIA with the Watergate breakin.

Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the House intelligence subcommittee said CIA officials denied in closed testimony that they tried to cover up the letter but said that CIA Director James R. Schlesinger apparently did not learn about the letters until two days ago.

The letters were described as confused and disjointed "but, put together, they convey the message," Nedzi said.

In another development Thursday, a two-term congressman from Maryland's eastern shore apparently shot himself to death after newspaper disclosures that he received a $25,000 contribution from secret funds of Nixon's campaign finance committee. The contribution to Rep. William O. Mills was not reported to the Maryland Board of Elections, an apparent violation of state law.

Mills, 48, a Republican from Easton, Md., was sent to Congress in a special 1971 election.

Mills' last known public act was a call to a Maryland radio station Wednesday night when he recorded a statement: "I wish to assure everyone that I've done nothing improper."

At the White House, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren reported that despite the Watergate scandals, the administration "is having no trouble recruiting people" for government jobs.

The White House also said that President Nixon would attend Friday morning's swearing in ceremony for the new U.S. attorney general, Elliot L. Richardson.

As he moved over from his last post as secretary of defense to take up the oft-passed reins at the Justice Department, Richardson took a verbal swipe at his two predecessors in the attorney general's chair.

"A kind of sleaziness has infected the way in which things have been done in recent years," Richardson said without naming names or scandals.

Key Figure To Plead Guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key figure in the Watergate scandal will plead guilty without immunity and testify for the prosecution, and indictments of others are expected in 60 to 90 days, U.S. Atty. Harold H. Titus Jr. said Thursday.

Titus said also that the team of federal prosecutors leading the grand jury probe of the scandal will remain on the job. The matter had been in question since a special prosecutor was named to spearhead the overall investigation.

Colson's Candidate Loses To Cook's

Washington (UPI) — A Minneapolis lawyer was named Thursday to be general counsel of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), nudging aside the candidate of former White House aide Charles W. Colson.

Lawrence E. Nerheim, 38, will take over as the SEC's top lawyer about July 1, officials said.

The last person to hold the job was G. Bradford Cook, who moved up to SEC chairman and resigned from that position last week after being mentioned in connection with a financing scheme involving financier Robert L. Vesco.

Nerheim, who has specialized in corporate and securities law in Minneapolis, was Cook's choice to head the commission's legal staff, an SEC spokesman said. The general counsel is traditionally chosen by the chairman with the concurrence of the other four commissioners.

On Wednesday, it was revealed that Colson, a former special counsel to President Nixon, and his law partner, Charles Morin, planned to bring pressure on Cook to name another SEC staff member, Charles King Mallory, to the general counsel's spot.

In a memorandum to Colson — a copy of which was published by the Washington Post — Morin said Mallery's appointment was "of extemem importance to us in representing our clients.

. . . if we want King's appointment to materialize, we have got to lean on Brad (Cook)."

British Scandal Widens; Leader Of Lords Resigns

©The New York Times

Londen — Britain's sex scandal widened Thursday with the resignation of Earl Jellicoe, leader of the House of Lords, who acknowledged that he had engaged in "casual affairs" with prostitutes.

In a letter to Prime Minister Edward Heath, he said there was justification for linking his name "with allegations about a ring of call girls." As a cabinet minister and the holder of the ancient title of Lord Privy Seal, he was a senior member of the government.

The resignation was the second this week. Lord Lambton, under secretary for the Royal Air Force at the Ministry of Defense, resigned his job Tuesday because of his relationship with a prostitute and photographs taken in secret by her husband.

Lord Lambton, a member of the House of Commons and a junior minister, not in the cabinet, was formally served with charges Thursday involving the possession of cannabis (marijuana) and amphetamines. He said he had "no sense of guilt" because of the drugs, which he described, as just "odds and ends."

Clearly embarrassed by the disclosures, Heath went before a crowded House of Commons to offer assurances that "there were no grounds for supposing that any other minister or any member of the public service is involved." He also said there had been "no breach of security" in the Lambton and Jellicoe affairs.

If Heath proves correct and no other government officials become involved, his chances of escaping political harm would appear to be good. The reaction of the Labor Party opposition was rather mild, although one of its members challenged Heath's judgement in selecting the two ministers.

Heath, who personally confronted Lord Jellicoe with the charges Wednesday, has been generally credited with acting swiftly to avoid any weakening of public confidence in his government because of the scandal.

Lord Jellicoe, a 55-year-old peer with a devonair and friendly manner, is a member of a distinguished family, a World War II hero, a former Foreign Office official, and a former first lord of the Admiralty and minister of defense for the Royal Navy.

U.S.S.R. Proposed N-Alliance With U.S. Against Red China

©The New York Times

Washington — A highly-placed administration official said Thursday the Soviet Union had proposed a joint agreement with the United States in 1970 against any "provocative actions" by the Chinese or any other smaller nuclear power.

But the official, commenting on a report of the proposal in a book just published, said the Soviet idea was not taken as a serious proposal by the White House, but rather as a sign of the extreme Sinophobia of the Russians, who had been engaged in border incidents with the Chinese the year before.

John Newhouse, in his book "Cold Dawn: The Story of SALT," said The Russians made the proposal in July, 1970, at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

Vladimir S. Semyonov, a deputy foreign minister, who is head of the Soviet negotiating team at the talks, raised the idea on July 7, 1970, at a meeting in Vienna to Gerard C. Smith, then the chief American negotiator, Newhouse said.

Newhouse, whose book is being serialized by the New Yorker magazine, said Semyonov made the proposal formal three days later. Newhouse, who had high-level assistance in writing his book, is a former staff aide on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and author of several works on diplomacy.

"A stunning glimpse of Moscow's China phobia was provided; on learning of plans for some 'provocative' action or attack, the two sides — the United States and the Soviet Union — would take joint steps to prevent it or, if too late, joint retaliatory action to punish the guilty party," Newhouse wrote.

"The Soviets, in effect, were proposing no less than a superpower alliance against other nuclear powers. Although clearly aimed at China, the proposal risked arousing NATO, whose membership includes two other nuclear powers, Britain and France," he said.

Newhouse said "Washington rejected the idea immediately and just as swiftly informed the other NATO governments, lest they hear of it through another channel and conclude that SALT really did foreshadow a great-power axis or condominium."

Smith, who retired as director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency late last year, refused to comment on the report, in keeping with his policy of not discussing the talks. The State Department also declined to comment.

Birth Rate Falls

LONDON (AP) — Britain's birth rate fell 8 per cent last year to the lowest level in more than 30 years, the government said. There were 14.4 births per 1,000 persons in 1972. The peak birth rate was about 19 per 1,000 in 1964.

Trade Surplus Is First In 1½ Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States had a trade surplus of $196 million in April, the first time exports have exceeded imports in 18 months, the government said Thursday.

Secretary of Commerce Frederick B Dent said the devaluations of the U S. dollar apparently are having "a stimulating effect" on sales of U S. goods abroad.

The government was so pleased at the surplus that Dent called a news conference to release the figures 24 hours ahead of time "for the benefit of the American people and the American community," he said.

The early announcement also seemed designed to bolster the dollar, which is under pressure again on world monetary markets. U S. trade deficits of the past two years have been cited as a major reason for lack of confidence in the dollar.

Although April was a surplus, Dent said it would be "premature to believe we have turned the corner permanently" in trade and added it was too early to predict the over-all trade results for this year.

Exports rose during April to a seasonally adjusted total of $5.48 billion, 2 per cent above March, while imports declined 2.6 per cent to $5.29 billion. It was the third month in a row that exports reached record highs, and the second straight monthly decline for imports.

Prime Rate Raised Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the nation's biggest banks boosted their prime rate to 7¼ per cent Thursday, prompted by Federal Reserve Board efforts to tighten credit and stem inflation.

This means that large business loans will become more expensive and that corporate spending, a major ingredient in economic expansion, should taper off.

Interest rates on loans to small businesses, consumers and mortgages should not be immediately affected

The hike in the borrowing fee banks charge their biggest and best corporate customer was the fifth this year, and raised the prime to its highest level in 2½ years.

The ¼ per cent increase in the prime was first announced by Chase Manhattan Bank, the country's third largest bank, and shortly became industrywide.

Chase and the other banks indicated their increases were linked to recent moves by the Federal Reserve to cool the rate of economic growth by adopting a tough monetary policy.

Raise In Dividend Lid Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is considering easing its voluntary guidelines that limit dividend increases paid by corporations to 4 per cent a year, it was learned Thursday.

Discussions are under way in the Committee on Interest and Dividends to raise the voluntary lid to 5 or 5.5 per cent a year, but the final decision has not been made.

According to sources, the committee took up the question at a recent meeting.

$2.45 An Hour

VIGEVANO, Italy (AP) — An hour's sleep is worth $2.45, a court ruled. The court found a textile company guilty of keeping six citizens awake at night for a total of 900 hours each and ordered the firm to pay them about $2,200 apiece.

Surplus News Boosts Dollar

LONDON (AP) — Gold held steady on European markets Thursday while the U.S. dollar improved slightly after news of a U S. trade surplus in April.

Gold opened and closed in London at $109.75 an ounce, unchanged from Wednesday afternoon. In Zurich, the metal opened at $110.25, 50 cents above the previous close, but closed at $109.75, the same level as Wednesday.

The dollar closed slightly below its best for the day in the key centers of London and Frankfurt.

British Scandal Widens; Leader Of Lords Resigns

©The New York Times

London — Britain's sex scandal widened Thursday with the resignation of Earl Jellicoe, leader of the House of Lords, who acknowledged that he had engaged in "casual affairs" with prostitutes.

In a letter to Prime Minister Edward Heath, he said there was justification for linking his name "with allegations about a ring of call girls." As a cabinet minister and the holder of the ancient title of Lord Privy Seal, he was a senior member of the government.

The resignation was the second this week. Lord Lambton, under secretary for the Royal Air Force at the Ministry of Defense, resigned his job Tuesday because of his relationship with a prostitute and photographs taken in secret by her husband.

Lord Lambton, a member of the House of Commons and a junior minister, not in the cabinet, was formally served with charges Thursday involving the possession of cannabis (marijuana) and amphetamines. He said he had "no sense of guilt" because of the drugs, which he described, as just "odds and ends."

Clearly embarrassed by the disclosures, Heath went before a crowded House of Commons to offer assurances that "there were no grounds for supposing that any other minister or any member of the public service is involved." He also said there had been "no breach of security" in the Lambton and Jellicoe affairs.

If Heath proves correct and no other government officials become involved, his chances of escaping political harm would appear to be good. The reaction of the Labor Party opposition was rather mild, although one of its members challenged Heath's judgement in selecting the two ministers.

Heath, who personally confronted Lord Jellicoe with the charges Wednesday, has been generally credited with acting swiftly to avoid any weakening of public confidence in his government because of the scandal.

Lord Jellicoe, a 55-year-old peer with a devonair and friendly manner, is a member of a distinguished family, a World War II hero, a former Foreign Office official, and a former first lord of the Admiralty and minister of defense for the Royal Navy.

U.S.S.R. Proposed N-Alliance With U.S. Against Red China

©The New York Times

Washington — A highly-placed administration official said Thursday the Soviet Union had proposed a joint agreement with the United States in 1970 against any "provocative actions" by the Chinese or any other smaller nuclear power.

But the official, commenting on a report of the proposal in a book just published, said the Soviet idea was not taken as a serious proposal by the White House, but rather as a sign of the extreme Sinophobia of the Russians, who had been engaged in border incidents with the Chinese the year before.

John Newhouse, in his book "Cold Dawn: The Story of SALT," said The Russians made the proposal in July, 1970, at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

Vladimir S. Semyonov, a deputy foreign minister, who is head of the Soviet negotiating team at the talks, raised the idea on July 7, 1970, at a meeting in Vienna to Gerard C. Smith, then the chief American negotiator, Newhouse said.

Newhouse, whose book is being serialized by the New Yorker magazine, said Semyonov made the proposal formal three days later. Newhouse, who had high-level assistance in writing his book, is a former staff aide on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and author of several works on diplomacy.

"A stunning glimpse of Moscow's China phobia was provided; on learning of plans for some 'provocative' action or attack, the two sides — the United States and the Soviet Union — would take joint steps to prevent it or, if too late, joint retaliatory action to punish the guilty party," Newhouse wrote.

"The Soviets, in effect, were proposing no less than a superpower alliance against other nuclear powers. Although clearly aimed at China, the proposal risked arousing NATO, whose membership includes two other nuclear powers, Britain and France," he said.

Newhouse said "Washington rejected the idea immediately and just as swiftly informed the other NATO governments, lest they hear of it through another channel and conclude that SALT really did foreshadow a great-power axis or condominium."

Smith, who retired as director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency late last year, refused to comment on the report, in keeping with his policy of not discussing the talks. The State Department also declined to comment.

Birth Rate Falls

LONDON (AP) — Britain's birth rate fell 8 per cent last year to the lowest level in more than 30 years, the government said. There were 14.4 births per 1,000 persons in 1972. The peak birth rate was about 19 per 1,000 in 1964.

Trade Surplus Is First In 1½ Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States had a trade surplus of $196 million in April, the first time exports have exceeded imports in 18 months, the government said Thursday.

Secretary of Commerce Frederick B. Dent said the devaluations of the U.S. dollar apparently are having "a stimulating effect" on sales of U.S. goods abroad.

The government was so pleased at the surplus that Dent called a news conference to release the figures 24 hours ahead of time "for the benefit of the American people and the American community," he said.

The early announcement also seemed designed to bolster the dollar, which is under pressure again on world monetary markets. U.S. trade deficits of the past two years have been cited as a major reason for lack of confidence in the dollar.

Although April was a surplus, Dent said it would be "premature to believe we have turned the corner permanently" in trade and added it was too early to predict the over-all trade results for this year.

Exports rose during April to a seasonally adjusted total of $5.48 billion, 2 per cent above March, while imports declined 2.6 per cent to $5.29 billion. It was the third month in a row that exports reached record highs, and the second straight monthly decline for imports.

Prime Rate Raised Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the nation's biggest banks boosted their prime rate to 7¼ per cent Thursday, prompted by Federal Reserve Board efforts to tighten credit and stem inflation.

This means that large business loans will become more expensive and that corporate spending, a major ingredient in economic expansion, should taper off.

Interest rates on loans to small businesses, consumers and mortgages should not be immediately affected.

The hike in the borrowing fee banks charge their biggest and best corporate customer was the fifth this year, and raised the prime to its highest level in 2½ years.

The ¼ per cent increase in the prime was first announced by Chase Manhattan Bank, the country's third largest bank, and shortly became industrywide.

Chase and the other banks indicated their increases were linked to recent moves by the Federal Reserve to cool the rate of economic growth by adopting a tough monetary policy.

Raise In Dividend Lid Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is considering easing its voluntary guidelines that limit dividend increases paid by corporations to 4 per cent a year, it was learned Thursday.

Discussions are under way in the Committee on Interest and Dividends to raise the voluntary lid to 5 or 5.5 per cent a year, but the final decision has not been made.

According to sources, the committee took up the question at a recent meeting.

VIGEVANO, Italy (AP) — An hour's sleep is worth $2.45, a court ruled. The court found a textile company guilty of keeping six citizens awake at night for a total of 900 hours each and ordered the firm to pay them about $2,200 apiece.

Surplus News Boosts Dollar

LONDON (AP) — Gold held steady on European markets Thursday while the U.S. dollar improved slightly after news of a U.S. trade surplus in April.

Gold opened and closed in London at $109.75 an ounce, unchanged from Wednesday afternoon. In Zurich, the metal opened at $110.25, 50 cents above the previous close, but closed at $109.75, the same level as Wednesday.

The dollar closed slightly below its best for the day in the key centers of London and Frankfurt.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Will Lincoln and Lancaster County now have a single, consolidated government? Such was the ultimate intent behind the now completed report of Arthur D. Little, Inc., of California, a firm hired jointly by the city, county and the Lincoln Foundation.

The report has added weight to the consolidation movement, an end it would seek to achieve or at least begin to achieve within the next 10 years. In the meantime, the consultants recommend a series of steps leading to and facilitating the ultimate merger of the two governments.

There are many obstacles in the way of consummation of this report and anyone who thinks that we are now off and running just hasn't bothered to seriously consider things. We have been talking in this area about consolidation for at least two decades but have really achieved very little.

Consultants pointed out the very real possibility of such a report becoming nothing more than a dust-catcher on shelves here and there in public and semi-public places. One method it recommends to avoid this is creation of a County-City Implementation Commission, a group to push for those changes in the immediate future that would permit an ultimate consolidation.

If this is not done, if such an implementing body is not created, the work and expense of the Little firm will have been wasted. We would offer, however, a suggestion to the city and county as the two bodies consider such action.

The commission as recommended would include five members, four of them existing city and county officials and one from the Lincoln Foundation. Our suggestion is that the commission be larger than this.

We fully recognize the dangers of getting a body so large that it becomes unwieldy, that it cannot come to an agreement on anything. Still, we do not believe a seven-member commission would run much of such a risk and even a nine-member body might not be out of line.

This would permit more citizen input, part of it from the city of Lincoln and part of it from the rural area of the county. Such a change would encourage greater public confidence in the work of the group and would help break down any political divisions that might deadlock the dominantly officials' body as now recommended.

Such an implementing commission would still be but a bare beginning to things. To pave the way for full consolidation, the group would have to accomplish much more coming together on a voluntary basis of various city and county work than is now the case.

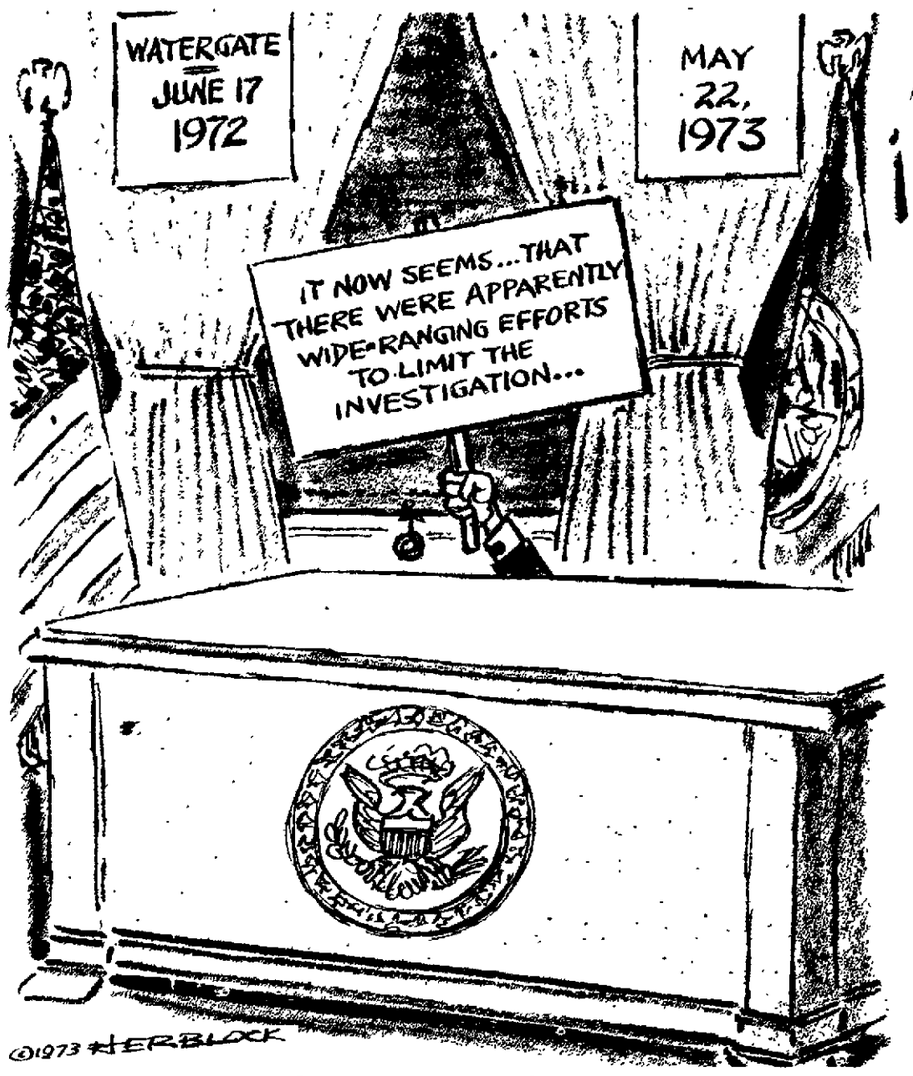
Additionally, the commission would have to seek the legal authorities that might be needed at the state level to achieve an ultimate consolidation, would need to bring about the administrative changes in the county's operations that must precede consolidation and would need to conduct a constant program of public education.

Obviously, such a commission is a key element of consolidation, the foundation on which any future change must be laid. It is vital, therefore, that the city and county waste no time in appointing this group and that both give the matter careful thought in advance.

The Star agrees wholeheartedly with the conclusions of the Little firm as to the value in an ultimate single city-county government. We have not indicted past or present performance in reaching such a conclusion but have realized the promise such a move holds.

It is not, therefore, so much a matter of what has been wrong, but rather, a matter of how better things might be if we have the will to make them so.



Another Round To RMN

Despite all his troubles, President Nixon's strangle hold on Congress has not grown completely limp as indicated in the latest round of the executive-legislative power struggle going on in Washington.

Buoyed by the Watergate blows to the President's standing, Congress was expected to mount counterattacks against the White House in efforts to reassert itself as a coequal branch of government.

One attack fell short Wednesday, as the House failed by 40 votes to override the President's veto of a bill to require Senate approval of his top budget aides.

The Senate voted 62-22 to override earlier in the week. But the majority Democrats could not corral enough Republican votes in the House to enact the law over the President's objections.

The legislation would have abolished the jobs of Director Roy Ash and Deputy Director Frederic Malek of the President's Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and would have promptly set up similar posts requiring the new step of Senate confirmation of presidential nominees, such as is required for appointees to the executive's cabinet.

Backers of the bill agreed that one of the major reasons for its enactment was to be able to question Ash about his activities as head of Litton Industries, a conglomerate with millions in federal military contracts. But there were more persuasive arguments behind the bill.

Tucked away safely in the executive branch, the OMB is one of the most powerful and least accessible offices in government. It is the dark hole through which money appropriated by Congress falls into limbo. It is little wonder, then, that a majority in Congress would at least want to have the Senate be able to question the people who head it and pass on their appointments.

A commendable showing of independence was put on by Rep. John McCollister of Omaha, the only House member from Nebraska and one of only 18 Republicans to join in the override attempt. The issue was that the OMB, by being able to control spending, "literally controls every agency and department in the executive branch," McCollister said. "I simply felt Congress should have an oversight privilege when it comes to naming two men who wield as much power as the heads of OMB do."

We think McCollister was right, and he was in the majority. But not the required two-thirds majority. Thus President Nixon, with his nose just barely above Watergate, wins another big battle with Congress.

Tax Cut Pondered

It isn't easy to pin down exactly what happened at the Legislature Wednesday, when senators twice rejected an opportunity to reduce the 1973 personal income tax rate from 15% to 13%.

Apparently it wasn't clear to the lawmakers themselves, because Thursday they executed an about face and attached a tax reduction rider on a bill which will receive final reading on June 1, the last day of the session. With the question still up in the air, the background of Wednesday's action is illuminating

The state will collect an estimated $15 6 million more than it needs to fund all 1973-74 budget bills and all other spending measures still pending before the Legislature, noted Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, who proposed the tax cut. A reduction of the income tax rate to 13% would return about $12 million of that surplus to the taxpayers, he estimated.

But Warner's motion to reduce the income tax rate failed on a 21-18 vote and a subsequent motion to reconsider by Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln fell one vote short on a 24-18 count.

Warner said he was not sure he understood why the proposal was rejected, although he and other senators pointed to possible explanations: that some opposition votes were designed to give Gov. Exon an opportunity to reduce rates for 1974 through the State Board of Equalization; that some senators opposed a reduction in income tax rates without a corresponding cut in the sales tax and that there was a feeling that a tax cut in 1974, an election year, would be more beneficial politically than a reduction in 1973.

Two points are clear, however, even though surrounded by misty reasoning by the senators as exemplified by the Thursday turnabout.

There is a surplus, and it could have gone to fund neglected state programs if the Legislature so desired. We wouldn't have opposed that.

There is a surplus, and the income tax rate can be reduced this year.

If the tax reduction is killed next Friday, the lawmakers have some explaining to do.

When We Don't Protest

One of the lessons we ought to have learned again from Watergate is something we begin drilling into our kids from the day they can wander around the neighborhood.

If other kids are doing something bad, we say, you don't have to join. You just leave.

My own children have translated that into an understanding that if they are with a group of youngsters who are throwing rocks at somebody's windows, they too might be "in for arrest" (as they say it) even though they were doing nothing but being part of the group.

One day when I arrived home from work, they asked me if I would be "in for arrest" if I went into a bank with bank robbers, even though I wasn't the one who demanded the money.

The lesson, at least for that day, was learned.

That's a lesson that might have been more in the minds of some of those in the highest levels of government during the past year.

It's a lesson many of them are apparently re-learning now.

Too many people in Washington simply went along, silently, without stopping to wonder long enough about the morality of their involvement in the shady dealings that surrounded Watergate.

In a way, that's true not only of those who were involved in the executive branch, but also those in the Congress, who waited until after the President's two or three top aides had been ousted to announce that they had been a bad influence on the operations of government.

Where were those congressmen when we really needed them?

We pay great lip service in the country to the well-established tradition of protest when we don't agree.

And yet, occasionally, when the chips are down, we simply sit back and let matters take their course.

Perhaps now, with Watergate, the value of the responsible protest will take on new and greater meaning.

Those congressmen, and columnists as well, who became very vocal about the bad influence of Haldeman and Ehrlichman after those two had departed might have been as vocal before . . . long before.

And the people inside the executive branch, or in the Committee to Re-Elect the President, who simply took orders might have said "no" on occasion, even if it meant finding a new job.

But they didn't, and now they are trooping to the Senate committee hearings, admitting they should have known better.

Some of them apparently merely went along, others silently consented even if they weren't so directly involved.

But even those who did nothing but remain silent must be as guilty as are the many of us who remained so silent during the many long years of the Vietnam war.

In that instance, we let those who had the courage do the protesting and then, when they had turned the tide, we patted ourselves for our silent support of their cause.

But then, of course, since we were so silent, no one really knew where we stood.

The same might be said of Watergate.

Another thing that bothers me a bit about Watergate, and about government in general, is the tendency to want to hide the weaknesses and glorify the strengths.

There's much to be said for giving praise where praise is due, but there's little to be said for ignoring what's wrong.

If we don't get the major weaknesses out in the open where everyone can look at them, how can we expect much of an effort to correct them?

That sort of question bothered me last year when the Nixonians kept saying we should talk about what's right with America, not what's wrong with it.

That was a good campaign theme, of course, since incumbents' opponents have little choice usually but to dwell on the weaknesses they hope will topple those in power.

But, as an operating policy, we ought to urge those in power to pay close attention to what needs improvement, and to do that with enough public exposure to give the people a chance to speak out on the solutions.

At the same time, we ought to be understanding and appreciative of the things done well.

Too often, perhaps, people in power begin to believe they are serving something other than the public interest. That seems to be especially true as we get closer to the great centers of power.

It's the job of the public, including the news media, to remind them otherwise.

And it's the duty of all of us to protest when we don't agree, while praising when we do.

Haig In White House Post Watched Closely By Press

WASHINGTON — "Keep your eye on Al," advised a headline in Parade magazine last Aug. 20. "Gen. Alexander Haig. That Is. His Star Is Rising." And how! When the Parade article on Haig appeared, he was a two-star general serving as the chief military aide to presidential adviser Henry A Kissinger. Less than three weeks later, President Nixon announced his intention to put two more stars on Haig's epaulets and appoint him as Army vice chief of staff.

Pretty heady stuff for a senior military officer who has never commanded an Army Division. But the best was yet to come. On May 4, four days after his speech on Watergate, the President named Haig to an interim appointment as chief of the White House staff.

Haig's competence is unquestioned, and he is admired by leading figures in both major political parties. All the same, some observers find it discomforting to have an active-duty military officer as the President's right-hand man, if only for a limited period

Ralph Nader has contended, in fact, that Haig's appointment violates federal law. Nader's claim rests on a 1968 statute which states, in part: "Except as otherwise provided by law, no officer on the active list of the Regular Army , may hold a office by election or appointment, whether under the United States, a Territory or possession, or a State. The acceptance of such a civil office or the exercise of its functions by such an officer terminates his military appointment."

The operative word here is "active." Previous presidents have called upon military men for advice on domestic affairs, but in almost every instance the advisers had retired from the armed services

Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, was implicated in the "deep freeze" and five-percenter" scandals of the late 1940s. A reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch caustically observed at the time. "The duties of a military aide, as interpreted and expanded by the expansive Vaughan, have to do with racetracks and gamblers, with lumber for betting pavilions as opposed to lumber for veteran's houses, with grain for distillers as opposed to grain to ease the meat shortages, and with con men men, convicts — and even philanthropists and patriots On occasion the military aide finds himself under investigation by the FBI, but the Department of Justice never pins a thing on him."

The only major scandal involving Dwight D. Eisenhower, Truman's successor, involved Sherman Adams, Ike's chief White House assistant. Adams had to go, and he did. His replacement was retired Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, who served as Adams' deputy since the beginning of the Eisenhower administration.

Haig's performance at the White House no doubt will be closely watched by the press corps And not solely because he is on active duty or because of Watergate A number of students of government are concerned about the apparently increasing role of the military in American foreign and domestic policy

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Confessions Of A President

WASHINGTON — In one of the most remarkable statements ever issued by the White House, the President made these confessions:

1 A bureaucratic civil war took place in the intelligence community in 1970, pitting J. Edgar Hoover's FBI against our foreign intelligence agencies on the issue of whether to resume authority, ended in 1966, permitting U S agents to burglarize for national security reasons. Hoover, who did not want his men involved in this kind of operation, won. Cooperation between agencies bogged down and our intelligence "deteriorated."

2. The President stated, "I approved" the creation of the unit called "The Plumbers" to investigate national security leaks after the publication of the Pentagon Papers, and "I told Mr. Krogh that as a matter of first priority, this unit should find out all it could about Mr. Ellsberg's associates and his motives."

3 The President asserted he told Assistant Attorney General Peterson to "confine his investigation to Watergate and stay out of national security matters." That means the President obstructed the investigation to the extent he felt necessary to protect national security. If his accusers want to say that makes him part of a "cover-up," so be it, which also applies to the next point:

4 The President said, "I instructed Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichman to ensure that the investigation of the break-in not expose either an unrelated covert operation of the CIA or the activities of the White House investigations unit . . ."

5. "It is clear that unethical as well as illegal activities took place in the course of that 1972 campaign. None of these took place with my specific approval or knowledge." The President is a lawyer, and is advised by men who are careful about every word in a written statement; the addition of the word "specific" before "approval or knowledge" is probably the greatest single confession of error in the document.

The President's confessions — and these are only a handful of those made in the statement — are confessions of error, not of guilt. He says he misjudged, he did not intend; he "should have been more vigilant."

Since the statement seems to raise more questions than it answers, why did the President put it out?

It enables the men he mentions — Haldeman, Ehrlichman Krogh, Deputy CIA Chief Walters — to testify truthfully without seeming disloyal to the President.

It puts information out in a big bucket — not drop by drop, as in the cartoon of water torture inflicted on the Republican party in the post-Harding era.

It reminds the fair-minded of the context of the times; now that Vietnam is over, we tend to forget the fury of the opposition to the war and the real domestic threats some of the protestors posed.

It tries to separate dirty politics, which is unconscionable, from the dirty but somewhat more conscionable, business or stretching or breaking laws in behalf of national security.

It lays the basis for a news conference in which the President can speak like a lawyer in court, making references to a detailed brief, and not like a defendant telling the story for the first time.

Most important, the statement focuses attention on the dilemma that drew the Nixon administration into the supersnoop business in the first place: at what point does the defense of our system corrupt our system?

It is satisfying to say "once you admit it might be right to break the law for good ends, you wind up breaking it for bad ends." Or "an obsession with security leads to political paranoia, and the overreaction to dissent turns leaders into would-be dictators." or, in regard to association with people you have degraded by requiring them to do the dirty work, to apply the adage, "when you lay down with dogs, you get up with fleas."

There is much truth in that, but how far are we willing to take the argument? How do we protect our secrets? Is it such a good idea to try to uncover another country's secrets? Do we need a covert operation in CIA at all anymore?

The President, after two months, has decided upon a strategy to deal with Watergate: to admit error rather than guilt, and to change the battleground from "Was the President involved in these sleazy political shenanigans?" to a loftier "What liberties are we prepared to give up for national security?"

For a man with his back to the wall, it is a daring strategy, but it is risky, too — for one of the fruits of the detente Nixon brought about is a long-awaited lessening of the lust for secrecy, and another is a growing reluctance to subvert the law in the name of national security.

Not So Smart

Lincoln, Neb.

Isn't it a shame so many men have to make a trip to the moon in order to believe in God? The very air they breathe is provided by Him, let alone all the beauty of spring when trees, grass and flowers come to life after a long cold winter.

If that's what it takes to make men believe, we should send a lot more up there, but some wouldn't believe regardless of what is given them. Too many take life for granted and holler that they don't get more, or they abuse their bodies as youths and wonder why they suffer in later life. God told us we'll reap what we sow.

Man is so worldly minded, he has no time for God, but when the day of judgment comes, then what? It will be too late to correct our mistakes. All that must be corrected while we have time.

Man thinks he controls the world, but when a flood comes, I have yet to see the first man stop it. There's a Greater One who still has control and always will, regardless of how smart men claim to be.

The Price

Nelson, Neb.

Sometime during the week of May 15-20 while I was in Lincoln, a completely destructive defoliant was sprayed on all the mulberry trees in one locality. Some were bearing for the first time, heavily fruited, thanks to lots of rain.

This is wanton permanent destruction of an excellent fresh fruit source, as well as a loss of considerable nourishment for birds and squirrels. Why?

The trees are all around the cottage. Going out of either door was formerly a pleasure, now a negative experience. The selfish, shameless perpetrators are to be pitied. As Pascal well said, one must live as though God is there and cares.

This loss is one more example of the price exacted from helpless, innocent, harmless persons by frustrated, put-down individuals suffering inferiority complexes as a result of a culture, an environment which needs a big overhaul and reorientation to the cooperative principles of the nation's founders.

Up with all humanity!

Lincoln, Neb.

In response to Dominick Costello's "Spotlight on Agriculture" column (April 23 Star), we would like to inform Mr. Costello that the National Audubon Society has long supported the predator control program to which he refers.

Ironically, he might have an ally in the NAS if he weren't inclined to misrepresent its position. If the alternative were a return to wholesale poisoning occasioned by increased pressure from the wool lobby, NAS would certainly back whatever funding and manpower measures are necessary to make the extension hunter-trapper system effective.

Nowhere in the society's recent congressional testimony is there to be found any direct or indirect suggestion that "the nation needs fewer sheep and more coyotes and eagles." This is Mr Costello's own misinterpretation from the Audubon testimony and news release. Although coyotes should not be mindlessly persecuted, they need to be controlled within reasonable numbers, as we control deer and pheasant populations with regulated hunting. Eagles are simply not populous enough, even in Wyoming, to threaten the sheep rancher or anyone else.

Audubon testimony pointed out the inequitable nature of the federal wool subsidy program which doles out as much as $200,000 to certain individuals who are known slaughters of eagles NAS testimony further noted that these same ranchers are those applying pressure on Congress to return predator control to the states, where it would presumably be within closer reach of the wool lobby.

Mr. Costello's mention of NAS's New York City address was apparently an attempt to tip off his farm constituency that these are big-city folk who care nothing for the welfare of the farmer. On the contrary, Audubon is a grass-roots organization with over 280 local chapters (including five in Nebraska) which strives to sympathize with the economic problems of all those livelihood is in the long-term best interest of the general public.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Will Lincoln and Lancaster County now have a single, consolidated government? Such was the ultimate intent behind the now completed report of Arthur D. Little, Inc., of California, a firm hired jointly by the city, county and the Lincoln Foundation.

The report has added weight to the consolidation movement, an end it would seek to achieve or at least begin to achieve within the next 10 years. In the meantime, the consultants recommend a series of steps leading to and facilitating the ultimate merger of the two governments.

There are many obstacles in the way of consummation of this report and anyone who thinks that we are now off and running just hasn't bothered to seriously consider things. We have been talking in this area about consolidation for at least two decades but have really achieved very little.

Consultants pointed out the very real possibility of such a report becoming nothing more than a dust-catcher on shelves here and there in public and semi-public places. One method it recommends to avoid this is creation of a County-City Implementation Commission, a group to push for those changes in the immediate future that would permit an ultimate consolidation.

If this is not done, if such an implementing body is not created, the work and expense of the Little firm will have been wasted. We would offer, however, a suggestion to the city and county as the two bodies consider such action.

The commission as recommended would include five members, four of them existing city and county officials and one from the Lincoln Foundation. Our suggestion is that the commission be larger than this.

We fully recognize the dangers of getting a body so large that it becomes unwieldy, that it cannot come to an agreement on anything. Still, we do not believe a seven-member commission would run much of such a risk and even a nine-member body might not be out of line.

This would permit more citizen input, part of it from the city of Lincoln and part of it from the rural area of the county. Such a change would encourage greater public confidence in the work of the group and would help break down any political divisions that might deadlock the dominantly officials' body as now recommended.

Such an implementing commission would still be but a bare beginning to things. To pave the way for full consolidation, the group would have to accomplish much more coming together on a voluntary basis of various city and county work than is now the case.

Additionally, the commission would have to seek the legal authorities that might be needed at the state level to achieve an ultimate consolidation, would need to bring about the administrative changes in the county's operations that must precede consolidation and would need to conduct a constant program of public education.

Obviously, such a commission is a key element of consolidation, the foundation on which any future change must be laid. It is vital, therefore, that the city and county waste no time in appointing this group and that both give the matter careful thought in advance.

The Star agrees wholeheartedly with the conclusions of the Little firm as to the value in an ultimate single city-county government. We have not indicted past or present performance in reaching such a conclusion but have realized the promise such a move holds.

It is not, therefore, so much a matter of what has been wrong, but rather, a matter of how better things might be if we have the will to make them so.

Another Round To RMN

Despite all his troubles, President Nixon's strangle hold on Congress has not grown completely limp as indicated in the latest round of the executive-legislative power struggle going on in Washington.

Buoyed by the Watergate blows to the President's standing, Congress was expected to mount counterattacks against the White House in efforts to reassert itself as a coequal branch of government.

One attack fell short Wednesday, as the House failed by 40 votes to override the President's veto of a bill to require Senate approval of his top budget aides.

The Senate voted 62-22 to override earlier in the week. But the majority Democrats could not corral enough Republican votes in the House to enact the law over the President's objections.

The legislation would have abolished the jobs of Director Roy Ash and Deputy Director Frederic Malek of the President's Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and would have promptly set up similar posts requiring the new step of Senate confirmation of presidential nominees, such as is required for appointees to the executive's cabinet.

Backers of the bill agreed that one of the major reasons for its enactment was to be able to question Ash about his activities as head of Litton Industries, a conglomerate with millions in federal military contracts. But there were more persuasive arguments behind the bill.

Tucked away safely in the executive branch, the OMB is one of the most powerful and least accessible offices in government. It is the dark hole through which money appropriated by Congress falls into limbo. It is little wonder, then, that a majority in Congress would at least want to have the Senate be able to question the people who head it and pass on their appointments.

A commendable showing of independence was put on by Rep. John McCollister of Omaha, the only House member from Nebraska and one of only 18 Republicans to join in the override attempt. The issue was that the OMB, by being able to control spending, "literally controls every agency and department in the executive branch," McCollister said. "I simply felt Congress should have an oversight privilege when it comes to naming two men who wield as much power as the heads of OMB do."

We think McCollister was right, and he was in the majority. But not the required two-thirds majority. Thus President Nixon, with his nose just barely above Watergate, wins another big battle with Congress.

Tax Cut Pondered

It isn't easy to pin down exactly what happened at the Legislature Wednesday, when senators twice rejected an opportunity to reduce the 1973 personal income tax rate from 15% to 13%.

Apparently it wasn't clear to the lawmakers themselves, because Thursday they executed an about face and attached a tax reduction rider on a bill which will receive final reading on June 1, the last day of the session. With the question still up in the air, the background of Wednesday's action is illuminating.

The state will collect an estimated $15.6 million more than it needs to fund all 1973-74 budget bills and all other spending measures still pending before the Legislature, noted Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, who proposed the tax cut. A reduction of the income tax rate to 13% would return about $12 million of that surplus to the taxpayers, he estimated.

But Warner's motion to reduce the income tax rate failed on a 21-18 vote and a subsequent motion to reconsider by Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln fell one vote short on a 24-18 count.

Warner said he was not sure he understood why the proposal was rejected, although he and other senators pointed to possible explanations: that some opposition votes were designed to give Gov. Exon an opportunity to reduce rates for 1974 through the State Board of Equalization; that some senators opposed a reduction in income tax rates without a corresponding cut in the sales tax and that there was a feeling that a tax cut in 1974, an election year, would be more beneficial politically than a reduction in 1973.

Two points are clear, however, even though surrounded by misty reasoning by the senators as exemplified by the Thursday turnabout.

There is a surplus, and it could have gone to fund neglected state programs if the Legislature so desired. We wouldn't have opposed that.

There is a surplus, and the income tax rate can be reduced this year.

If the tax reduction is killed next Friday, the lawmakers have some explaining to do.

When We Don't Protest

One of the lessons we ought to have learned again from Watergate is something we begin drilling into our kids from the day they can wander around the neighborhood.

If other kids are doing something bad, we say, you don't have to join. You just leave.

My own children have translated that into an understanding that if they are with a group of youngsters who are throwing rocks at somebody's windows, they too might be "in for arrest" (as they say it) even though they were doing nothing but being part of the group.

One day when I arrived home from work, they asked me if I would be "in for arrest" if I went into a bank with bank robbers, even though I wasn't the one who demanded the money.

The lesson, at least for that day, was learned.

That's a lesson that might have been more in the minds of some of those in the highest levels of government during the past year.

It's a lesson many of them are apparently re-learning now.

Too many people in Washington simply went along, silently, without stopping to wonder long enough about the morality of their involvement in the shady dealings that surrounded Watergate.

In a way, that's true not only of those who were involved in the executive branch, but also those in the Congress, who waited until after the President's two or three top aides had been ousted to announce that they had been a bad influence on the operations of government.

Where were those congressmen when we really needed them?

We pay great lip service in the country to the well-established tradition of protest when we don't agree.

And yet, occasionally, when the chips are down, we simply sit back and let matters take their course.

Perhaps now, with Watergate, the value of the responsible protest will take on new and greater meaning.

Those congressmen, and columnists as well, who became very vocal about the bad influence of Haldeman and Ehrlichman after those two had departed might have been as vocal before . . . long before.

And the people inside the executive branch, or in the Committee to Re-Elect the President, who simply took orders might have said "no" on occasion, even if it meant finding a new job.

But they didn't, and now they are trooping to the Senate committee hearings, admitting they should have known better.

Some of them apparently merely went along, others silently consented even if they weren't so directly involved.

But even those who did nothing but remain silent must be as guilty as are the many of us who remained so silent during the many long years of the Vietnam war.

In that instance, we let those who had the courage do the protesting and then, when they had turned the tide, we patted ourselves for our silent support of their cause.

But then, of course, since we were so silent, no one really knew where we stood.

The same might be said of Watergate.

Another thing that bothers me a bit about Watergate, and about government in general, is the tendency to want to hide the weaknesses and glorify the strengths.

There's much to be said for giving praise where praise is due, but there's little to be said for ignoring what's wrong.

If we don't get the major weaknesses out in the open where everyone can look at them, how can we expect much of an effort to correct them?

That sort of question bothered me last year when the Nixonians kept saying we should talk about what's right with America, not what's wrong with it.

That was a good campaign theme, of course, since incumbents' opponents have little choice usually but to dwell on the weaknesses they hope will topple those in power.

But, as an operating policy, we ought to urge those in power to pay close attention to what needs improvement, and to do that with enough public exposure to give the people a chance to speak out on the solutions.

At the same time, we ought to be understanding and appreciative of the things done well.

Too often, perhaps, people in power begin to believe they are serving something other than the public interest. That seems to be especially true as we get closer to the great centers of power.

It's the job of the public, including the news media, to remind them otherwise.

And it's the duty of all of us to protest when we don't agree, while praising when we do.

Haig In White House Post Watched Closely By Press

WASHINGTON — "Keep your eye on Al," advised a headline in Parade magazine last Aug. 20. "Gen. Alexander Haig. That Is. His Star Is Rising." And how! When the Parade article on Haig appeared, he was a two-star general serving as the chief military aide to presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger. Less than three weeks later, President Nixon announced his intention to put two more stars on Haig's epaulets and appoint him as Army vice chief of staff.

Pretty heady stuff for a senior military officer who has never commanded an Army Division. But the best was yet to come. On May 4, four days after his speech on Watergate, the President named Haig to an interim appointment as chief of the White House staff.

Haig's competence is un questioned, and he is admired by leading figures in both major political parties. All the same, some observers find it discomforting to have an active-duty military officer as the President's right-hand man, if only for a limited period.

Ralph Nader has contended, in fact, that Haig's appointment violates federal law. Nader's claim rests on a 1968 statute which states, in part: "Except as otherwise provided by law, no officer on the active list of the Regular Army . may hold a office by election or appointment, whether under the United States, a Territory or possession, or a State. The acceptance of such a civil office or the exercise of its functions by such an officer terminates his military appointment."

The operative word here is "active." Previous presidents have called upon military men for advice on domestic affairs, but in almost every instance the advisers had retired from the armed services.

Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, was implicated in the "deep freeze" and five-percenter" scandals of the late 1940s. A reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch caustically observed at the time: "The duties of a military aide, as interpreted and expanded by the expansive Vaughan, have to do with racetracks and gamblers, with lumber for betting pavilions as opposed to lumber for veteran's houses, with grain for distillers as opposed to grain to ease the meat shortages, and with con men men, convicts — and even philanthropists and patriots. On occasion the military aide finds himself under investigation by the FBI, but the Department of Justice never pins a thing on him."

The only major scandal involving Dwight D. Eisenhower, Truman's successor, involved Sherman Adams, Ike's chief White House assistant. Adams had to go, and he did. His replacement was retired Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, who served as Adams' deputy since the beginning of the Eisenhower administration.

Haig's performance at the White House no doubt will be closely watched by the press corps. And not solely because he is on active duty or because of Watergate. A number of students of government are concerned about the apparently increasing role of the military in American foreign and domestic policy

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Confessions Of A President

WASHINGTON — In one of the most remarkable statements ever issued by the White House, the President made these confessions:

1. A bureaucratic civil war took place in the intelligence community in 1970, pitting J. Edgar Hoover's FBI against our foreign intelligence agencies on the issue of whether to resume authority, ended in 1966, permitting U.S. agents to burglarize for national security reasons. Hoover, who did not want his men involved in this kind of operation, won. Cooperation between agencies bogged down and our intelligence "deteriorated."

2. The President stated, "I approved" the creation of the unit called "The Plumbers" to investigate national security leaks after the publication of the Pentagon Papers, and "I told Mr. Krogh that as a matter of first priority, this unit should find out all it could about Mr. Ellsberg's associates and his motives."

3. The President asserted he told Assistant Attorney General Peterson to "confine his investigation to Watergate and stay out of national security matters." That means the President obstructed the investigation to the extent he felt necessary to protect national security. If his accusers want to say that makes him part of a "cover-up," so be it, which also applies to the next point:

4. The President said, "I instructed Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichman to ensure that the investigation of the break-in not expose either an unrelated covert operation of the CIA or the activities of the White House investigations unit . . ."

5. "It is clear that unethical as well as illegal activities took place in the course of that 1972 campaign. None of these took place with my specific approval or knowledge." The President is a lawyer, and is advised by men who are careful about every word in a written statement; the addition of the word "specific" before "approval or knowledge" is probably the greatest single confession of error in the document.

☆☆☆

The President's confessions — and these are only a handful of those made in the statement — are contessions of error, not of guilt. He says he misjudged; he did not intend; he "should have been more vigilant."

Since the statement seems to raise more questions than it answers, why did the President put it out?

It enables the men he mentions — Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Krogh, Deputy CIA Chief Walters — to testify truthfully without seeming disloyal to the President.

It puts information out in a big bucket — not drop by drop, as in the cartoon of water torture inflicted on the Republican party in the post-Harding era.

It reminds the fair-minded of the context of the times; now that Vietnam is over, we tend to forget the fury of the opposition to the war and the real domestic threats some of the protestors posed.

It tries to separate dirty politics, which is unconscionable, from the dirty but somewhat more conscionable, business or stretching or breaking laws in behalf of national security.

It lays the basis for a news conference in which the President can speak like a lawyer in court, making references to a detailed brief, and not like a defendant telling the story for the first time.

Most important, the statement focuses attention on the dilemma that drew the Nixon administration into the supersnoop business in the first place: at what point does the defense of our system corrupt our system?

It is satisfying to say "once you admit it might be right to break the law for good ends, you wind up breaking it for bad ends." Or "an obsession with security leads to political paranoia, and the overreaction to dissent turns leaders into would-be dictators." or, in regard to association with people you have degraded by requiring them to do the dirty work, to apply the adage, "when you lay down with dogs, you get up with fleas."

There is much truth in that, but how far are we willing to take the argument? How do we protect our secrets? Is it such a good idea to try to uncover another country's secrets? Do we need a covert operation in CIA at all anymore?

The President, after two months, has decided upon a strategy to deal with Watergate: to admit error rather than guilt, and to change the battleground from "Was the President involved in these sleazy political shenanigans?" to a loftier "What liberties are we prepared to give up for national security?"

For a man with his back to the wall, it is a daring strategy, but it is risky, too — for one of the fruits of the detente Nixon brought about is a long-awaited lessening of the lust for secrecy, and another is a growing reluctance to subvert the law in the name of national security.

Wheat Farmers Advised To Plan On Storing Grain

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Nebraska's wheat farmers will probably have to store a part of their 1973 wheat crop on their own farms due to a shortage of commercial storage space and rail equipment to move the grain to market, according to Howard Elm, executive director of the Nebraska Grain Dealers Association.

In a review of the grain situation issued from the organization's Lincoln office Thursday, Elm expressed concern over the apparent lack of understanding of elevator operator problems by farmers.

Calling for better communications between farmers and elevator operators, Elm said, "The problem that farmers were the most concerned with and understood the least was the vast difference in the daily cash bid between elevators in the same areas."

Cars Made Difference

"The differences ranged from a few cents a bushel to instances where the elevator could not bid on grain at all. The elevators had differences in price because of the availability of cars to one elevator and none were available at another elevator."

"Some had grain sold in advance they were unable to get rail cars to ship so they were unable to buy any grain at all for a considerable period of time," Elm said.

Elm reported that most elevators were facing the largest combination of unknown factors related to a new crop in history.

Storage Available

Elm noted that most country elevators had some storage available because of the movement of grain owned by the government into trade channels.

"We will not have sufficient cars to move the wheat to market. What cannot be stored at elevators must be stored on the farms in farmers' own storage," he said.

Elm indicated that a shortage of rail equipment would discourage elevator managers from piling grain on the ground unless they were assured of getting equipment to move the grain in a short time.

"The shortage of rail cars will be a major bottleneck in the grain marketing system for the wheat harvest."

"The shortage of fuel will be a major problem both for harvesting grain and moving it to market. Fuel for grain dryers is another problem farmers and elevators share."

May Take Longer

"If farmers and elevators will work together to make the best use of available credit, fuel and transportation facilities as well as available storage facilities, we can handle the wheat crop but it will probably take a little longer than it has in former years," he said.

Elm declined to predict what would happen when the feed grain crop is harvested this fall. "The wheat harvest is 30 days away. We can't predict any too well what will happen in one month. There probably are factors that will affect the feed grain harvest that we haven't even dreamed of yet," he said.

Elm suggested that farmers ought to plan to store fuel for tractors and grain dryers and learn the art of grain storage on their own farms.

"They might also consider building some storage for starter fertilizer and try to apply their fertilizer for their crops in the fall. They can store a lot of fertilizer in the soil by applying it in the fall," he suggested.

Elm indicated that people needed to change their attitude about storage of fuels and fertilizer supplies on their farms. Citing delays by the City-County Planning Commission in approving an expansion of storage facilities at Waverly as an example of the problems faced by industry, he said, "You have to store the stuff some place so that farmers in the area can heat their homes and have fuel to dry their grain. Maybe farmers will have to store it themselves on their own farms. One thing for sure, we can't expect the transportation industry to move these products only on the day we need them," he said.

Cleanup Goes On Amid The Muck

Milbert Schirmer digs a trench through the muddy yard of his Ste. Genevieve, Mo., home to carry the floodwater being pumped from his basement into the street. Schirmer, who was forced from his home five weeks ago by this spring's record flooding, says he'll gradually clean the mud from his house while he waits for a worker from one of the federal agencies to assess the damage. At the height of the flood water filled his home halfway to the ceiling of the first floor.

Means Says AIM Plans Convention In Scottsbluff

Gering (AP) — American Indian Movement (AIM) leader Russell Means said Thursday AIM would hold a national convention in nearby Scottsbluff in late June or early July.

Means made the comment during the recess of a preliminary hearing on charges stemming from arrests made earlier this year during disturbances in Scottsbluff. His brother, Ted, said earlier tentative plans had been made for the convention.

Edgar Bear Runner, also of Porcupine, was placed on $1,000 bond. He faces three charges of assaulting an officer.

During testimony by witnesses Thursday, Means was directed by Judge James Miackin to refrain from "impromptu" comments while not on the stand. Means, sitting at the defense table, interrupted witnesses with terse comments, officials said.

Means' attorney, Mark Lane, also was asked by the court to refrain "from being ornery" while cross examining prosecution witnesses.

Federal agents told one newsman they would not let Means be interviewed while under their jurisdiction.

However, Means spoke to some newsmen during the court recess.

As he returned to the court room, Means said entertainer Sammy Davis Jr., planned to conduct "several benefits" to raise money for pending AIM legal action.

Scottsbluff police officers testified at the Thursday hearing.

The officers testified that Means and Bear Runner fought them when officers tried to take them into custody.

Policemen testified that Bear Runner kicked one officer in the face and broke his glasses.

The disturbances occurred in Scottsbluff during a Chicano-Indian "solidarity meeting."

Means, 33, of Porcupine, S.D., is charged with carrying a concealed weapon, resisting arrest, and assault. Bear Runner, 21, also of Porcupine, is charged with two counts of assault and resisting arrest and a separate charge of assaulting a police officer.

In District Court Wednesday, Ted Means was arraigned on an amended charge of resisting arrest. He pleaded guilty and was placed on informal probation for 60 days.

Woman, 59, Dies After Dog Attack

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Mrs. Evelyn Husband, 59, died in an Omaha hospital Wednesday, three days after she was attacked and bitten by a dog. She was principal of Rockbrook School.

Her death was reported Thursday.

Her family has requested an autopsy.

The dog, a German Shepherd, was in quarantine at the Nebraska Humane Society.

Mrs. Husband's daughter, Mrs. Elaine Heckert, and a friend and School District 66 coworker, Mrs. Maria Laas, gave this account of the incident:

Mrs. Husband and her spouse, William, had been on a picnic and stopped afterward at the Harding and Feldhaus Mobile Home service lot to look at trailers. The Husbands have a trailer and were talking of trading for another.

The dog, chained on the property, knocked Mrs. Husband down, bit her on the thigh and mauled her until Mr. Husband pulled it off by the chain, suffering a bite himself.

Husband took his wife home and called Mrs. Heckert, a nurse, who took her to a hospital

Mrs. Husband, who suffered torn veins from the bite, received treatment and shots and returned home with instructions to take it easy.

Mrs. Husband did not feel well Monday and Tuesday. About 5 a.m. Wednesday, she was taken by rescue squad to a hospital, where she died about 6:30 a.m.

Mrs. Laas said the family does not know what caused death, but that the dog incident was a "very traumatic experience."

The dog is owned by Dale Harding Sr., whose son is co-operator of the Mobile Home service lot.

Harding said Mrs. Husband's death is "shocking and I'm very, very, sorry."

He said he "can't comprehend" any relationship between the bite and the death. "I'm glad they are performing an autopsy."

Harding said he recently was divorced and he had tied the dog, which he has owned for three or four years, there while seeking a new residence and job.

He said the dog was tied near the middle of the lot and that he did not understand why the Husbands were in the area. He said that section of the lot contained no new trailers, only "wrecked ones."

A native of Hamburg, Iowa, and a graduate of Nebraska City Schools, Peru State College and the University of Omaha, Mrs Husband taught in Nebraska City before coming to Omaha in 1945.

NPPD Accepts Ecological Study

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

North Platte — A 600-page report on the likely ecological effects of the Cooper Nuclear Station on the Missouri River was laid before the directors of the Nebraska Public Power District Thursday.

The directors held their regular monthly meeting here in connection with the groundbreaking of the $190 million Gerald Gentleman Station. Ceremonies for the conventional steam generating plant, to be built near Sutherland Reservoir, are scheduled Friday.

The year-long ecological study by Industrial Rio-Twst Inc. of Northbrook, Ill., was barely accepted, however, before a seven-month extension was approved. The initial study cost $310,000, the extended contract another $278,750.

Dr. Eric Sloth, NPPD enviromental manager, said the Atomic Energy Commission had required the extension and also suggested monthly rather than quarterly monitoring of effects on the river's fish populace. Several other factors are also under study.

"The report says in effect that no significant deleterious effects are expected," Dr. Sloth summarized, "but there is a tremendous amount of data which we are reviewing."

When it was suggested that future monitoring contracts be subject to bidding, the manager said they undoubtedly will when the plant begins operation. He noted that six bids were received for a similar study at the planned Gentleman Station

The absence of competitive bidding on a coal-handling modification project at Sheldon Station also raised board evebrows Only one bid, a $357,818 one from Olson Construction Co of Lincoln, was received.

NPPD officials said the specifications had been mailed to 114 contractors, however, and that a month's time was allowed for bid preparation. They said this is "the busy time of year" for contractors and that many hesitate at remodeling work.

On another matter, the board approved a $340,000 settlement with Olson Construction Co. for excessive overtime and other extra expenses the firm said it had incurred on work at the Cooper Station. Olson had originally filed suit for $755,000.

about 4.5 acres at $1,500 per

The board also agreed to purchase the former Platte Pipe Line Co. building at the west edge of Beatrice at a cost of $80,000, plus an adjacent tract of about 4.5 acres at $1,500 per acre The site will house the NPPD area headquarters, now in another Beatrice location.

The new facility includes three buildings with 80,000 square feet of space, 10 acres total and a radio tower. Vacated for some time, it is presently owned by four private individuals, who were not identified.

The leasing of two 300,000 gallon tanks at old Lincoln Air Base for storing foreign fuel oil was also approved. It was noted that domestic oil, although costing about half the 25 cents per gallon of foreign oil, probably will not be available.

"We'll be protecting ourselves in a small way from the shortage," said Jim Dager, NPPD assistant general manager. He explained that the oil is used during peak periods annually.

Wayne Barber, director of marketing and public affairs, reported that the developing fuel shortage has stimulated interest by municipalities in electrical supply interconnections. He said at least a dozen "very good towns" with apparent storage problems have inquired about possible agreements.

Two sizable contracts were awarded for the Gentleman Station, the largest $556,000 to the Forter-Wheeler Corp. of Livingston, N.J., for condensers and accessories The lowest of six bids, it was $179,000 below the engineering estimate.

A $91,273 bid for a main boiler and decorator was accepted from Graver Water Conditioning Co of Union, N.J. There were two other bids.

Church Says Watergate 'Sordid Incident'

Omaha (UPI) — Delegates to the 185th United Presbyterian General Assembly Wednesday condemned the Watergate scandal as a "sordid incident" but cautioned against "any withdrawal by the people into cynicism and despair at this time."

The delegates also concluded their week-long meeting in Omaha by adopting a major policy statement on the "preservation of privacy" and voted solid support for the United Farm Workers Union's "struggle for recognition and self-determination."

Concerning Watergate, the top church policy-making body said: "As a church assembly we are not called upon to condemn persons involved in the charges nor to pronounce judgment." But, the assembly said, Watergate is a "sordid incident" and focuses "serious concern about the present abuses of the power and the privileges of the presidential office. We declare today that for any particular government to profane that system of government under law for purposes of convictions, narrow political interest or personal gain is the worst kind of corruption," the assembly said. "It is a subversion of the national purpose by those called to be agents of that purpose."

The assembly commended persistent efforts by the press in leading to the Watergate disclosures and said those involved in the affair should be prosecuted, "no matter what their position or office and to the fullest extent of the law."

In its privacy policy statement, the assembly said: "Increasingly, personal and associational privacy is undermined. Privacy is freedom from interference, opportunity to grow, liberty to control what others may know about oneself. Privacy is the right to be left alone or to join others without being watched."

The assembly called upon public and nonpublic agencies to "provide for the maximum protection of privacy."

The delegates urged support of the United Farm Workers Union in California, particularly by boycotting lettuce and table grapes.

Congress should be "encouraged," the assembly said, "To create and enact new legislation for farm workers' participation in the collective bargaining process."

The assembly adopted the report from its committee on women, but the assembly moderator, the Rev. Clinton Marsh of Omaha, warned that "I don't think a lot of us are taking seriously a revolution that is going on at this point in history. For us to keep dragging our feet regarding the emancipation of women is not for the common good."

9 Hurt In Omaha 3-Alarm Fire

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—A three-alarm fire in a four-story building at the Drake Court apartment complex near downtown Omaha was brought under control by firemen early Thursday.

At least nine persons were hurt, none apparently seriously. Four of the nine remained hospitalized Thursday morning, with the others being released after treatment

Hospitalized were two firemen, Ronald Harper and Florian Paskevic, and two residents of the building, Edward Bethel, 35, and Frances Tarts, 28.

Fire Chief Vernon Van Scoy said arson was suspected as the cause of the blaze. He said there was a smell of gasoline in the basement of the building when firemen arrived.

Some residents tossed mattresses to an alley below and leaped from their windows to escape the flames, while firemen and volunteers aided others from the burning brick building.

Some persons also were observed to have tied sheets together and used them as ropes to climb down outside windows.

Firemen said fire escapes were located at both ends of the building, but that dense smoke in hallways prevented occupants from using them.

Van Scoy said the fire started in the basement and quickly swept up a stairwell, moving rapidly down hallways. He said the first three floors of the building were gutted.

Plainview Man Killed In Crash

Bassett, Neb. (AP) — Rollie McKown, 26, of Plainview, was killed Thursday in an accident involving his pickup truck about 4 miles north and 2 miles west of here, the State Patrol said.

Troopers said McKown apparently lost control of the pickup on a curve and it rolled and he was thrown from it.

Need For Fireboat Seen

Omaha (AP) — Omaha may need a fireboat and a riverfront fire station by 1978 because of riverfront development plans, Fire Chief Vernon VanScoy said. The chief said he has requested $80,000 to buy a boat of undetermined size as part of a five-year capital improvements program. River-front development also would call for construction of a new station, he said, with a pumper and possibly an aerial truck based at the station

Nebraska Drops To 11th In Volume Of Ag Exports

By Dominick Costello
Farm Editor

Nebraska has dropped from 10th place to 11th among the 50 states in total dollar volume of agricultural exports, according to information compiled by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Sales of Nebraska farm products in foreign markets amounted to $265 million in 1970 and reached a record-high $287.6 million in 1971. The 1972 figure shows a drop to $283.3 million.

Mrs. Dorothy Switzer, editorial assistant at the bureau, cited several reasons for the decrease between fiscal 1970-71 and fiscal 1971-72

"There have been a lot of small food processing plants developed in the state so that a larger portion of the state's raw agricultural products are being processed," she said

"Unfortunately, the processed products are not entering the export markets at the same rate the raw products are "

However, there are some bright spots in the farm export picture.

The state's dairy processors increased exports by a whopping 75%, or 4% above the average in the West North-Central Region. However, the state still ranks 4% below the national rate of increase in export of dairy products and ranks ninth in the nation with sales of $4.9 million

The West North-Central Region takes in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri and North and South Dakota.

32% More Wheat

Nebraska shipped 32% more wheat and flour into export channels, which is a larger increase than either the region or the nation experienced. This put Nebraska in fourth place nationally with sales of $69.5 million.

Nebraska also increased its foreign sales of meat and meat products by a greater percentage than the rest of the nation. Meat exports rose 26% and sales of lard and tallow increased 13%. Sales of meat and meat products totaled $12.1 million to put the state in fourth place.

Nebraska placed third in feed grain exports with sales of $104 6 million and third in animal fats with sales of $15.3 million

Nebraska's regional ranking in exports dropped one notch from fourth place to fifth, changing places with Missouri Iowa, Kansas and Minnesota retained their first, second and third-place positions, respectively

Nebraska was one of three states in the region experiencing a drop in exports, but it had the smallest of the three. Nebraska farm exports dropped 1 5% compared to Kansas, which declined 7.7%, and Missouri, which showed a 3 3% decrease

One major reason for the decline in agriculturally related exports was the reduction in exports of protein meal, soybeans and soybean oil. Soybeans and protein meal dropped 26.4%, while oil decreased 19.9%.

One possible explanation of the drop is an increasing local demand for soybean meal for livestock feed. There is also a question of how identifiable the state's production of these products may be in the total national export picture because the nation is exporting increasing amounts of all three soy products

Transportation Factor

Transportation problems for inland Nebraska may also be a factor in the state's export ratings. The shortage of rail transportation equipment has undoubtedly delayed the shipment of large quantities of grains and soybeans from the state's elevators.

A reduction in federally sponsored programs to developing countries in which Nebraska-grown products are used is also a factor in the state's loss in rank as an exporter.

The future of agricultural exports depends on government-style of people around the world, according to Mrs. Switzer.

"The government will have to do what it can to expand exports of farm production to help the balance of payments situation," she said.

"Agriculture is one of the few remaining areas where the U.S is more productive than other nations. We have to get over the idea that we as a nation are superior to other nations as producers because we are not, except in the field of producing food and fiber.

"People throughout the world are demanding more meat, better foods and better living conditions. This could provide a tremendous market for agricultural production from Nebraska in future years."

Some future changes in export patterns may be related to changes in the sizes of farms. "We seem to be moving in two directions at once," said Mrs. Switzer. "The actual number of farms is still declining, but the decline is slowing We are getting more really large farms and more small part-time farms, while the number of medium-sized farms seems to be declining.

"If this trend continues, we could expect to see some changes in marketing patterns, which could affect exports eventually."

Wheat Farmers Advised To Plan On Storing Grain

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Nebraska's wheat farmers will probably have to store a part of their 1973 wheat crop on their own farms due to a shortage of commercial storage space and rail equipment to move the grain to market, according to Howard Elm, executive director of the Nebraska Grain Dealers Association.

In a review of the grain situation issued from the organization's Lincoln office Thursday, Elm expressed concern over the apparent lack of understanding of elevator operator problems by farmers.

Calling for better communications between farmers and elevator operators, Elm said, "The problem that farmers were the most concerned with and understood the least was the vast difference in the daily cash bid between elevators in the same areas."

Cars Made Difference

"The differences ranged from a few cents a bushel to instances where the elevator could not bid on grain at all. The elevators had differences in price because of the availability of cars to one elevator and none were available at another elevator."

"Some had grain sold in advance they were unable to get rail cars to ship so they were unable to buy any grain at all for a considerable period of time," Elm said.

Elm reported that most elevators were facing the largest combination of unknown factors related to a new crop in history.

Storage Available

Elm noted that most country elevators had some storage available because of the movement of grain owned by the government into trade channels.

"We will not have sufficient cars to move the wheat to market. What cannot be stored at elevators must be stored on the farms in farmers' own storage," he said.

Elm indicated that a shortage of rail equipment would discourage elevator managers from piling grain on the ground unless they were assured of getting equipment to move the grain in a short time.

"The shortage of rail cars will be a major bottleneck in the grain marketing system for the wheat harvest."

"The shortage of fuel will be a major problem both for harvesting grain and moving it to market. Fuel for grain dryers is another problem farmers and elevators share."

May Take Longer

"If farmers and elevators will work together to make the best use of available credit, fuel and transportation facilities as well as available storage facilities, we can handle the wheat crop but it will probably take a little longer than it has in former years," he said.

Elm declined to predict what would happen when the feed grain crop is harvested this fall. "The wheat harvest is 30 days away. We can't predict any too well what will happen in one month. There probably are factors that will affect the feed grain harvest that we haven't even dreamed of yet," he said.

Elm suggested that farmers ought to plan to store fuel for tractors and grain dryers and learn the art of grain storage on their own farms.

"They might also consider building some storage for starter fertilizer and try to apply their fertilizer for their crops in the fall. They can store a lot of fertilizer in the soil by applying it in the fall," he suggested.

Elm indicated that people needed to change their attitude about storage of fuels and fertilizer supplies on their farms. Citing delays by the City-County Planning Commission in approving an expansion of storage facilities at Waverly as an example of the problems faced by industry, he said, "You have to store the stuff some place so that farmers in the area can heat their homes and have fuel to dry their grain. Maybe farmers will have to store it themselves on their own farms. One thing for sure, we can't expect the transportation industry to move these products only on the day we need them," he said.

Cleanup Goes On Amid The Muck

Milbert Schirmer digs a trench through the muddy yard of his Ste. Genevieve, Mo., home to carry the floodwater being pumped from his basement into the street. Schirmer, who was forced from his home five weeks ago by this spring's record flooding, says he'll gradually clean the mud from his house while he waits for a worker from one of the federal agencies to assess the damage. At the height of the flood water filled his home halfway to the ceiling of the first floor.

Woman, 59, Dies After Dog Attack

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Mrs. Evelyn Husband, 59, died in an Omaha hospital Wednesday, three days after she was attacked and bitten by a dog. She was principal of Rockbrook School.

Her death was reported Thursday.

Her family has requested an autopsy.

The dog, a German Shepherd, was in quarantine at the Nebraska Humane Society.

Mrs. Husband's daughter, Mrs. Elaine Heckert, and a friend and School District 66 coworker, Mrs. Maria Laas, gave this account of the incident:

Mrs. Husband and her spouse, William, had been on a picnic and stopped afterward at the Harding and Feldhaus Mobile Home service lot to look at trailers. The Husbands have a trailer and were talking of trading for another.

The dog, chained on the property, knocked Mrs. Husband down, bit her on the thigh and mauled her until Mr. Husband pulled it off by the chain, suffering a bite himself.

Husband took his wife home and called Mrs. Heckert, a nurse, who took her to a hospital.

Mrs. Husband, who suffered torn veins from the bite, received treatment and shots and returned home with instructions to take it easy.

Mrs. Husband did not feel well Monday and Tuesday. About 5 a.m. Wednesday, she was taken by rescue squad to a hospital, where she died about 6:30 a.m.

Mrs. Laas said the family does not know what caused death, but that the dog incident was a "very traumatic experience."

The dog is owned by Dale Harding Sr., whose son is cooperator of the Mobile Home service lot.

Harding said Mrs. Husband's death is "shocking and I'm very, very, sorry."

He said he "can't comprehend" any relationship between the bite and the death. "I'm glad they are performing an autopsy."

Harding said he recently was divorced and he had tied the dog, which he has owned for three or four years, there while seeking a new residence and job.

He said the dog was tied near the middle of the lot and that he did not understand why the Husbands were in the area. He said that section of the lot contained no new trailers, only "wrecked ones."

A native of Hamburg, Iowa, and a graduate of Nebraska City Schools, Peru State College and the University of Omaha, Mrs. Husband taught in Nebraska City before coming to Omaha in 1945.

Means Says AIM Plans Convention In Scottsbluff

Gering (AP) — American Indian Movement (AIM) leader Russell Means said Thursday AIM would hold a national convention in nearby Scottsbluff in late June or early July.

Means made the comment during the recess of a preliminary hearing on charges stemming from arrests made earlier this year during disturbances in Scottsbluff. His brother, Ted, said earlier tentative plans had been made for the convention.

Edgar Bear Runner, also of Porcupine, was placed on $1,000 bond. He faces three charges of assaulting an officer.

During testimony by witnesses Thursday, Means was directed by Judge James Miackin to refrain from "impromptu" comments while not on the stand. Means, sitting at the defense table, interrupted witnesses with terse comments, officials said.

Means' attorney, Mark Lane, also was asked by the court to refrain "from being ornery" while cross examining prosecution witnesses.

Federal agents told one newsman they would not let Means be interviewed while under their jurisdiction.

However, Means spoke to some newsmen during the court recess.

As he returned to the court room, Means said entertainer Sammy Davis Jr., planned to conduct "several benefits" to raise money for pending AIM legal action.

Scottsbluff police officers testified at the Thursday hearing.

The officers testified that Means and Bear Runner fought them when officers tried to take them into custody.

Policemen testified that Bear Runner kicked one officer in the face and broke his glasses.

The disturbances occurred in Scottsbluff during a Chicano-Indian "solidarity meeting."

Means, 33, of Porcupine, S.D., is charged with carrying a concealed weapon, resisting arrest, and assault. Bear Runner, 21, also of Porcupine, is charged with two counts of assault and resisting arrest and a separate charge of assaulting a police officer.

In District Court Wednesday, Ted Means was arraigned on an amended charge of resisting arrest. He pleaded guilty and was placed on informal probation for 60 days.

NPPD Accepts Ecological Study

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

North Platte — A 600-page report on the likely ecological effects of the Cooper Nuclear Station on the Missouri River was laid before the directors of the Nebraska Public Power District Thursday.

The directors held their regular monthly meeting here in connection with the groundbreaking of the $190 million Gerald Gentleman Station. Ceremonies for the conventional steam generating plant, to be built near Sutherland Reservoir, are scheduled Friday.

The year-long ecological study by Industrial Rio-Twst Inc. of Northbrook, Ill., was barely accepted, however, before a seven-month extension was approved. The initial study cost $310,000, the extended contract another $278,750.

Dr. Eric Sloth, NPPD enviromental manager, said the Atomic Energy Commission had required the extension and also suggested monthly rather than quarterly monitoring of effects on the river's fish populace. Several other factors are also under study.

"The report says in effect that no significant deleterious effects are expected," Dr. Sloth summarized, "but there is a tremendous amount of data which we are reviewing."

When it was suggested that future monitoring contracts be subject to bidding, the manager said they undoubtedly will when the plant begins operation. He noted that six bids were received for a similar study at the planned Gentleman Station.

The absence of competitive bidding on a coal-handling modification project at Sheldon Station also raised board eyebrows. Only one bid, a $357,818 one from Olson Construction Co. of Lincoln, was received.

NPPD officials said the specifications had been mailed to 114 contractors, however, and that a month's time was allowed for bid preparation. They said this is "the busy time of year" for contractors and that many hesitate at remodeling work.

On another matter, the board approved a $340,000 settlement with Olson Construction Co. for excessive overtime and other extra expenses the firm said it had incurred on work at the Cooper Station. Olson had originally filed suit for $755,000.

about 4.5 acres at $1,500 per

The board also agreed to purchase the former Platte Pipe Line Co. building at the west edge of Beatrice at a cost of $80,000, plus an adjacent tract of about 4.5 acres at $1,500 per acre. The site will house the NPPD area headquarters, now in another Beatrice location.

The new facility includes three buildings with 80,000 square feet of space, 10 acres total and a radio tower. Vacated for some time, it is presently owned by four private individuals, who were not identified.

The leasing of two 300,000 gallon tanks at old Lincoln Air Base for storing foreign fuel oil was also approved. It was noted that domestic oil, although costing about half the 25 cents per gallon of foreign oil, probably will not be available.

"We'll be protecting ourselves in a small way from the shortage," said Jim Dager, NPPD assistant general manager. He explained that the oil is used during peak periods annually.

Wayne Barber, director of marketing and public affairs, reported that the developing fuel shortage has stimulated interest by municipalities in electrical supply interconnections. He said at least a dozen "very good towns" with apparent storage problems have inquired about possible agreements.

Two sizable contracts were awarded for the Gentleman Station, the largest $556,000 to the Forter-Wheeler Corp. of Livingston, N.J., for condensers and accessories. The lowest of six bids, it was $179,000 below the engineering estimate.

A $91,273 bid for a main boiler and decorator was accepted from Graver Water Conditioning Co. of Union, N.J. There were two other bids.

Church Says Watergate 'Sordid Incident'

Omaha (UPI) — Delegates to the 185th United Presbyterian General Assembly Wednesday condemned the Watergate scandal as a "sordid incident" but cautioned against "any withdrawal by the people into cynicism and despair at this time."

The delegates also concluded their week-long meeting in Omaha by adopting a major policy statement on the "preservation of privacy" and voted solid support for the United Farm Workers Union's "struggle for recognition and self-determination."

Concerning Watergate, the top church policy-making body said: "As a church assembly we are not called upon to condemn persons involved in the charges nor to pronounce judgment." But, the assembly said, Watergate is a "sordid incident" and focuses "serious concern about the present abuses of the power and the privileges of the presidential office. We declare today that for any particular government to profane that system of government under law for purposes of convictions, narrow political interest or personal gain is the worst kind of corruption," the assembly said. "It is a subversion of the national purpose by those called to be agents of that purpose."

The assembly commended persistent efforts by the press in leading to the Watergate disclosures and said those involved in the affair should be prosecuted, "no matter what their position or office and to the fullest extent of the law."

In its privacy policy statement, the assembly said: "Increasingly, personal and associational privacy is undermined. Privacy is freedom from interference, opportunity to grow, liberty to control what others may know about oneself. Privacy is the right to be left alone or to join others without being watched."

The assembly called upon public and nonpublic agencies to "provide for the maximum protection of privacy."

The delegates urged support of the United Farm Workers Union in California, particularly by boycotting lettuce and table grapes.

Congress should be "encouraged," the assembly said, "To create and enact new legislation for farm workers' participation in the collective bargaining process."

The assembly adopted the report from its committee on women, but the assembly moderator, the Rev. Clinton Marsh of Omaha, warned that "I don't think a lot of us are taking seriously a revolution that is going on at this point in history. For us to keep dragging our feet regarding the emancipation of women is not for the common good."

9 Hurt In Omaha 3-Alarm Fire

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—A three-alarm fire in a four-story building at the Drake Court apartment complex near downtown Omaha was brought under control by firemen early Thursday.

At least nine persons were hurt, none apparently seriously. Four of the nine remained hospitalized Thursday morning, with the others being released after treatment.

Hospitalized were two firemen, Ronald Harper and Florian Paskevic, and two residents of the building, Edward Bethel, 35, and Frances Tarts, 28.

Fire Chief Vernon Van Scoy said arson was suspected as the cause of the blaze. He said there was a smell of gasoline in the basement of the building when firemen arrived.

Some residents tossed mattresses to an alley below and leaped from their windows to escape the flames, while firemen and volunteers aided others from the burning brick building.

Some persons also were observed to have tied sheets together and used them as ropes to climb down outside windows.

Firemen said fire escapes were located at both ends of the building, but that dense smoke in hallways prevented occupants from using them.

Van Scoy said the fire started in the basement and quickly swept up a stairwell, moving rapidly down hallways. He said the first three floors of the building were gutted.

Plainview Man Killed In Crash

Bassett, Neb. (AP) — Rollie McKown, 26, of Plainview, was killed Thursday in an accident involving his pickup truck about 4 miles north and 2 miles west of here, the State Patrol said.

Troopers said McKown apparently lost control of the pickup on a curve and it rolled and he was thrown from it.

Lancaster Red Cross Total Reaches $2,664

Contributions to the emergency disaster relief drive of the Lancaster County Red Cross have reached $2,664 from 163 contributors as of Thursday morning. The previous total was $2,451 from 147 contributors.

The goal is $9,420 and the money is to be used to replace money spent on recent nationwide natural disasters.

'Eyes On Nebraska' Award To Klepper

An "Eyes on Nebraska" award was announced Thursday for Dr. Lowell A. Klepper, 37, an agronomy professor at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Sponsored by the Nebraska Optometric Association, the award goes to Dr. Klepper for his research in identifying the mechanism by which herbicides kill plants. He devised a simple laboratory procedure to rapidly pin-point chemicals with weed-killing capabilities.

Dierking Receives Kennedy Scholarship

Peru — John Dierking, a 1973 Johnson-Brock High School graduate, has been awarded the Cassius Bond Kennedy Gold Star Scholarship for use at Peru State College next fall. He plans a pre-agriculture major. Dierking is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Dierking of Tecumseh. The scholarship commemorates the son of the late G. C. Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy of Brownville. The younger Kennedy lost his life while serving as a B-17 bomber pilot over Germany in 1945.

Need For Fireboat Seen

Omaha (AP) — Omaha may need a fireboat and a riverfront fire station by 1978 because of riverfront development plans, Fire Chief Vernon VanScoy said. The chief said he has requested $80,000 to buy a boat of undetermined size as part of a five-year capital improvements program. River-front development also would call for construction of a new station, he said, with a pumper and possibly an aerial truck based at the station.

Law To Manage Columbus Chamber

Columbus (UPI) — Bob Law, former chairman of the creative arts division at Platte College here, has been selected as the new manager of the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce. Law replaces Larry Froschheuser, who recently resigned to take a chamber of commerce post in Iowa. Prior to coming to Platte in 1971, Law was employed as an insurance underwriter and as a pastor in Minnesota.

Nebraska Drops To 11th In Volume Of Ag Exports

By Dominick Costello
Farm Editor

Nebraska has dropped from 10th place to 11th among the 50 states in total dollar volume of agricultural exports, according to information compiled by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Sales of Nebraska farm products in foreign markets amounted to $265 million in 1970 and reached a record-high $287.6 million in 1971. The 1972 figure shows a drop to $283.3 million.

Mrs. Dorothy Switzer, editorial assistant at the bureau, cited several reasons for the decrease between fiscal 1970-71 and fiscal 1971-72.

"There have been a lot of small food processing plants developed in the state so that a larger portion of the state's raw agricultural products are being processed," she said.

"Unfortunately, the processed products are not entering the export markets at the same rate the raw products are."

However, there are some bright spots in the farm export picture.

The state's dairy processors increased exports by a whopping 75%, or 4% above the average in the West North-Central Region. However, the state still ranks 4% below the national rate of increase in export of dairy products and ranks ninth in the nation with sales of $4.9 million.

The West North-Central Region takes in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri and North and South Dakota.

32% More Wheat

Nebraska shipped 32% more wheat and flour into export channels, which is a larger increase than either the region or the nation experienced. This put Nebraska in fourth place nationally with sales of $69.5 million.

Nebraska also increased its foreign sales of meat and meat products by a greater percentage than the rest of the nation. Meat exports rose 26% and sales of lard and tallow increased 13%. Sales of meat and meat products totaled $12.1 million to put the state in fourth place.

Nebraska placed third in feed grain exports with sales of $104.6 million and third in animal fats with sales of $15.3 million.

Nebraska's regional ranking in exports dropped one notch from fourth place to fifth, changing places with Missouri. Iowa, Kansas and Minnesota retained their first, second and third-place positions, respectively.

Nebraska was one of three states in the region experiencing a drop in exports, but it had the smallest of the three. Nebraska farm exports dropped 1.5% compared to Kansas, which declined 7.7%, and Missouri, which showed a 3.3% decrease.

One major reason for the decline in agriculturally related exports was the reduction in exports of protein meal, soybeans and soybean oil. Soybeans and protein meal dropped 26.4%, while oil decreased 19.9%.

One possible explanation of the drop is an increasing local demand for soybean meal for livestock feed. There is also a question of how identifiable the state's production of these products may be in the total national export picture because the nation is exporting increasing amounts of all three soy products.

Transportation Factor

Transportation problems for inland Nebraska may also be a factor in the state's export ratings. The shortage of rail transportation equipment has undoubtedly delayed the shipment of large quantities of grains and soybeans from the state's elevators.

A reduction in federally sponsored programs to developing countries in which Nebraska-grown products are used is also a factor in the state's loss in rank as an exporter.

The future of agricultural exports depends on government-style of people around the world, according to Mrs. Switzer.

"The government will have to do what it can to expand exports of farm production to help the balance of payments situation," she said.

"Agriculture is one of the few remaining areas where the U.S. is more productive than other nations. We have to get over the idea that we as a nation are superior to other nations as producers because we are not, except in the field of producing food and fiber.

"People throughout the world are demanding more meat, better foods and better living conditions. This could provide a tremendous market for agricultural production from Nebraska in future years."

Some future changes in export patterns may be related to changes in the sizes of farms. "We seem to be moving in two directions at once," said Mrs. Switzer. "The actual number of farms is still declining, but the decline is slowing. We are getting more really large farms and more small part-time farms, while the number of medium-sized farms seems to be declining.

"If this trend continues, we could expect to see some changes in marketing patterns, which could affect exports eventually."

'Yo-Yo' Approach To Taxation Draws Fire From Gov. Exon

Gov. J. James Exon Thursday accused Sen. Jerome Warner and the 24 other senators who voted to cut this year's income tax of practicing "a yo-yo" approach to taxation whereby taxpayers are given "a small break this year" and then are "soaked" good next year.

Exon said, while Warner is advocating a reduction in taxes this year, he is sponsoring legislation which would raise state spending by millions in future years, such as increased state aid to schools.

"I charge this is political expediency at best and deceitful action at the worst," Exon said in a memo to all senators.

However, he did not say specifically in the memo that he will veto LB10, although the possibility exists.

Warner said his revenue information came from the governor's executive budget report and from the state tax commissioner's office, "so if there is any question on the figures, they are his, not mine."

Warner said Exon has "either resisted or opposed every reduction in taxes which the Legislature has considered," including an increased food sales tax credit and a personal property tax exemption, both enacted in 1972.

"He has opposed help to the real property taxpayer. Apparently he now opposes a decrease in the income tax, as well," Warner said.

Warner said he still believes income tax reductions should be made in the year of overcollections so the money may more proportionately be returned to the taxpayer.

"Again the governor engages in personal attacks rather than a discussion of the issues," he said. "But that is a time-honored practice if your arguments are not too strong."

Suit Against Union Pacific Railroad Is Settled For $750,000

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A lawyer announced Thursday he had settled a lawsuit on behalf of a suburban Denver man injured in a railroad accident for $750,000.

Eugene A. Rerat, Minneapolis, said a $1.5 million suit he broughton behalf of Keith Richardson, 24, Aurora, Colo., aginst the Union Pacific Railroad was settled out of court.

Richardson was working as a switchman for Union Pacific on Oct. 7, 1971 in North Platte, Neb., when part of his right leg, right arm and left foot were amputated in an accident. He was a resident of North Platte at the time.

In the suit, Rerat charged that the railroad was negligent in that Richardson had not been given proper instruction and safety guidelines when he was told by a supervisor to place a fuse light on the end of a moving car.

Abortion Decision Protested

The Legislature Thursday urged the Congress to adopt a U S constitutional amendment negating the Supreme Court's recent abortion decision

Lawmakers approved the request contained in Resolution 23, on a 39-4 count

Voting no were Sens. Steve Fowler and Shirley Marsh, both of Lincoln, and Ernest Chambers and Dave Stahmer, both of Omaha.

LR23 follows on the heels of a strict anti-abortion bill earlier enacted by the Legislature That measure appears to disregard the high court s ruling banning government from regulating abortions at least during the first three months of pregnancy

The resolution was sponsored by the Public Health and Welfare Committee, headed by Sen Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove

It urges Congress to propose a constitutional amendment guaranteeing "the explicit protection of all unborn human life by extending the appropriate constitutional rights, including due process of law"

The proposed amendment would "guarantee that no human life will be denied protection of law or deprived of life on account of age, sickness, stage of development or condition of dependency of wantedness"

The court has deprived the unborn of legal and constitutional protection" the Legislature states, and its decision condones the destruction of an entire class of live human beings

Human life in all stages is entitled to the protection of the laws and may not be abridged by act of any court or legislature or by any judicial interpretation of the Constitution of the United States the resolution states

Carpenter's Offer To Leave Is Rejected

By The Associated Press

Sen. Terry Carpenter offered colleagues a chance to vote him out of the legislature Thursday, and got no takers.

The 73-year-old Scottsbluff lawmaker invited the reverse show of confidence out of reaction to recent remarks by Gov. J. James Exon, who suggested Carpenter was running wild in the legislature and other senators feared him.

Arising on a point of personal privilege, Carpenter asked senators who are afraid of him and regard him as a detriment to the body to stand.

Sen. Blair Richendifer of Walthill arose to say, in humorous vein, "I'm definitely scared to death."

"May the clerk show for the record he is the only one who stood up and admitted that I had some strange power over him that he could not control," said Carpenter.

The senator then asked for a show of hands of senators of whom Carpenter had ever asked a vote on a particular proposition. No hands were raised.

Finally, Carpenter renewed his offer to leave the legislature and go home if 25 senators felt he should. None stood up to support the resignation.

Carpenter said the legislature "has been put in an uncomfortable position by the words of others" to the point "that many people are beginning to believe this is a fact of life."

The senator said he plans to change his role in 1974 to that "of a counterpuncher," dedicated to making sure that all bills are fully understood. That may slow the lawmaking process, he acknowledged.

Sen. Ernie Chambers of Omaha arose to suggest Exon was seeking to establish a "father image," and put down the legislature.

"I'm not afraid of Senator Carpenter," said Chambers. "I can jump higher, I can jump faster, I can run faster, I can run longer, I think I can outwrestle him, I think I can outfight him. Why should I be afraid of him?"

Pay Increase For Elected State Officials Approved

The rewards for public service will increase in 1975 for Nebraska's attorney general, secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer and lieutenant governor.

A bill increasing salaries for these elected officials was passed 26-20 on final reading in the legislature Thursday. Twenty-five approving votes were needed.

The salary boosts, effective in 1975, include:

Attorney general, from $24,000 to $32,500 a year.

Secretary of state and state auditor, from $16,000 to $25,000.

State treasurer, from $15,000 to $25,000.

Lieutenant governor, from $7,500 to $25,000.

Additionally, the bill provides that deputy and assistant attorney general shall receive no less than $20,000 per year.

Carpenter Attacks Governor Over Stance On Abortion Bill

By United Press International

Sen Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff was critical Thursday of Gov J James Exon for not taking a firm stand on LB286 the abortion bill the governor allowed to become law without his signature

"Only a man without courage would take that position," Carpenter said, adding that Exon is "supposed to be the epitome of courage and instead he ducks and runs . "

He said he hopes that Catholics take note of the manner in which the governor handled the bill

LB286 was the only measure during Exon s time as governor which he allowed to become law without his signature

The bill is more restrictive than would have been allowed under the recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court and is pointedly critical of that ruling.

Exon in his explanation of why he allowed LB286 to become law said he was opposed to the 'ultra liberal' stand of the high court and if he did not permit LB286 to become law Nebraska would have no statute dealing with the matter and the full ultra liberal dictates of the U S Supreme Court would be law

The Nebraska bill prohibits abortions once the fetus reaches the viability stage — or that point in development when it can be maintained alive outside the mother s womb by natural or artificial means

Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha said he thought Carpenter was being "unduly harsh" on Exon and said it is possible the governor was caught in a position where he did not know what to do, even if he thought LB286 was not good legislation.

Sen Ernest Chambers of Omaha said if the governor thought LB286 would put the state in opposition to the 'ultra liberal" decision of the Supreme Court he should have signed it and 'if he thought the bill was unconstitutional, he should have vetoed it

Steep Terms Approved For Drug Pushers

The Legislature Thursday provided steeply graduated prison sentences for drug pushers including a 50-year prison term for a person convicted of selling hard drugs for the third time

The action came as LB261 passed 40-3 and was sent to Gov J J Exon for his consideration

Currently the penalty for selling drugs is a 5 to 20 year prison term, but that would be replaced in LB261 with a system of 1 to 10 years for first offense, 5 to 20 years for the second, and a mandatory 50 years for the third conviction

Originally as sponsored by Sen Loran Schmit of Bellwood, the bill would have required mandatory life prison sentences for anyone convicted of selling drugs The proposal was similar to a widely-publicized suggestion made by New York Gov Nelson Rockefeller.

Carpenter Attacks Governor Over Stance On Abortion Bill

By United Press International

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff was critical Thursday of Gov. J. James Exon for not taking a firm stand on LB286, the abortion bill the governor allowed to become law without his signature.

"Only a man without courage would take that position," Carpenter said, adding that Exon is "supposed to be the epitome of courage and instead he ducks and runs . . ."

He said he hopes that Catholics take note of the manner in which the governor handled the bill.

LB286 was the only measure during Exon's time as governor which he allowed to become law without his signature.

The bill is more restrictive than would have been allowed under the recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court and is pointedly critical of that ruling.

Exon, in his explanation of why he allowed LB286 to become law, said he was opposed to the "ultra liberal" stand of the high court and if he did not permit LB286 to become law, Nebraska would have no statute dealing with the matter "and the full ultra liberal dictates of the U.S. Supreme Court would be law."

The Nebraska bill prohibits abortions once the fetus reaches the "viability" stage — or that point in development when it can be maintained alive outside the mother's womb by natural or artificial means.

Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha said he thought Carpenter was being "unduly harsh" on Exon and said it is possible the governor was caught in a position where he did not know what to do, even if he thought LB286 was not good legislation.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha said if the governor thought LB286 would put the state in opposition to the "ultra liberal" decision of the Supreme Court, he should have signed it and "if he thought the bill was unconstitutional, he should have vetoed it."

They Search 10,000 A Month

Gift-wrapped packages must be opened . . . in spite of protests and sometimes tears.

By GRACIA SIEB
Star Staff Writer

"It is a Federal Crime and a violation of FAA Safety Regulations to: Carry concealed weapons aboard aircraft, Interfere with the flight crews. Passengers and baggage are subject to search "

"Attention Anti-Hijacking procedures are in effect "

"Federal regulations require that all persons beyond this point be screened and that all hand-carried articles be inspected."

Although these warnings are distinctly displayed, persons trying to enter the large, glass entrance doors of the concourse at the Lincoln Municipal Airport and finding them locked usually appear offended, incredulous or confused. However, the locked doors are merely precautions in accordance with the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) requirement of aviation security

Since Jan. 5, 1973, passengers have been subjected to screening procedures before boarding aircraft and until May 11, visitors were not allowed in the concourse area.

The Security operations at the Airport have been in effect for nearly five months and nearly 50,000 people have gone through the search operations. But there still is a great deal of passenger confusion due simply to the unfamiliarity with the system.

When the glass barriers are opened shortly before flight takeoff, the passengers and visitors must, one-by-one, go through the security check procedure

According to Mrs. Mary Barret and Steve Motley, who are employed by Metropolitan Protection Service, Inc. which mans the Airport system, resistance in general has been at a minimum

The two security officers agreed that, for the most part, people realize that the check is for their own protection. Therefore it is simply tolerated without comment.

Before filing through the magometer — a metal-detection device — persons first must leave all hand-carried articles with Mrs. Barret, who inspects them. She stated that probems do arise when people are carrying gift-wrapped packages.

In spite of the protests — and many times tears — Mrs. Barret must insist on opening the packages so that she is able to view the contents.

In the course of a cross-country flight, she noted that a package may be opened every time a person changes aircraft. With that in mind, she suggested that passengers wait and wrap their gifts on the plane immediately before they reach their final destination.

Even though the inspection is very thorough, it takes relatively little time — about 10 seconds per briefcase or purse, Mrs. Barret can rapidly sort through several items, because she knows exactly for what she is looking — knives, firearms, extra-long scissors or other articles which could serve as weapons.

To make the situation a little more tolerable to the passengers, Edward H. Itzen, president of Metropolitan Protection, stated that simple psychology was used in selecting the man-woman team for the airport security staff

The reasoning is that most women, if they must submit to the screening, would prefer another woman to inspect their packages and handbags.

Each person must also walk through the magometer, which Motley is in charge of monitoring. The coils in the magometer detect any metal objects a person might be carrying.

The security personnel noted that the magometer is extremely accurate in determining if a person is carrying something of heavy metal.

If the magometer registers a large mass of metal, Motley uses a wand metal-detector which can detect such things as back braces, metal plates used to surgically repair skull injuries, metal bolts in arm or leg joints or shrapnel from war wounds.

Usually the problem is very simple — two many keys on a jangling key ring or a healthy pocketful of change.

Although the process entails additional personnel and detail work at the expense of the private airlines, the method is much more efficient than the first security program proposed by the FAA. This required a spot check of luggage and the inspection of those persons fitting the "profile" of a hijacker.

CYNTHIA JOHNSON — GRACIA SIEB

Fourteen Nebraska Wesleyan University students, under the direction of Henry Blanke, will present a series of four plays during the 1973 summer season at the Brownville Village Theatre in Brownville. The plays will be produced in alternating repertory, Wednesday through Sunday evenings; and a number of matinee performances have been scheduled for the weekends.

The season will open June 30 with the Oscar Wilde comedy-farce, "The Importance of Being Earnest." On July 1, "Don't Drink the Water" — a Woody Allen comedy which pokes fun at embassy life behind the iron curtain — will be added to the schedule.

A newly-released mystery written by Lucille Fletcher, "Night Watch," will premiere on July 13; and the opening of the family comedy, "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker" by Liam O'Brien is scheduled for July 26.

According to Mr. Blanke, 42 performances have been planned, and the final production will be presented Aug. 19.

Orders are presently being accepted for discount season tickets which provide eight admissions. These tickets may be obtained by writing the Brownville Village Theatre in Brownville.

Reservations for single plays may be made at the box office in Brownville on or after June 9.

A New, Old-Fashioned Mellerdrammer

"No Opera at the Op'ry House Tonight" or "Too Good to be True" is the current mellerdrammer being performed at the Gas Light Theatre, 322 So. 9th.

The production's plot centers on the activities of the Salami Opera Company, which is located in the dusty hamlet of Desert Rat in the Arizona Territory. During the course of the play, the villain, Baron Wolfgang Von Wolfpack, is confronted with several dilemmas as he tries to find a way to marry the commoner prima-donna, Alma Pumpernickle, who, incidentally, has just inherited a fortune in gold mines.

Other characterizations include Lily Liverspot, a notorious confidence woman; Count Onitt, who is living incognito as the composer Billy Bright; the outrageous Madam Violetta, an opera performer; bassoprofundo Claude Hopper; and an Eskimo who plans to open a string of chop suey parlors in the frozen Yukon.

The cast members for the production, which will run on Wednesday through Saturday nights through June 9, include Mary Fey, Samuel Simpson, Clair Rickle, David La Fevre, Marsha Bailey, Randy Van Volkenburgh, Linda Wessel, Beverly Miller, Charlotte Dusy and Tom Lombard.

Faculty Members To Go To Brownville

Eight faculty members have been selected to conduct two, two-week sessions at the Brownville Summer Music Festival. According to Director Mrs. John Lauber, the sessions will be held July 15-29 and July 29-Aug. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauber, both music instructors at Nebraska Wesleyan University, will conduct the vocal music sessions, and the stringed instrument courses will be instructed by Morris Collier, assistant professor at Nebraska Wesleyan; Jay Finlayson, a Lincoln Public School teacher; Carol Work from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and Carole Bean from Iowa Western Community College.

Joyce Zei, NWU faculty member, and Patricia Will of Omaha will be in charge of piano instruction.

The summer festival is supported by a grant from the Woods Charitable Fund, Inc., to the Brownville Fine Arts Association.

Concerts At Stuhr Museum

The Nebraska National Guard's 43rd Army Band will appear in concert Wednesday, May 30, at Grand Island's Stuhr Museum. The evening concert program will include standard, pop and patriotic music.

On Sunday, June 3, Stuhr Museum will feature a teenage singing group from North Platte, "The Freedom Train Singers," who will be performing at the Museum as part of their summer tour.

Curtain Call

. . . The last performances of the Lincoln Community Playhouse production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The King and I" will be staged at 8:30 p.m. today and Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

. . . Today is the last day that persons may view the works of Linda Stych, Millard-Lefler art instructor. The exhibit is being displayed at First Federal Savings, 1235 N St.

. . . Paintings and prints by Juanita Ray and James Ray will be exhibited in the lobby of the Cengas building through Tuesday, June 5. The exhibit is sponsored by the Lincoln Artists' Guild.

Opening lead - king of diamonds.

Here is a swing hand from a team of four match. At the first table South got to six spades on the bidding shown. East's impudent two notrump bid was the unusual notrump convention showing great length in the minor suits.

West leaped to five diamonds in response, but then gave up the ghost after North bid six spades. This was poor strategy on West's part, since a vulnerable small slam was imminent and seven diamonds doubled could not cost much.

West led a diamond and shifted to a club. Declarer won, drew four rounds of trumps, cashed the king of hearts and took a heart finesse — which succeeded. As a result, he scored 1,430 points.

The finesse was certainly logical. Declarer reasoned that East, who had shown up with no high card strength at all, probably had 6-6-1 distribution for his two notrump bid.

The bidding was spirited at the second table also, but here East became declarer at six diamonds doubled.

South led the king of clubs and made the fatal error of shifting to the queen of spades, instead of a heart. East ruffed, trumped a club, cashed the ace of diamonds, and ruffed another spade.

When he then trumped another club in dummy and found the suit divided 3-3, his 10-7-6 all became tricks. So, after trumping another spade, he cashed three clubs, discarding an equal number of hearts from dummy, and so made six diamonds doubled for a score of 1,090 points.

His team thus gained 2,520 points on one deal, having first made a slam North-South and then made a slam East-West — which is exactly how championships are sometimes won.

Gift-wrapped packages must be opened . . . in spite of protests and sometimes tears.

By GRACIA SIEB
Star Staff Writer

"It is a Federal Crime and a violation of FAA Safety Regulations to: Carry concealed weapons aboard aircraft; Interfere with the flight crews. Passengers and baggage are subject to search."

"Attention: Anti-Hijacking procedures are in effect."

"Federal regulations require that all persons beyond this point be screened and that all hand-carried articles be inspected."

Although these warnings are distinctly displayed, persons trying to enter the large, glass entrance doors of the concourse at the Lincoln Municipal Airport and finding them locked usually appear offended, incredulous or confused. However, the locked doors are merely precautions in accordance with the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) requirement of aviation security.

Since Jan. 5, 1973, passengers have been subjected to screening procedures before boarding aircraft and until May 11, visitors were not allowed in the concourse area.

The Security operations at the Airport have been in effect for nearly five months and nearly 50,000 people have gone through the search operations. But there still is a great deal of passenger confusion due simply to the unfamiliarity with the system.

When the glass barriers are opened shortly before flight takeoff, the passengers and visitors must, one-by-one, go through the security check procedure.

According to Mrs. Mary Barret and Steve Motley, who are employed by Metropolitan Protection Service, Inc. which mans the Airport system, resistance in general has been at a minimum.

The two security officers agreed that, for the most part, people realize that the check is for their own protection,. Therefore it is simply tolerated without comment.

Before filing through the magometer — a metal-detection device — persons first must leave all hand-carried articles with Mrs. Barret, who inspects them. She stated that probems do arise when people are carrying gift-wrapped packages.

In spite of the protests — and many times tears — Mrs. Barret must insist on opening the packages so that she is able to view the contents.

In the course of a cross-country flight, she noted that a package may be opened every time a person changes aircraft. With that in mind, she suggested that passengers wait and wrap their gifts on the plane immediately before they reach their final destination.

Tax Reduction Receives Tentative Approval

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

It took three tries to do it — but Sen Jerome Warner of Waverly finally won 25-12 tentative approval Thursday for legislation reducing the 1973 personal income tax rate from 15% to 13%.

The 25 votes were the minimum required to insert the tax reduction language in a pending bill, LB10, and then push the new measure over its first floor test.

LB10, which originally would have authorized an increase in the Omaha School District building levy, was stripped and rewritten on a 25-16 vote

Final Vote

The bill will be rushed toward a final vote on the 1973 session's last day June 1, leaving Gov J James Exon with the option of disposing of the measure as he wishes after the Legislature has gone home

The income tax rate would be reduced retroactively to Jan 1 as a result of unanticipated revenue from sales and income levies at current rates.

Even if the Legislature were to approve all pending spending bills, according to legislative fiscal estimates, the state would collect a surplus of $15.6 million beyond what is needed to fund 1973-74 expenditures.

The reduction in income tax rates to 13% would, in effect, return about $12 million of the surplus to taxpayers

If the reduction is ultimately approved by the Legislature — and either approved or accepted by the governor — the state could reduce withholding rates for the remainder of the year or provide more in refunds in 1974.

First Bid

Warner's first bid to add the tax cut as an amendment to another bill fell four votes short on Wednesday. A subsequent effort to reconsider that decision was one vote short

Thursday's vote represented a new mixture of senators, some of whom had been absent on Wednesday, some of whom changed their previous position

Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha attempted to amend the newly written LB10 to transfer the responsibility for establishing sales and income tax rates from the State Board of Equalization to the Legislature.

The Cavanaugh plan, which would have written the proposed 13% income tax rate and the current 2½% state sales tax rate into law, was rejected on a 21-25 count.

Backed By Carpenter

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff supported the idea, arguing that it might keep Exon from vetoing the bill.

"If we are going to claim credit for a tax reduction," Cavanaugh contended, "We should accept the blame for (any future) tax increase."

Senators are "eager" to take credit for the proposed income tax cut, Cavanaugh noted And it is "only equitable" that they have the "integrity and courage" to associate themselves with a tax hike "when it comes," he said.

Cavanaugh's proposal was supported by 11 of the 13 Democratic senators.

Warner's proposal was opposed by eight of the 13. Seven of them voted against advancement of the amended LB10.

Here is the vote to adopt Warner's amendment:

For: Barnett, Burbach, Carpenter, C Carsten Chambers, DeCamp, Duis, Epke, Johnson, Kelly, Kremer Luedtke, Marsh, Marvel, Murphy, Proud, Savage, Schmit, Simpson, Stahmer, Stromer, Stull, Warner, Whitney, Wiltse

What Do Kids Want To Be? Ideas Startling

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP)—Researchers at Penn State University, studying whether preschool children think about what they would like to be when they grow up, have gotten some startling replies.

Such as the youngster who wanted to be a bathtub "so I could drink lots of water." Or children who said they wanted to grow up to be dogs or cats.

There were even a few who couldn't imagine ever changing from that they were.

But 70 per cent of the youngsters interviewed came up with definite thoughts on their adult aspirations

Boys, the survey said, were more likely to think in terms of an adult role in general, while girls thought in terms of the specific role of a parent

Visiting Officers Commend St. E's

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Two military officers who are "idea-hunting" as they help plan two new huge federal hospitals visited Lincoln's St Elizabeth Health Center Thursday and came away impressed by the innovations they found there.

"This is one of the very few hospitals recently constructed where you find so many innovations all under one roof," said Lt. Col. Burton Kaplan, an Air Force officer who represents the New Generation of Military Hospitals Special Project Office in Washington.

His comments were echoed by Lt Col. Robert L. Herek, an Army officer with the New Walter Reed Army Medical Center Project Office, also in Washington.

Only One Of Kind

Kaplan said he has been given the only "charter" of its kind in the history of military hospital construction.

"My charter is to build a prototype facility where various things are implemented and tested," he said. "We hope to provide information on new ideas for use "both within and without the military."

Herek, an Omaha native, is with the team planning the latest addition to the Walter Reed complex. The new building, already under construction, is scheduled for completion in 1976

$110 Million

The 1,300-bed facility will cost an estimated $110 million.

While Kaplan's project is still in the early planning stages, Herek explained he and his fellow team members are looking for ideas that may be incorporated into a design already near completion

The prototype hospital, said Kaplan, will be built at Travis Air Force Base in California.

Kaplan said he and his team members were interested in St. E's because of the number of innovations there.

He listed the total energy plant, the automated cart transfer system, the "food factory," abolition of traditional nursing stations, combined surgery-obstretics, the triple-corridor concept in the surgery suite and the unit dose pharmacy system

'Somewhat Unique'

"All that makes St. Elizabeth somewhat unique and progressive," he said.

"Being familiar with it all, and seeing it all integrated, I'm favorably impressed with St. Elizabeth," he said.

"I'll put an 'amen' on that," said Herek. "since this is a Catholic hospital."

Herek said some of the concepts employed at St. E's are being planned at the New Walter Reed, but he said he's looking to see if others might be as well.

Free Professionals

Both said they are interested in doing as much as possible to free professionals — doctors and nurses — from duties that could be handled by technicians in order to allow the professionals to concentrate on work they can do best.

Although Kaplan and Herek headed separate teams for the Lincoln visit, they arrived by coincidence on the same day.

1,500 Phones Out of Service

About 1,500 telephones served by Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. were temporarily out of service Thursday for about 40 minutes.

An LT&T spokesman said the problem was caused at about 3 20 p.m. by a ringing generator malfunction, affecting telephone numbers working out of the company's 1440 M St office

The phones affected had the prefixes 432. 435, 477, 475 and 473, according to the spokesman.

"The problem itself effectively kept the numbers from ringing when called," the spokesman said.

As of 3.45 p.m., the numbers affected were down to 100 and the problem was resolved by 4 p m , he said.

80-Day Journey Ends

Two traveling students from Gustavus, Minn., Barry Lane and his friend Niels Henricksen, finally reached St. Peter, Minn., Thursday. It was the end of their 1,700-mile 80-day journey walking from El Paso, Tex., to St. Peter with a dog and a mule.

Exemption Not Being Claimed

Less than one-third of the persons believed to be eligible in Lancaster County for a homestead exemption allowed homeowners 65 years of age or older who meet certain income requirements have filed applications for the exemption.

Assessor Fritz Meyer issued Thursday a reminder that June 1 is the deadline for filing the homestead exemption applications and only about 1,500 of an estimated 5,000 eligible persons have made application.

The law currently provides that any taxpayer who qualifies shall have exempt from his real estate taxes 25% of the tax on the homestead not to exceed a $125 exemption.

However, pending legislation before the 1973 Unicameral could increase that to about a $228 maximum tax exemption for Lancaster County residents for 1973, and as much as a $457 exemption next year.

However, to qualify for such an exemption, the gross income of the owner-occupant must not exceed the following:

— $2,800, if single, widowed, widower, separated or divorced.

— $3,550, if married with one spouse 65 or over.

— $4,300, if married with both husband and wife 65 or over.

Under definition of the law, a homestead means a residence occupied by the owner and the land surrounding it if not exceeding one acre.

Woods Pool To Be Open For Holiday

If you're staying in Lincoln over the Memorial Day weekend and are wondering what to do — dig out your swimming suit and head for Wood's swimming pool.

To accomodate citizens during the three-day weekend, Woods Memorial pool, at 33rd and J, will be open from 12:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Gary Cooper, city recreation swimming pool supervisor, reported.

Only Woods will be open this weekend, he said.

To Close Again

After the three-day stint, Woods will close down next week since school is still in session.

However, Woods and all the city's pools will open to the public on June 1 for the season.

Lincolnites will have a new place to cool off this summer when Antelope Pool, at 22nd and N, opens its doors for the first time June 1.

The pool will be dedicated in a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 11.30 that morning with members of the Parks and Recreation Board, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and other dignitaries participating in the dedication.

The Antelope Pool is adjacent to the old Muny pool, which was popular for its gradual, sloping sides.

Sloping Bottom

Cooper explained that Antelope Pool also will feature a slopping bottom at the south end of the pool.

The pool, built at a cost of $229,000, will have a staff of five lifeguards, plus other personnel including a manager, cashiers, attendants and a night man.

General admission to all city pools is 30 cents for those 15 years of age and younger and 60 cents for 16 and older, Cooper said.

Several Plans

However, pool patrons can pick from several plans to pay for their swimming time besides the cash admissions.

A discount ticket can be purchased for $10 which gives a 5 cent reduction on child admissions and a 10-cent reduction on adult admissions.

The season family passes sell for $35, Cooper said, and can be used an unlimited number of times. However, the family pass must be used at the pool where the pass was purchased, whereas with a discount ticket, swimmers can plunge into any public pool in town.

Oklahoma Town Hit By Twister

UNION CITY, Okla. (AP) — A tornado heavily damaged an eight-square-block business and residential area in this tiny farm town Thursday night.

Civil Defense officials said six persons were injured. No deaths were reported.

Officials said at least 12 homes, one grain elevator and a service station were destroyed and power lines were down. They said 50 other homes and two businesses were damaged.

Public health officials said they had provided food to 150 of the town's residents. The population of Union City is listed as 306.

Gov. David Hall activated 25 Oklahoma National Guardsmen to assist Union City law officers overnight.

"We saw it coming for us and we hit the storm cellar," said Mrs. Wilton O'Neal. "When nothing happened we looked out and it went north — from there it went right on through town."

Police and ambulances were dispatched, and police cordoned off areas to keep out sightseers, but they were less than successful.

Sightseers became a major headache for rescue workers, jamming traffic lanes for emergency vehicles in the rural community southwest of Oklahoma City.

Tax Valuations Are Lowered On 3 Of 98 Appeals To Board

With decisions still pending on five of the 98 real estate valuation appeals to the Lancaster County Board of Equalization, the commissioners made changes in valuation on only three of the complaints.

Of the 98 real estate appeals filed, three were withdrawn, no one appeared on 18 and the commissioners made no change on the remainder, including more than 20 cases which are pending in Lancaster District Court from last year's appeals and for which the property owners filed another protest this year.

Although it will not change the board's decision since Commissioners Kenneth Bourne and Robert Colin were unanimous in their decisions, Commissioner Jan Gauger did not vote on some, including the personal property appeal of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co

She said she did not wish to vote on those which were pending in court since she was not on the board during the time the original protests were brought and that she would have a decision on the LT&T appeal on Friday

Two of the three on which the commissioners made adjustments were on properties the board personally inspected Wednesday to judge the properties in comparison with other property which the complainants alleged to be comparable.

In one case, the board reduced the assessed valuation $1,095 for equalization purposes

Assessor Fritz Meyer, who accompanied the board on the inspections, noted that he had not been able to gain admittance to the house before and the valuation was based on the remodeling on the exterior which was not as extensivve on the inside as he thought it probably was.

In the other property inspected by the commissioners on which the valuation was lowered, the commissioners unanimously agreed that the assessed valuation should be lowered $1,025 to equalize it with other comparable property in the block.

The only other change made by the board was on a rental property on which they lowered the assessed valuation $625

Judge Orders 'Fair Hearing' For Welfare Recipient's Case

Lancaster District Judge Dale Fahrnbruch Thursday remanded the case of a welfare recipient back to the State Welfare Department on grounds she was not afforded a "fair hearing" and ordered that someone conduct the hearing who was not an attorney for the welfare department.

Mrs. Lois Westlake, in her action against State Welfare Director Lawrence L. Graham, had contended she should have received $157.50 in Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) funds for May 1972 but was awarded only $34.

Judge Fahrnbruch held that during a hearing on her appeal the attorney conducting the hearing was also in the dual role of being a member of the state attorney general's office and a counsel for the welfare department.

The court further held that the finding by the state welfare director that it was not feasible to transfer Mrs. Westlake's case to Lancaster County prior to June 1, 1972, was not supported by credible evidence.

He ordered the case remanded to the Welfare Department for a fair hearing to determine whether she was a resident of Lancaster County during the month of May 1972, and if so, the amount of aid she should have received from Lancaster County Division of Public Welfare for that period.

Visiting Officers Commend St. E's

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Two military officers who are "idea-hunting" as they help plan two new huge federal hospitals visited Lincoln's St. Elizabeth Health Center Thursday and came away impressed by the innovations they found there.

"This is one of the very few hospitals recently constructed where you find so many innovations all under one roof," said Lt. Col. Burton Kaplan, an Air Force officer who represents the New Generation of Military Hospitals Special Project Office in Washington.

His comments were echoed by Lt. Col. Robert L. Herek, an Army officer with the New Walter Reed Army Medical Center Project Office, also in Washington.

Only One Of Kind

Kaplan said he has been given the only "charter" of its kind in the history of military hospital construction.

"My charter is to build a prototype facility where various things are implemented and tested," he said. "We hope to provide information on new ideas for use "both within and without the military."

Herek, an Omaha native, is with the team planning the latest addition to the Walter Reed complex. The new building, already under construction, is scheduled for completion in 1976.

$110 Million

The 1,300-bed facility will cost an estimated $110 million.

While Kaplan's project is still in the early planning stages, Herek explained he and his fellow team members are looking for ideas that may be incorporated into a design already near completion.

The prototype hospital, said Kaplan, will be built at Travis Air Force Base in California.

Kaplan said he and his team members were interested in St. E's because of the number of innovations there.

He listed the total energy plant, the automated cart transfer system, the "food factory," abolition of traditional nursing stations, combined surgery-obstretics, the triple-corridor concept in the surgery suite and the unit dose pharmacy system.

'Somewhat Unique'

"All that makes St. Elizabeth somewhat unique and progressive," he said.

"Being familiar with it all, and seeing it all integrated, I'm favorably impressed with St. Elizabeth," he said.

"I'll put an 'amen' on that," said Herek, "since this is a Catholic hospital."

Herek said some of the concepts employed at St. E's are being planned at the New Walter Reed, but he said he's looking to see if others might be as well.

Free Professionals

Both said they are interested in doing as much as possible to free professionals — doctors and nurses — from duties that could be handled by technicians in order to allow the professionals to concentrate on work they can do best.

Although Kaplan and Herek headed separate teams for the Lincoln visit, they arrived by coincidence on the same day.

1,500 Phones Out of Service

About 1,500 telephones served by Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. were temporarily out of service Thursday for about 40 minutes.

An LT&T spokesman said the problem was caused at about 3:20 p.m. by a ringing generator malfunction, affecting telephone numbers working out of the company's 1440 M St. office.

The phones affected had the prefixes 432, 435, 477, 475 and 473, according to the spokesman.

"The problem itself effectively kept the numbers from ringing when called," the spokesman said.

As of 3:45 p.m., the numbers affected were down to 100 and the problem was resolved by 4 p.m., he said.

80-Day Journey Ends

Two traveling students from Gustavus, Minn., Barry Lane and his friend Niels Henricksen, finally reached St. Peter, Minn., Thursday. It was the end of their 1,700-mile 80-day journey walking from El Paso, Tex., to St. Peter with a dog and a mule.

Exemption Not Being Claimed

Less than one-third of the persons believed to be eligible in Lancaster County for a homestead exemption allowed homeowners 65 years of age or older who meet certain income requirements have filed applications for the exemption.

Assessor Fritz Meyer issued Thursday a reminder that June 1 is the deadline for filing the homestead exemption applications and only about 1,500 of an estimated 5,000 eligible persons have made application.

The law currently provides that any taxpayer who qualifies shall have exempt from his real estate taxes 25% of the tax on the homestead not to exceed a $125 exemption.

However, pending legislation before the 1973 Unicameral could increase that to about a $228 maximum tax exemption for Lancaster County residents for 1973, and as much as a $457 exemption next year.

However, to qualify for such an exemption, the gross income of the owner-occupant must not exceed the following:

— $2,800, if single, widowed, widower, separated or divorced.

— $3,550, if married with one spouse 65 or over.

— $4,300, if married with both husband and wife 65 or over.

Under definition of the law, a homestead means a residence occupied by the owner and the land surrounding it if not exceeding one acre.

Woods Pool To Be Open For Holiday

If you're staying in Lincoln over the Memorial Day weekend and are wondering what to do — dig out your swimming suit and head for Wood's swimming pool.

To accomodate citizens during the three-day weekend, Woods Memorial pool, at 33rd and J, will be open from 12:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Gary Cooper, city recreation swimming pool supervisor, reported.

Only Woods will be open this weekend, he said.

To Close Again

After the three-day stint, Woods will close down next week since school is still in session.

However, Woods and all the city's pools will open to the public on June 1 for the season.

Lincolnites will have a new place to cool off this summer when Antelope Pool, at 22nd and N, opens its doors for the first time June 1.

The pool will be dedicated in a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 11:30 that morning with members of the Parks and Recreation Board, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and other dignitaries participating in the dedication.

The Antelope Pool is adjacent to the old Muny pool, which was popular for its gradual, sloping sides.

Sloping Bottom

Cooper explained that Antelope Pool also will feature a slopping bottom at the south end of the pool.

The pool, built at a cost of $229,000, will have a staff of five lifeguards, plus other personnel including a manager, cashiers, attendants and a night man.

General admission to all city pools is 30 cents for those 15 years of age and younger and 60 cents for 16 and older, Cooper said.

Several Plans

However, pool patrons can pick from several plans to pay for their swimming time besides the cash admissions.

A discount ticket can be purchased for $10 which gives a 5 cent reduction on child admissions and a 10-cent reduction on adult admissions.

The season family passes sell for $35, Cooper said, and can be used an unlimited number of times. However, the family pass must be used at the pool where the pass was purchased, whereas with a discount ticket, swimmers can plunge into any public pool in town.

Oklahoma Town Hit By Twister

UNION CITY, Okla. (AP) — A tornado heavily damaged an eight-square-block business and residential area in this tiny farm town Thursday night.

Civil Defense officials said six persons were injured. No deaths were reported.

Officials said at least 12 homes, one grain elevator and a service station were destroyed and power lines were down. They said 50 other homes and two businesses were damaged.

Public health officials said they had provided food to 150 of the town's residents. The population of Union City is listed as 306.

Gov. David Hall activated 25 Oklahoma National Guardsmen to assist Union City law officers overnight.

"We saw it coming for us and we hit the storm cellar," said Mrs. Wilton O'Neal. "When nothing happened we looked out and it went north — from there it went right on through town."

Police and ambulances were dispatched, and police cordoned off areas to keep out sightseers, but they were less than successful.

Sightseers became a major headache for rescue workers, jamming traffic lanes for emergency vehicles in the rural community southwest of Oklahoma City.

WHERE IS DAVID HRDLICKA?

Lt. Col. David L. Hrdlicka is an American pilot who was downed over Laos and captured on May 18, 1965 by the Pathet Lao. This photo of David in captivity appeared several months later in Pravda, the Moscow daily newspaper. His capture was also confirmed by a propaganda broadcast from Red China.

On May 22, 1966, the Pathet Lao broadcasted a letter which they stated David Hrdlicka had written on April 24, 1966. It was a very lengthy, but typical propaganda letter expressing all the same sentiments that many returned prisoners have been tortured into signing. Some prisoners were not only constantly tortured to sign these statements, but were also offered an early release if their statement met all the requirements: exaggerated praise of their peace-loving captors, begging forgiveness for all their own criminal acts, condemnation of their imperialist government, and ending with their plea to return home.

There is little doubt, for the pattern was repeated too many times, that David was probably both tortured and promised release if, in fact, he did sign the statement attributed to him.

The Communists, as usual, did not keep their promise. They have not even accounted for David.

The most heralded aspect of the Peace Treaty was that North Vietnam promised the release of all American prisoners in Southeast Asia and their cooperation in obtaining the fullest accounting of MIAs.

The communists pretended to meet the terms of the Peace Treaty by releasing a separate list of 10 prisoners, whom they maintained were from Laos. With the exception of one man who was held in South Vietnam, these so-called Laotian releases were all men who were held in North Vietnam.

NO PRISONERS HAVE BEEN RELEASED FROM LAOS

North Vietnam then tried a second subterfuge. They reported on April 6, 1973, that the Pathet Lao did not have the facilities for holding prisoners, hence, executed them within several days of capture. They apparently weren't concerned that the Pathet Lao had publicized David's captivity, for they rely heavily on our apathy and forgetfulness.

BUT WE WILL NOT FORGET DAVID, NOR RON DODGE, NOR ANY OF THE OTHER MEN WHOM THEY HAVE BOASTED ABOUT CAPTURING AND NOW REFUSE TO DISCUSS.

SGT. Don Sparks, after being held ten months by the Viet Cong, wrote a letter to his parents on April 11, 1970, yet they have heard nothing more. Are Mr. and Mrs. Sparks now to assume all prisoners are home, so they should just forget Don?

The North Korean Communists were able to get away with this barbaric cruelty in Korea, because the American people didn't know. The families of those 389 men who were known to be prisoners tried to speak out, but they didn't have the funds to publicize their story.

THIS TIME, YOU KNOW. Are you going to turn your back on these men? You are the citizens they pledged to support and defend when they entered the service.

AN ACCIDENT . . . like this makes 'em wince.

BULGED END . . . is forcibly straightened.

They Put 'Em Back On The Road

By IVAN TRAVNICEK
Star Staff Writer

Shrieker-Krumble-Bumble!!!

That could be the distant summer night sound of a major train wreck.

Kabingga-Berkk!!!

That could possibly be heard some dawn in January if a chilled fork lift operator carelessly let the prongs of his machine jab the sides of a boxcar being loaded.

One couldn't blame him if he was in a hurry.

A smoke plume curls lazily skyward, marring a clear autumn day.

If that smoke is coming from a railroad car with a possibly dangerous cargo, the firefighters will rush at top speed to halt the blaze's progress

A truck driver smitten with spring fever misses the rail crossing signal and his multi-ton steed rams the side of a slow moving freight train.

These are all images of one form of violence or another. Every one of them would make an employe of the Burlington-Northern Havelock Shops wince.

And these scenarios of violence each depict one of the forms of mishap or carelessness that can reduce a railroad car to such a state of disrepair that it must either be fixed or junked.

Most people might believe accidents cause the most damage, but in reality, general wear and tear cause the majority of cars to need repair.

The cars belonging to Burlington-Northern that are not junked are sent to a repair facility such as the 320-acre Havelock Shops

The shops in Havelock are one of three owned by the railroad, but the Nebraska operation is the biggest The other two are in Brainard, and St Cloud, Minn.

Assistant shop superintendent L. L. Rebensdorf said the Havelock Shops can repair about four cars a day with the 599 employes on the payroll.

Train wrecks are caused, he said, by soft spots in road beds, broken trucks (wheel assemblies), broken rails, auto accidents, thin-flanged (worn out) wheels, or tracks out of alignment.

Shop superintendent E. J. Somer said accidents in the yards also do their share of damage.

So repairs must be made, and quickly.

Somer said "management has been stressing an all-out effort to get cars on the road due to the grain transportation crisis."

To meet that demand, the Havelock Shops accepted 500 cars for repair on April 2. The repairs are to be finished by Oct. 26, Somer said.

He said 250 of the cars were from the Spokane, Portland & Seattle line, now owned by Burlington-Northern, and the rest from Great Northern, also now a part of Burlington-Northern.

The cars will be repaired at an average cost of $5,238 apiece, Somer said. This compares quite favorably, he said, with the $11,700 to $14,500 cost for a new boxcar. The cost varies with the "optional equipment," such as air-pack cushions or insulation that can be added

The repair process is started by removing the old trucks from the cars and replacing them with rebuilt trucks.

The trucks are pulled through a giant hot water-steam bath made out of an old tank car. Up to 22 trucks can be processed per eight-hour day through the bath which removes oil, grease, road grime and sand.

The trucks are then inspected for metal fatigue cracks in the frame, and for wheel, brake, axle and axle bearing wear. These items will be replaced or refurbished as needed.

The body of the car will be completely stripped of the finished plywood material on the interior, of damaged flooring and of all worn or damaged exterior fittings.

After stripping, the ends of the boxcars, which usually are badly bowed out from shifting cargo or careless loading, are straightened out.

The next step is to sandblast the car down to bare metal in preparation for repainting.

Farther down the line, workers will install "nailable" steel flooring. This is flooring into which fasteners can be pounded.

On the interior walls of a boxcar new plywood, up to 1½ inches thick, will be installed and fastened by a worker with a nail gun allowing him to pound a nail a second.

The last stop prior to the paint shop allows a welder to apply an end sheet and end sill reinforcement patch. In addition to welding, the patch is secured by fasteners applied hydraulically.

The patch is applied for additional strengthening of the car.

The next stop is to spray paint the car with a coat of Burlington-Northern green. A template is used after the green paint has dried and the modernistic BN logo is sprayed on with white paint.

The car is weighed and reporting marks are also stenciled onto the green with white paint.

The car is then finished and ready for use.

Shrieker-Krumble-Bumble!!!

That could be the distant summer night sound of a major train wreck.

Kabingga-Berkk!!!

That could possibly be heard some dawn in January if a chilled fork lift operator carelessly let the prongs of his machine jab the sides of a boxcar being loaded.

One couldn't blame him if he was in a hurry.

A smoke plume curls lazily skyward, marring a clear autumn day.

If that smoke is coming from a railroad car with a possibly dangerous cargo, the firefighters will rush at top speed to halt the blaze's progress.

A truck driver smitten with spring fever misses the rail crossing signal and his multi-ton steed rams the side of a slow moving freight train.

These are all images of one form of violence or another. Every one of them would make an employe of the Burlington-Northern Havelock Shops wince.

And these scenarios of violence each depict one of the forms of mishap or carelessness that can reduce a railroad car to such a state of disrepair that it must either be fixed or junked.

Most people might believe accidents cause the most damage, but in reality, general wear and tear cause the majority of cars to need repair.

The cars belonging to Burlington-Northern that are not junked are sent to a repair facility such as the 320-acre Havelock Shops.

The shops in Havelock are one of three owned by the railroad, but the Nebraska operation is the biggest. The other two are in Brainard, and St. Cloud, Minn.

Assistant shop superintendent L. L. Rebensdorf said the Havelock Shops can repair about four cars a day with the 599 employes on the payroll.

Train wrecks are caused, he said, by soft spots in road beds, broken trucks (wheel assemblies), broken rails, auto accidents, thin-flanged (worn out) wheels, or tracks out of alignment.

Shop superintendent E. J. Somer said accidents in the yards also do their share of damage.

Gay Churches Said 'Necessary Heresy'

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Gay churches are a "necessary heresy while straight churches are getting their thing together" to the point where they can accept gay people, an ordained American Baptist minister said Thursday.

The Rev. Rodger Harrison, who is now pastor of Christ Chapel in Costa Mesa, Calif., which has a homosexual membership of about 90, said gay churches offer gay people an opportunity to be "whole human beings."

He said gay churches are an alternative to the atmosphere of alienation and impersonal sex in gay gathering spots like gay bars and gay baths.

Harrison, who has worked with straight American Baptist congregations in Arizona, Moscow and Sweden, said the first time he ever saw a gay congregation he saw a similarity between them and the American Baptists he saw in Russia.

'Free At Last'

He said both were a repressed minority who worshiped with great fervor and an attitude of "free at last."

He said that as pastor of Christ Chapel he has encountered the same experiences he had in straight churches.

However, he noted that the church had disintegrated twice before he assumed the pastorship.

'Bickering, Fighting'

"You get a bunch of queens together and you'll have more bickering and fighting that in an average women's group," he said.

Harrison said that gay churches exist all over the United States, with concentrations in Florida and the West Coast.

The Metropolitan Community Church in Los Angeles has a Sunday morning worship service attended by 800 persons, Harrison said.

Harrison said he is trying to build a "bridge of communication" between the American Baptist Church and the Metropolitan Community Church.

To that end a meeting was held Wednesday night at the United Ministries for Higher Education. About 150 attended, Harrison said.

The Metropolitan Community Church (a predominantly gay denomination), of which Christ Chapel is a member, has applied for membership in the American Baptist Churches of the Pacific Southwest.

Ruth Etting Will Appear In David City

David City — Ruth Etting, the David City native who achieved fame as a star of the Ziegfeld Follies, will return "home" this weekend to be guest of honor at the David City High School Alumni Association reunion Saturday and at the David City Centennial observance on June 1-2-3.

Now a resident of Colorado Springs, Colo., Mrs. Ruth Etting Alderman informed officials in charge of the centennial celebration she had planned to be in David City next Sunday and remain through the activities related to the community's 100th birthday.

When she realized, however, that she could also attend the high school alumni reunion by arriving a day earlier, she readily changed her plans. She was graduated from David City High School in 1916, and went to Chicago to study designing at Chicago's Academy of Fine Arts.

It was from a break, while designing chorus costumes, that she went on to a career in show business, including starring in the Ziegfeld shows in 1927, 1928, 1929 and 1931.

Some highlights from her life will be included in the historical pageant which will be staged Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, June 1, 2 and 3. She has agreed to be on hand for all three performances and to make an appearance in connection with this portion of the history of David City.

Martin Backs North Loup, O'Neill Projects Over Mid-State

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., has proposed that a federal construction appropriation for one Nebraska irrigation project be cut if necessary to add funds for two others.

He urged a House Appropriations subcommittee to vote $200,000 each for the Mid-State, North Loup and O'Neill projects.

The federal Bureau of Reclamation's budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 contains $800,000 for the Mid-State project and nothing for North Loup and O'Neill.

In testimony Tuesday, Martin supported requests of proponents of the North Loup and O'Neill projects for planning, engineering and preconstruction funds.

Additional Flooding Possible

The State Civil Defense Agency reported Thursday that additional heavy rainfall within the next 30 days could prompt a reoccurence of flooding along the entire length of the Platte River.

Col. Burl Johnson, in a memorandum to Gov. J. James Exon, said that aerial observations have confirmed that the entire Platte is at or near bankfull conditions. Water levels on the North Platte are continuing to rise.

Meanwhile, he said, new heavy, rains in the Denver area will cause the South Platte to rise to nearly the levels which inundated low-lying areas last week. Johnson predicted the South Platte would crest at Paxton on May 27 and at North Platte on May 28.

"We now expect these high water levels to continue until the irrigation season, which is normally around mid-June or early July," Johnson said.

"We have another 30 days to worry about rain. With rain we would most certainly again face the flooding circumstances of 1971 — and this year the danger includes all of the Platte."

Johnson reported that after a meeting with various officials from Nebraska and Wyoming an agreement was reached to adjust water levels in certain reservoirs to avaoid an uncontrolled spill.

Johnson advised farmers to remove equipment and livestock from the Platte flood plain and to inspect and repair dikes.

Oil Rights Not Sold As Slated

Kansas City (AP) — The U. S. General Services Administration (GSA) said Thursday a scheduled opening of bids for the mineral rights on 17,500 acres of former military land near Sidney, Neb., has been canceled.

The bid opening was to have taken place in the GSA's Kansas City office Friday.

No reason was given for the cancelation.

A spokesman in the Kansas City office said the order came from Washington.

The land, which housed a major ammunition depot between 1942 and the late 1960's, was sold to private parties when the government sold the depot. But the government retained rights to the minerals below the land, as is customary in such actions.

Earlier this year, in what was termed an unusual action, the GSA announced the rights on six tracts of land would be sold to the highest bidders.

The announcement attracted a great deal of attention in the oil and gas industries because the land is near productive fields in Cheyenne County.

In recent weeks a number of seismographic testing crews have criss-crossed the area and more than six drilling rigs were reported to be conducting tests in the past two weeks.

No indication was given by the government when the bids will be accepted.

Conservation Office Claimed Unfair To Union

The American Federation of Government Employes, AFL CIO, filed 15 unfair labor practice charges against the U.S. Agriculture Department's Soil Conservation Service office in Lincoln Thursday.

The charges were filed with Morrie A. Bolline, regional director for the government agency.

Carl W. Holt, representative of the union, estimated that 15 of the 200 employees of the Soil Conservation Service were members of the union.

Holt interviewed by telephone, said the charges generally involved efforts by the agency to discourage membership of its employes in the union.

"We regard the actions by the agency as a form of harassment of the local union steward, Sylvester Grandberry," Holt said

Bolline, contacted at his office, said, "We did get a letter with the charges today. We will respond to each individual charge separately when we have had an opportunity to study them carefully."

The procedure for such actions involving federal employes provides a 30-day period for the agency to try to resolve differences with employes before the matter is submitted to officials of the U.S. Department of Labor for further action.

"I'm all for open housing...

I just don't want it in our lovely, peaceful neighborhood". This is pretty much the same thing as saying I'm for righting a social injustice as long as there is no cost to me. Has it ever worked out that way? This planet is our neighborhood. And all its people are neighbors in the community of man.

I just don't want it in our lovely, peaceful neighborhood". This is pretty much the same thing as saying I'm for righting a social injustice as long as there is no cost to me. (a) Commencing with the first business day of the month following the month in which the Series of 1974 Bonds are delivered, and on the first business day of each and every month thereafter so long as any Series of 1974 Bonds are outstanding, there shall be credited from moneys in the Electric Revenue Fund to the Bond and Interest Account for credit to the Interest Account therein an amount such that, if the same amount were so paid and credited to that sub-account on the first business day of each succeeding calendar month thereafter and prior to the next date upon which an installment of interest falls due on the Series of 1974 Bonds, the aggregate of the amounts so paid and credited to said Interest Account will on such interest payment date be equal to the installment of interest falling due on such date on the Series of 1974 Bonds, so as to provide for the payment of the interest on said Bonds.

(b) Commencing with the first business day of the month which is twelve months prior to the first maturity date of the Series of 1974 Bonds, and on the first business day of each and every month thereafter so long as any Series of 1974 Bonds are outstanding, there shall be credited from moneys in the Electric Revenue Fund to the Bond and Interest Account for credit to the Serial Bond Principal Account therein an amount such that if the same amount were so credited to that sub-account on the first business day of each succeeding month thereafter and prior to the next date on which any of the Series of 1974 Bonds mature, the aggregate of the amounts so credited to that sub-account will on the next maturity date be equal to the principal of the Series of 1974 Bonds becoming due on such date.

(c) At such time or times in such month or months after the delivery of the Series of 1974 Bonds as the finance director may deem advisable, after the credits required by Ordinance No. 8896 and this ordinance (if any) to be made in such month or months to the Operation and Maintenance Account and the Bond and Interest Account have been made, there shall be credited from moneys in the Electric Revenue Fund to the Reserve Account that amount or amounts which, together with the amounts, if any, credited to the Reserve Account from the proceeds of the Series of 1974 Bonds and from moneys in the Surplus Account, will cause the total amount on credit to the Reserve Account on the first day on which credits are required by the preceding paragraph (b) to be made to the Serial Bond Principal Account, to be equal to the maximum aggregate debt service requirement for any future fiscal year thereafter for all Outstanding Bonds then outstanding and the Series of 1974 Bonds.

SECTION 7. APPLICABILITY OF PROVISIONS OF ORDINANCE NO. 8896 TO SERIES OF 1974 BONDS. The Series of 1974 Bonds, together with the interest thereon, shall be payable, on a parity with the Outstanding Bonds and equally and ratably secured therewith, solely from the revenues derived from the electric system of the City, and shall not in any event be a debt of said City within the meaning of any constitutional, statutory or charter limitation upon the creation of general obligation indebtedness of the City. The Series of 1974 Bonds are hereby determined to be "Additional Bonds" issued pursuant to Section 13 of Ordinance No. 8896 within the meaning of such words as defined and used in that ordinance, and all of the provisions of Ordinance No. 8896 applicable to Additional Bonds issued pursuant to Section 13 thereof shall be applicable to the Series of 1974 Bonds and are made a part hereof for the benefit and security of the holders from time to time of the Series of 1974 Bonds as though fully set forth herein, including without limiting the generality of the foregoing, all provisions of Ordinance No. 8896 relating the establishment, maintenance, revision and collection of charges and rates for the use and services of the electric system; the pledge, collection, deposit and application of the revenues of the electric system and the maintenance of all the special funds and accounts created by Ordinance No. 8896; the maintenance and operation of the electric system; insurance; books and accounts and audits; the investment of moneys; the terms and conditions upon which further Additional Bonds may be issued payable as to principal, premium and interest on a parity with the Outstanding Bonds and the Series of 1974 Bonds; restrictions on the amending Ordinance No. 8896; the terms and conditions upon which the City's obligations under Ordinance No. 8896 and the liens, pledges, dedications, covenants and agreements of the City therein made or provided for may be fully discharged and satisfied as to the Outstanding Bonds and the Series of 1974 Bonds and such Bonds no longer deemed to be outstanding thereunder; and all other covenants, terms and conditions contained in Ordinance No. 8896 for the benefit and security of "Additional Bonds" issued pursuant to Section 13 of said ordinance, as said words are defined and used therein.

So long as any of the Series of 1974 Bonds are outstanding, this ordinance and Ordinance No. 8896 shall constitute a contract of the City with every holder from time to time of the Series of 1974 Bonds and the coupons pertaining thereto, enforceable as provided in Section 16 of Ordinance No. 8896.

SECTION 8. ELECTRIC SYSTEM CONSTRUCTION FUND. There is hereby created and established with the City Treasurer a fund to be known as the "Electric System Construction Fund". The moneys on deposit in the Electric System Construction Fund shall be used and applied to the payment of the costs of those acquisitions, improvements, extensions, equippings and furnishings to the electric system to be financed from the proceeds of the Series of 1974 Bonds, including without limitation: (a) the payment of legal, financial and engineering costs and the costs and expenses of issuing the Series of 1974 Bonds or the Notes and (b) any restorations to the Surplus Account required to be made from the proceeds of the Series of 1974 Bonds or the Notes by reason of the application of moneys credited to the Surplus Account to (i) the costs of those acquisitions, improvements, extensions, equippings and furnishings to the electric system for which the Series of 1974 Bonds are issued or (ii) the retirement of any portion of the principal of the Notes. Pending their application to such purposes, the moneys on deposit in the Electric System Construction Fund shall be subject to the lien and pledge of Ordinance No. 8896 and of this ordinance, and shall be held for the benefit of the City for the purposes therein and herein provided, and for the benefit of the holder or holders of the Outstanding Bonds, the Series of 1974 Bonds, any other Additional Bonds and the Notes, as their interest may appear. Withdrawals from the Electric System Construction Fund shall be made in the manner withdrawals from other funds of the City are made.

In the event that the moneys on deposit in the Electric System Construction Fund are insufficient to pay all the foregoing costs the finance director may pay over to the extent of any such insufficiency to the Electric System Construction Fund moneys on deposit in the Electric Revenue Fund on credit to the Surplus Account. If after the payment in full of all the foregoing costs, or after adequate provision has been made for such payment, any moneys remain in the Electric System Construction Fund, such excess shall be transferred to the Electric Revenue Fund for credit to the Surplus Account, to be used and applied as are other moneys credited to that account, and the Electric System Construction Fund may be closed.

Pending their application as provided in this section, moneys on deposit in the Electric System Construction Fund may be invested in such investments as are lawful under the laws of Nebraska, including the Charter of the City, for the investment of such moneys, which investments shall mature in such amounts and at such times so that the payments to be made from such fund may be made. The interest on and income from the investment of moneys in the Electric System Construction Fund shall be deposited in that fund, for use and application as are all other moneys deposited therein.

SECTION 9. AUTHORIZATION, DETAILS, EXECUTION AND FORM OF THE NOTES. In anticipation of the issuance and sale of a like principal amount of the Series of 1974 Bonds and the receipt of the proceeds of such sale, there are hereby authorized to be issued at one time or from time to time Ten Million Three Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars $10,350,000 of bond anticipation notes for the purpose of paying all or a portion of the costs for which the Series of 1974 Bonds are authorized to be issued. Both interest on and principal of the Notes shall be payable at the office of the County Treasurer of the County of Lancaster, Nebraska, in the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, in any coin or currency of the United States of America which at the time of such payment is legal tender for public and private debts. The foregoing payment from and pledge of said revenues are and shall be subject, however, to the prior payment therefrom and prior and superior lien thereon of the Outstanding Bonds and the credits from said revenues required by items FIRST through THIRD of Section 6 of said Ordinance No. 8896. The principal of the Notes shall be payable solely from the proceeds of the sale of the revenue bonds in anticipation of which said Notes are issued, which proceeds are hereby pledged to such payment. The City of Lincoln hereby reserves the option to apply to the payment of such interest and principal any other moneys of the City lawfully available for such purpose. Moneys credited to the Note Interest Account shall be used and applied solely to the payment of the interest on the Notes and shall be so applied as and when such interest becomes due. Pending their application to the payment of such interest moneys on credit to the Note Interest Account shall be invested and reinvested in direct obligations of, or obligations the payment of the principal and interest of which is unconditionally guaranteed by, the United States of America maturing in such amounts and at such times so that the interest upon the Notes can be paid as and when the same become due. The Series of 1974 Bonds are hereby determined to be "Additional Bonds" issued pursuant to Section 13 of Ordinance No. 8896 within the meaning of such words as defined and used in that ordinance, and all of the provisions of Ordinance No. 8896 applicable to Additional Bonds issued pursuant to Section 13 thereof shall be applicable to the Series of 1974 Bonds and are made a part hereof for the benefit and security of the holders from time to time of the Series of 1974 Bonds as though fully set forth herein, including without limiting the generality of the foregoing, all provisions of Ordinance No. 8896 relating the establishment, maintenance, revision and collection of charges and rates for the use and services of the electric system; the pledge, collection, deposit and application of the revenues of the electric system and the maintenance of all the special funds and accounts created by Ordinance No. 8896; the maintenance and operation of the electric system; insurance; books and accounts and audits; the investment of moneys; the terms and conditions upon which further Additional Bonds may be issued payable as to principal, premium and interest on a parity with the Outstanding Bonds and the Series of 1974 Bonds; restrictions on the amending Ordinance No. 8896; the terms and conditions upon which the City's obligations under Ordinance No. 8896 and the liens, pledges, dedications, covenants and agreements of the City therein made or provided for may be fully discharged and satisfied as to the Outstanding Bonds and the Series of 1974 Bonds and such Bonds no longer deemed to be outstanding thereunder; and all other covenants, terms and conditions contained in Ordinance No. 8896 for the benefit and security of "Additional Bonds" issued pursuant to Section 13 of said ordinance, as said words are defined and used therein.

So long as any of the Series of 1974 Bonds are outstanding, this ordinance and Ordinance No. 8896 shall constitute a contract of the City with every holder from time to time of the Series of 1974 Bonds and the coupons pertaining thereto, enforceable as provided in Section 16 of Ordinance No. 8896.

SECTION 8. ELECTRIC SYSTEM CONSTRUCTION FUND. There is hereby created and established with the City Treasurer a fund to be known as the "Electric System Construction Fund". The moneys on deposit in the Electric System Construction Fund shall be used and applied to the payment of the costs of those acquisitions, improvements, extensions, equippings and furnishings to the electric system to be financed from the proceeds of the Series of 1974 Bonds, including without limitation: (a) the payment of legal, financial and engineering costs and the costs and expenses of issuing the Series of 1974 Bonds or the Notes and (b) any restorations to the Surplus Account required to be made from the proceeds of the Series of 1974 Bonds or the Notes by reason of the application of moneys credited to the Surplus Account to (i) the costs of those acquisitions, improvements, extensions, equippings and furnishings to the electric system for which the Series of 1974 Bonds are issued or (ii) the retirement of any portion of the principal of the Notes. Pending their application to such purposes, the moneys on deposit in the Electric System Construction Fund shall be subject to the lien and pledge of Ordinance No. 8896 and of this ordinance, and shall be held for the benefit of the City for the purposes therein and herein provided, and for the benefit of the holder or holders of the Outstanding Bonds, the Series of 1974 Bonds, any other Additional Bonds and the Notes, as their interest may appear. Withdrawals from the Electric System Construction Fund shall be made in the manner withdrawals from other funds of the City are made.

In the event that the moneys on deposit in the Electric System Construction Fund are insufficient to pay all the foregoing costs the finance director may pay over to the extent of any such insufficiency to the Electric System Construction Fund moneys on deposit in the Electric Revenue Fund on credit to the Surplus Account. If after the payment in full of all the foregoing costs, or after adequate provision has been made for such payment, any moneys remain in the Electric System Construction Fund, such excess shall be transferred to the Electric Revenue Fund for credit to the Surplus Account, to be used and applied as are other moneys credited to that account, and the Electric System Construction Fund may be closed.

Pending their application as provided in this section, moneys on deposit in the Electric System Construction Fund may be invested in such investments as are lawful under the laws of Nebraska, including the Charter of the City, for the investment of such moneys, which investments shall mature in such amounts and at such times so that the payments to be made from such fund may be made. The interest on and income from the investment of moneys in the Electric System Construction Fund shall be deposited in that fund, for use and application as are all other moneys deposited therein.

SECTION 9. AUTHORIZATION, DETAILS, EXECUTION AND FORM OF THE NOTES. In anticipation of the issuance and sale of a like principal amount of the Series of 1974 Bonds and the receipt of the proceeds of such sale, there are hereby authorized to be issued at one time or from time to time Ten Million Three Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars $10,350,000 of bond anticipation notes for the purpose of paying all or a portion of the costs for which the Series of 1974 Bonds are authorized to be issued. New Legislation Expected Soon On Rail Reform

(c) Washington Star-News

Washington — The Nixon administration is expected soon to send to Congress broad regulatory reform aimed primarily at giving railroads greater freedom to merge, to acquire other modes of transportation and to change their rates.

The legislation was outlined Wednesday at a meeting at the Department of Transportation with representatives of major corporations. Both regulatory reform and the administration's plans for revitalizng railroads in the Northeast were discussed.

The briefing was given by Federal Railroad Administrator John Ingram; COT General Counsel John Barnum, and Assistant Secretary for Policy, Plans and International Affairs John L. Hazard.

Attending were representatives of at least 22 major corporations, including four of the nation's six largest steelmakers — United States Steel, Bethlehem, Republic and Indland — Dow Chemical Co., E. I. DuPont de Nemours, PPG Industries, Ford Motor Co., Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Scott Paper Co., General Mills Inc., and others.

Vietnamese Add 'Gate' To Lingo

(c) Chicago Daily News

Saigon — Vietnamese, which has remained a comparatively pure language despite the massive U.S. influence here, has just picked up a new American word, "gate."

Yes, as in Watergate.

In the last week virtually every local news story on corruption or scandal has been displayed in screaming headlines, each using the word "gate."

The alleged involvement of an administrative official of the South Vietnamese Senate in the theft of three cars has been dubbed "autogate."

Stories reporting on a German magazine expose of alleged misuse of funds by the president of Vietnam's Confederation of Labor is being called "the laborgate affair."

And a scandal involving the head of South Vietnam's Internal Revenue Service is labeled "taxgate."

The addition to the Vietnamese language joins such other distinguished American contributions as "TV" and "Apollo."

3 When was the last time you stood up and applauded a movie?
When was the last time you were so impressed and involved that you spontaneously cheered?
At previews everywhere across the country, audiences have responded with a thunderous reaction to "Walking Tall."
It is the deeply moving, contemporary story of a young man who wouldn't surrender to the System . . . and the girl who always stood beside him.
"Walking Tall" is based on the truth and it isn't "just a movie."
"Might just turn out to be this year's sleeper and emulate the runaway success of 'BILLY JACK.'"

CIA: Radicals Not Foreign-Backed

©The New York Times

Washington — The Central Intelligence Agency reported in 1969 and 1970 that it could find no substantial evidence to support the Nixon administration's view that foreign governments were supplying undercover agents and funds to radicals and Black Panther groups in the United States, White House and intelligence sources said Thursday.

The CIA'S findings were rejected, the sources said, by high-level White House aides who arranged in late 1970 for some 35 agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation to open overseas intelligence posts in 20 countries The bureau's expansion is said to have angered Richard Helms, then the CIA director, and other agency officials

"We tried to show that the radical movements were homegrown, indigenous responses to perceived grievances and problems that had been growing for years," one official who worked on the agency's analyses recalled. "We said the radicals were clean and that we couldn't find anything. But all it turned out to be was another nail in Helms's coffin."

Helms was relieved as the agency's director late last year.

The CIA said it would not comment on its 1969 and 1970 reports

The intelligence sources said the first CIA study was submitted to the office of Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security adviser, more than six months before Nixon decided to establish a special inter-agency committee to prepare recommendations for expanded domestic intelligence operations.

The New York Times reported Thursday that the committee's report, approved by Nixon and his top intelligence advisers in July, 1970, called for the FBI to mount a massive counter-insurgency program, involving spying, wiretapping and burglaries, against the Black Panthers, potential Arab saboteurs, radical students, and Soviet espionage agents.

The program was not put into effect because J. Edgar Hoover, then director of the bureau, refused to act without written authorization from Nixon.

Nixon, in discussing the proposal during his Watergate statement Tuesday, cited what he said was a wave of domestic bombings, campus disturbances and gun battles in early 1970 and added: "Some of the disruptive activities were receiving foreign support." He cited no evidence.

Elsewhere in his statement, Nixon characterized the 1970 report as one of "three important national security operations" that had become involved in the Watergate scandal. The two other programs, he said, were the series of telephone wiretaps on newsmen and White House aides instituted in 1969 and the establishment of a special investigation unit in 1971 in connection with the Pentagon Papers leak.

One intelligence official said the White House had a "preoccupation" with the extent of foreign influence on domestic radicals and blacks.

The CIA studied three distinct areas in both 1969 and 1970, the source said. It analyzed student patterns throughout Europe, North Africa and Latin America to determine if there was a connection between activities there and the United States' disturbances. No significant connection was found, he said.

Another main area of study was the Mideast, where nations — especially Egypt — were analyzed to determine whether the Arab student population in the United States was being drawn into radical activities under the leadership of the Arab bloc.

The third main study area concerned possible Algerian support for the Black Panthers, the source said. The judgment was that there was no significant support.

Sally Ruben Winner Of NSEA Election

Sally Ruben, a teacher in the York Public Schools, has been chosen president-elect of District I of the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA).

Neil Bateman of Beatrice was elected District I NSEA board member in the mail balloting, results of which were announced this week in Nebraska Education News, the NSEA weekly newspaper.

A Nebraska Wesleyan University graduate, Ms. Ruben teaches at Willard Elementary in York. She is also president of the York Education Association.

She has served on several NSEA commissions and has been a member of NSEA "help-mobile" demonstration teams.

Her opponent in the race was Don Weeks, a teacher and coach at Tobias-Meridian.

Bateman, who teaches math at Beatrice Junior High, ousted Mrs. Donna Harris of York, who was seeking a second three-year term on the NSEA board.

Bateman is a University of Nebraska graduate who has served as president of the Beatrice Education Association, has been active in negotiations and has attended national and state conferences as elected representative.

He is also a member of the Nebraska Professional Practices Commission.

Other officers for District I, in which Lincoln is included, are Mrs. Mary O'Brien, secretary, and Mrs. Eunice Parrish of Tecumseh, treasurer. Mrs. O'Brien is the kindergarten director at Eastridge Elementary in Lincoln.

Instant Trees Latest Things In Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP) — Singapore, which is touting foreign tourists with an "Instant Asia" image, is also a specialist in instant trees.

The "Instant Asia" slogan attempts to convey to the world this 225-square-mile island's complex cultural diversity that has resulted from the compound of Chinese, Malay, Indian and other minority ethnic groups.

Instant trees, however, are part of the government's Parks and Trees Department's efforts to maintain an image of a garden city as annual economic growth rate of around 15 per cent spearheads development of massive modernistic structures that have turned almost all downtown Singapore into a concrete jungle.

Large trees, sometimes sprouting a few tiny green leaves, are planted on major streets, together with nearby creepers and shrubs to maintain a clean and green look. The plants are carefully nurtured.

CIA: Radicals Not Foreign-Backed

©The New York Times

Washington — The Central Intelligence Agency reported in 1969 and 1970 that it could find no substantial evidence to support the Nixon administration's view that foreign governments were supplying undercover agents and funds to radicals and Black Panther groups in the United States, White House and intelligence sources said Thursday.

The CIA'S findings were rejected, the sources said, by high-level White House aides who arranged in late 1970 for some 35 agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation to open overseas intelligence posts in 20 countries. The bureau's expansion is said to have angered Richard Helms, then the CIA director, and other agency officials.

"We tried to show that the radical movements were homegrown, indigenous responses to perceived grievances and problems that had been growing for years," one official who worked on the agency's analyses recalled. "We said the radicals were clean and that we couldn't find anything. But all it turned out to be was another nail in Helms's coffin."

Helms was relieved as the agency's director late last year.

The CIA said it would not comment on its 1969 and 1970 reports.

The intelligence sources said the first CIA study was submitted to the office of Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security adviser, more than six months before Nixon decided to establish a special inter-agency committee to prepare recommendations for expanded domestic intelligence operations.

The New York Times reported Thursday that the committee's report, approved by Nixon and his top intelligence advisers in July, 1970, called for the FBI to mount a massive counter-insurgency program, involving spying, wiretapping and burglaries, against the Black Panthers, potential Arab saboteurs, radical students, and Soviet espionage agents.

The program was not put into effect because J. Edgar Hoover, then director of the bureau, refused to act without written authorization from Nixon.

Nixon, in discussing the proposal during his Watergate statement Tuesday, cited what he said was a wave of domestic bombings, campus disturbances and gun battles in early 1970 and added: "Some of the disruptive activities were receiving foreign support." He cited no evidence.

Elsewhere in his statement, Nixon characterized the 1970 report as one of "three important national security operations" that had become involved in the Watergate scandal. The two other programs, he said, were the series of telephone wiretaps on newsmen and White House aides instituted in 1969 and the establishment of a special investigation unit in 1971 in connection with the Pentagon Papers leak.

One intelligence official said the White House had a "preoccupation" with the extent of foreign influence on domestic radicals and blacks.

The CIA studied three distinct areas in both 1969 and 1970, the source said. It analyzed student patterns throughout Europe, North Africa and Latin America to determine if there was a connection between activities there and the United States' disturbances. No significant connection was found, he said.

Another main area of study was the Mideast, where nations — especially Egypt — were analyzed to determine whether the Arab student population in the United States was being drawn into radical activities under the leadership of the Arab bloc.

The third main study area concerned possible Algerian support for the Black Panthers, the source said. The judgment was that there was no significant support.

Instant Trees Latest Things In Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP) — Singapore, which is touting foreign tourists with an "Instant Asia" image, is also a specialist in instant trees.

The "Instant Asia" slogan attempts to convey to the world this 225-square-mile island's complex cultural diversity that has resulted from the compound of Chinese, Malay, Indian and other minority ethnic groups.

Instant trees, however, are part of the government's Parks and Trees Department's efforts to maintain an image of a garden city as annual economic growth rate of around 15 per cent spearheads development of massive modernistic structures that have turned almost all downtown Singapore into a concrete jungle.

Large trees, sometimes sprouting a few tiny green leaves, are planted on major streets, together with nearby creepers and shrubs to maintain a clean and green look. The plants are carefully nurtured.

Stock Prices Soar

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market arose suddenly from its recent doldrums Thursday and ran up one of its sharpest gains in history

Wall Street, which lives on a steady diet of rumors, apparently feasted this time on two that were making the rounds One had it that President Nixon soon would ease restrictions that now limit companies to dividend increases of 4 per cent a year

The second, and more spectacular, told of John B Connally returning to his former post as Treasury Secretary and a return to the anti-inflationary controls of Phase 2 of the President s economic program

The validity of either rumor could not be determined But that was quite apparently of no consequence to the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which racked up its fourth-highest one-day gain on record

The average closed at 924 44, up 29 42 points, putting together about half of that jump in the final 90 minutes of the session.

Other averages shared in the Dow s for tunes The NYSE s composite index of more than 1 500 common stocks showed a 1 56 point increase at 56 45

At the American Stock Exchange the price change index ended a streak of 11 da ly declines with a steep 14 jump to 22 57

The NASDAQ composite index for the Over the Counter Market was up 2 18 at 104 27

P tney Bowes up 1 at 123/4 led the Big Board s most active list Trading in the issue included a huge 316 800 share block

A lot of the other prices told their own stories Among the glamours IBM was up 10¾ at 400½ Polaroid jumped 8⅞ to and Xerox soared 5¼ to 153½

The usually stable blue chips got their share as well General Motors was up 3 at 70⅜ Du Pont soared 6½ to 178 and Union Carbide added 1½ to 39½

The euphoric climb brought the market to just about the break even point for May On April 30 the Dow closed at 921 43

Stock Prices Soar

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market arose suddenly from its recent doldrums Thursday and ran up one of its sharpest gains in history.

Wall Street, which lives on a steady diet of rumors, apparently feasted this time on two that were making the rounds. One had it that President Nixon soon would ease restrictions that now limit companies to dividend increases of 4 per cent a year.

The second, and more spectacular, told of John B. Connally returning to his former post as Treasury Secretary and a return to the anti-inflationary controls of Phase 2 of the President's economic program.

The validity of either rumor could not be determined. But that was quite apparently of no consequence to the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which racked up its fourth-highest one-day gain on record

The average closed at 924.44, up 29.42 points, putting together about half of that jump in the final 90 minutes of the session.

Other averages shared in the Dow's fortunes. The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks showed a 1.56-point increase at 56.45.

At the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index ended a streak of 11 daily declines with a steep .14 jump to 22.57.

The NASDAQ composite index for the Over-the-Counter Market was up 2.18 at 104.27.

Pitney-Bowes, up 1 at 123¼, led the Big Board's most-active list. Trading in the issue included a huge 316,800-share block.

A lot of the other prices told their own stories: Among the glamours, IBM was up 10¾ at 400½. Polaroid jumped 8⅞ to and Xerox soared 5¼ to 153½.

The usually stable blue chips got their share as well. General Motors was up 3 at 70⅜. Du Pont soared 6½ to 178, and Union Carbide added 1½ to 39½.

The euphoric climb brought the market to just about the break-even point for May On April 30, the Dow closed at 921.43.

Tokyo — Somebody told me: "There's a McDonald's where you can get a hamburger for thirty-eight cents." (Steak dinner for one, last nights brandy and coffee for two ran $54!)

We checked in at the elegant New Otzni. From my window I can see the gray Imperial Palace. These are warm and sunny days in Tokyo. It is the Golden Week of cherry blossoms Something like our Easter week. School children on little walking tours Giggling and being rounded up by the guide.

Every bill is a smasher.

I looked at the drink menu: "Cognac VO $16"

I said. "That has to be a mistake. Maybe Hong Kong dollars"

But no, dear hearts. That is $16 U.S.

I had lunch with a couple of Japanese public relations men. They said: "You see for a long time you exchanged one dollar for 360 yen. It wasn't realistic so they floated the yen — let it find it's own level in the market.

"Now you get only 250 yen for the dollar. If you're lucky.

"Add to that there's world wide inflation Very high in Japan"

☆☆☆

No lack of money in Japan. The New Otani was the first 1,000-room hotel in Tokyo It was so successful there are three more

Now the New Otani is building a thousand room tower alongside.

I said: "How do you fill them? I mean, with these prices tourists are going to bypass Japan. This is worse than Paris."

They said: "We fill them mostly with Japanese businessmen. They come in for business from Osakia — or somewhere else. The occupancy rate is very high."

☆☆☆

They said: "What really worries us is so many Japanese go out of Japan for vacations. Many Japanese honeymooners go to Guam or Hawaii. It is cheaper for them than a honeymoon in Japan."

(Japanese tourists — a quarter of a million and growing — are a big income in Hawaii. Kenji Osano is one of the biggest hotel owners at Waikiki.)

They said: "There were 1.7 million Japanese traveled abroad last year. Of course we send many salesmen overseas. But many tourists, too."

(In the plush Bellevue Room of the New Otani, I asked the Japanese wine steward· "Where did you learn so much about wine?" He said "The company sent me to France for three years")

☆☆☆

A booming new town. (What happened to the Tokyo we knew 20 years ago? When Scotch at the Foreign Correspondents Club was 10 cents.)

They said: "You see Japan does not have a nuclear arms program — our total outlay for defense is only one percent of our spending. We do not send men to the moon.

"Instead we capture the camera market. Every major improvement in cameras in the last 20 years has been Japanese.

"Seiko watches have the biggest sales in the world. Timex sells more watches because you buy them on drugstore counters. But Seiko has the biggest volume of money.

"Japan is now third among nations in production. Third in gross national product. At the present rate — among all nations — by year 2000, Japan will be Number One."

Stander's Anniversary

Sports shorts while wondering what Ron Stander will be doing Friday night to celebrate the first anniversary of his being cut to ribbons by then heavyweight champion Joe Frazier:

A number of Lincoln husbands will be relegated to baby-sitting chores and doing their own cooking this weekend.

Two chartered 707 jets carrying 246 women bowlers left Thursday to compete in the WIBC Tournament in Las Vegas with one plane returning Sunday, the other on Monday.

With a few husbands and other guests going along the entourage with Stella Kaufman serving as trail boss numbers 347.

For Ginny Kimball the trip will represent her 20th appearance in the WIBC event.

Four of the gals will be taking along averages of 175 or better with Marilyn McDonald at 175, Kathy Jaeger at 176, Kathy Dinges at 176 and Terry Bohannon at 178.

From that high of 178, the averages go down to a low of 102.

Nebraska's Richest Tournament

The biggest golf tournament from a money standpoint in Nebraska history will be the first KOLN-KGIN-TV Tournament this summer at the Lochland Country Club in Hastings.

The purse for the Aug. 25-26 tourney is $15,000 with $10,000 in cash being divided among the pros and $5,000 in merchandise for the amateurs.

The amateur field is set up for 80 players in four flights with an entry deadline of Aug. 6 and the top pro prize is $2,100.

Host pro Bud Williamson Jr. says he has hopes of attrecting some talent from the pro golf tour, such as Jim Colbert.

The touring pros are scheduled to be competing in the PGA Match Play Championship, a limited field, and the $100,000 Liggett and Myers Open on those dates, so chances are excellent that Williamson might lure some of them to Hastings.

In case you're wondering where that registration fee goes that you pay when enrolling your youngster or youngsters in Lincoln's Little Chiefs baseball program, $6,343.94 was spent last year on equipment and uniforms.

Another $3,376 went for insurance from the fees which totaled $9,322.68.

Bettors Must Be On Time

Ak-Sar-Ben racing fans are getting home earlier or getting somewhere earlier after the races these days, but they're going to have to learn to get to the betting windows earlier, also.

Bettors at Ak-Sar-Ben have become accustomed to Ak-Sar-Ben officials holding races up to get more money in the mutuel tills, often resulting in the last race running as much as 30 minutes behind its scheduled post time.

This year, however, Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Dick Becker — bully for him — has issued an order that each race is to be run within two minutes of the stated post time.

This has resulted in some bettors being shut out at the mutuel windows, but despite that the Ak-Sar-Ben handle is up appreciably over last year.

When it was announced at last week's Big Eight meetings that the coaches of the winner and runner-up in the league's basketball race would serve as coaches for a conference all-star team to go to Yugoslavia, Charlie Smith of United Press International in Kansas City asked:

"Is that true even if it turns out to be Joe Cipriano (Nebraska) and Ted Owens (Kansas)?" It's common knowledge around the league that the two do not see eye-to-eye on most matters.

Amateurs Trying To Even Series With Pros

. . .SECOND NEBRASKA CUP MATCHES ON TAP FRIDAY AT LCC

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

A Nebraska Amateur Golf Association team with the top five finishers from last summer's State Amateur Championship in its lineup will try once again Friday to defeat the best of Nebrska's golf professionals in the second annual Nebraska Cup matches at the Lincoln Country Club.

The Nebraska Professional Golfers Association team rallied a year ago at the Omaha Country Club to take a 26-22 victory after trailing by 16-8 when they stopped for lunch.

The competition, patterned after the U.S.-British Ryder Cup Matches, consists of six two-man, best-ball team matches in the morning, getting under way at 8:30 a.m., and individual matches starting at 2 p.m.

Heading non-playing captain Phil Aitken's amateur lineup are Dan Bahensky of Lincoln, Jim Hogeland of Alma, Jim Brownfield of Cozad, Charlie Borner of North Platte and Guy Lammle of Peru who finished 1-2-3-4-5 in last summer's Men's State Amateur at the Lochland Country Club in Hastings.

The amateur lineup also includes eight-time State Amateur king Bob Astleford of Omaha, four-time champion Bob Fraser of Omaha and three-time winner Dick Spangler Jr. of Lincoln.

But the pros' non-playing captain Max Crouch of the Omaha Field Club also can display a bulging portfolio of credentials on the golfing prowess of his team members.

Heading the professionals lineup is Nebraska PGA champion Jerry Fisher, who will be playing over his home layout.

Then there's John Frillman of Omaha's Happy Hollow Country Club and Merle Backlund of Aurora, who between them have won a half dozen Nebraska PGA championships.

Also in the pro lineup is Bud Williamson Jr. of the Lochland Country Club in Hastings, who led qualifiers for the U.S. Open Monday at the Lincoln Country Club.

The first two team matches rate as toss-ups with Borner and Spangler facing Fisher and Frillman and with Brownfield and Bahensky taking on Backlund and Bob Popp of the Omaha Country Club.

The pros should enjoy a slight edge in the third match with Williamson and Wes Malnack of Millard's Oak Hills Country Club taking on amateurs Bob Reynolds of Lincoln and Lammle.

And you'd also have to give the pros an edge in the fourth match where Ron Gunia of the Alliance Country Club and Juan Elizondo of Omaha's Highland Country Club are pitted against amateurs Leo Gard and Fraser, both of Omaha.

But the amateurs rate the advantage in the fifth match with Astleford and Al Ludwig of Omaha meeting pros Jack Hoskins of Grand Island's Riverside Country Club and Gene Johnson of Omaha's Applewood.

The final match in the team division rates as a toss-up between amateurs Mike Ley of Lincoln and Hogeland and pros Bob Schuchart of Lincoln's Holmes Park and Carl Faddis of Sidney.

The pairings for the individual matches Friday afternoon will not be made until the completion of the team competition.

Dennis Houlihan, president of the Nebraska Amateur Golf Association, and Bob Popp, president of the Nebraska PGA, point out that the public is welcome to view the matches at the Lincoln Country Club with no admission charge.

Prize Wagon Wins Feature

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Prize Wagon, a 30-1 longshot, showed his heels to the pack in the stretch run to win by a neck in the $10,000-added Good Neighbor Stakes at Ak-Sar-Ben Thursday.

But then owner Millard Cole of Fairbury had to wait out a claim of foul by Nebraska Harvest's owner Felix Beda before the race was declared official.

"This is the biggest race I've ever won," Cole said following Prize Wagon's victory. "But I wasn't surprised about the victory. He's beaten every horse in that field before."

What did surprise Cole was still having the 3-year-old chestnut colt by Peace Prize out of Grace Good after Prize Wagon fell and broke five ribs, punctured his spleen, stomach and lung following a fall on the last day of Lincoln racing last year.

"He has a plate in his side now," Cole laughed. "They call him Ol' Ironsides."

Cole, who works as a conductor on the Rock Island railroad freight run between Fairbury and Council Bluffs seven days a week and puts in as much time as he can with Prize Wagon and Gracie C., said when he delivered the colt, he never thought he would grow to 17½ hands high.

"He's a big colt," Cole said. "He's the best horse we've got. He's even better then his mother."

On the race, Cole said he told jockey Dave King to settle Prize Wagon down before making a play against the field in the 5½ furlong jaunt.

"He's (Prize Wagon) kind of a loafer," Cole said. "So you have to keep after him. That's just what Dave did and that's what won the race."

Prize Wagon, carrying 118 pounds, broke second from the gate then fell to fourth three lengths back down the backstretch before moving up to third by a length while rounding the turn.

When he came out of the turn, he had moved into second place five lengths behind Nebraska Harvest, but came between horses with Gem D.H. to win by a neck in 1:05 3-5 while hitting the quarterpole in :21 and :05 3-5 at the half.

Beda claimed the foul at that point, alleging that his charge was interfered with in the stretch run, but it was disallowed.

The win was worth $8,910 to Cole from the $16,200 total purse as Prize Wagon, sixth in his last outing, boosted his 1973 record to three wins, one place and two shows out of eight starts and his earnings to $14,425. Maurice S. Huff, owner of Gem D.H., picked up $3,078 for second while Beda collected $2,268 for Nebraska Harvest.

The backers in the crowd of 10,923 collected $71.60, $23.80 and $12.40 for Prize Wagon while Gem D.H. returned $19.80 and $11.00 with Nebraska Harvest showing for $6.20.

"He never should have gone off at those odds," Cole said. "He's beaten every horse in that field before. They should've had him down a little lower."

The majority of the bettors had gone with Rideniron and Maye Commander with Larry Leroy the No. 3 choice for the race.

Jockey Don Lewis scored a riding triple win on Loup De Shane in the sixth, Chazzar in the eighth and Love O'Gold in the ninth.

FLEET HONEY SET

. . . Sprinter Faces 12 In Handicap

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Khalili and Fleet Honey, who captured the top two spots in last year's Queen's Handicap, return here Friday to compete again the $20,000-added Queen's Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Both are coming off impressive victories and will probably be favored over 11 3-year-old and up fillies and mares in the 6-furlong chase.

Sumi Ford's Fleet Honey, who is entered with Bart Ford's Noble Nova as an entry, has been assigned top-weight of 125 pounds by racing secretary John Maluvius. Khalili gets in with 118 pounds.

Fleet Honey, however, made a runaway of the first meeting between the two on May 4. The Ford filly roared to an uncontested 9-length win in a 5½-furlong allowance scamper while Khlili never threatened and finished sixth.

That boosted Fleet Honey's 1973 record to two victories in three appearances for earnings of $14,325.

Helen L. Kenaston's Khalili, made amends for her lopsided defeat to Fleet Honey by zipping to a two-length verdict last Thursday in a 6-furlong allowance test in a return to the form that earned her $25,735 last season.

Khalili now has two wins and one second in four outings this season for winnings of $8,355.

Second top-weighted at 120 pounds is John T. Shouse's Levee Night. In an April 4 overnight handicap at Oaklawn Park, she triumphed while Fleet Honey finished fourth — beaten 4¼-lengths.

An outsider is V. and O. Preuss' Sonny's Delight, a frequent campaigner at all Nebraska tracks. Sonny upset Paul Kemling's swift Bold Accent and favored Kathryn's Doll two years in that edition of the Queen's Handicap.

Other entrants and their weights include Pas De Nom (118), H.E. Clay and S.H. Struck's Bagdari (117), Mary L. Tobin and Eugene R. Eagan's Shadycroft Gal (113), Van Dee Peck Stables' Aterradora and Noble Nova (each 112), David C. Parrish's Fire Water and H.L. Johnston's Susan B (each 111), Ken Opstein's Herald Angel (109) and R.W. Holm's Scattered Clouds (108).

Indianapolis Fines Paid

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Fines were paid Thursday and bonds posted by Champ Carr Racing Enterprises Inc., but problems continued in the aftermath of the disqualification of one of the team's cars in the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Sam Posey's Offenhauser-powered Eagle was disqualified Tuesday as first alternate for the May 28 race, because the Champ Carr crew attempted to change the number on the car to try and qualify it as a different car.

Crew chief Fred Carillo paid fines of $100 to the track and $1,000 to the United States Auto Club over the incident. Chief mechanic Jack McCormack paid $100 and $250.

Montreal Inks Rodgers To Richest CFL Pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Johnny Rodgers, Nebraska's explosive Heisman Trophy winner, said Thursday he will play for the Montreal Alouettes for the richest contract ever signed in the Canadian Football League.

Rodgers refused to disclose provisions and actual figures of the contract except to say it covers three years. The versatile ball carrier, kick returner and pass catcher who scored 46 touchdowns for the Cornhuskers, was the 25th player drafted in the National Football League, a late first-round choice of the San Diego Chargers.

"Money is the basic reason I chose Canada," the 5-foot-9, 180-pound Rodgers said. "That and I've been to Canada once and my first impression is it's a beautiful place. I know I'll be happy there."

Michael Trope, president of World Sports Management Inc., and attorney Barry Langberg negotiated with the Alouettes and Chargers.

The Montreal contract is believed to be worth more than $100,000 per year for three years although no fugures were given. Although Trope said the pact provided triple pay if Rodgers is cut or traded, Langberg said later that no penalty clause has been agreed upon.

Trope said San Diego's offer was "substantially lower" and the Chargers contended "it would make him this year's highest paid first-round draft choice."

Trope said the Chargers were told "they didn't have to match the Canada offer, but the disparity was so great ..."

Charger Coach Harland Svare said in a statement: "We made our best offer. Anything above that would have grossly distorted the salary structure within the San Diego organization." He didn't say what the Chargers had offered Rodgers.

Rodgers said he will be the second Heisman Trophy winner to choose Canadian football over the American brand. Billy Vessels of Oklahoma was the first, and Johnny added, "He's a very rich man today."

Rodgers said he looks forward to playing in Canada because of the "more wide open game. They'll automatically have to give you more room because the field is wider and longer I'll be doing the same thing I did in four years in college. I'll have no adjusting."

Landberg said neither team was told the other's offer.

"We told San Diego their offer was somewhat less and we were inclined to take Montreal's. We asked if they cared to make another offer, and in this case they had made their highest offer."

Rodgers was scheduled to leave Thursday night for Montreal.

Meanwhile, Trope announced Jimmy Jones, former University of Southern California quarterback, also will sign with Montreal. Jones was cut as a defensive back last year by the NFL Denver Broncos.

In Montreal, J. I. Albrecht, general manager of the Alouettes, said he was aware of Rodgers' announcement in Los Angeles but declined to discuss it.

Washington — When John Mackey, president of the National Football League Players Association, was benched by the Baltimore Colts in 1971, many observors saw it as punishment for his strike-organizing activites.

But anyone who relied on the television networks for information would have gotten the impression that Mackey's fall from grace resulted strictly from a diminuation of his ability to play tight end.

"No announcer even hinted it was actually based on his union work," Ed Garvey, executive director of the players association, said recently. "To me Keating was benched for the same reason and I am positive it was never mentioned on a broadcast.

"We're tired of this nonsense, of the networks being pro-owner and anti-player. They never seem to focus on the problems confronting the players. They just don't want to be associated with us. They can always plead ignorance of your side, because if they never talk to you they never hear it.

By itself, Garvey's complaint must be judged in the light of self-interest. Alongside corroboration from a network newsman, it must be taken seriously.

The man who put the players' side on the air is Heywood Hale Broun, who covers sports, but works for CBS News. "When he came to us," Garvey said, "He said 'I want to assure you we're independent of CBS Sports,' so that we'd cooperate and not think it was setup."

Broun acknowledged the conversation in a phone interview. "I thought Garvey would get a chance because the owners had gotten such a good press," he said. "I was trying to redress that. When you get into such stuff as labor relations, neither the reporter nor the presenter should automatically be on the side of the game against players."

Needless to say, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, feels the same way.

"In times of crisis between the owners and the players," Miller said, "There's no question we can get the short end of the stick as far as what is said on the air. What I'm referring to is presenting one side of the story, plugging the general line of the owners: That what the players are doing is bad for baseball."

The crux of the problem is that the interests of the networks and those of the owners are so closely aligned. Networks negotiate with owners or owners' representatives, not with players. When something happens to endanger smooth, profitable productions, owners and networks feel their interests threatened.

To protect those interests, the networks have been willing to surrender a measure of control to the sports leagues, which, after all, place profitable operations ahead of objectivity.

Or, as ABC's Howard Cosell puts it, "They'd like to have pablum fed out over the airways.

Means to that end range from monitoring broadcasts to imposing editorial controls to reserving the right to veto an announcer.

CBS and NBC acknowledge that they permit National Football League commissioner Pete Rozelle to include announcer-approval clauses in their contracts.

"I'm not bothered that he has it," said Carl Lindemann, NBC vice president for sports. "Any situation where he'd want to do it, we'd want to do it, too."

Bill MacPhail, CBS sports director, concurred: "The only thing he wants is to keep the image up."

Only ABC has publicly denounced the approval clause. "We have gotten out of any contract with announcer approval," said Roone Arledge, president of ABC Sports. "Even the NFL agree not to claim it.

"That was one of our problems with the NBA. Whereas our contract absolutely stipulated no control, their new one with CBS gives the league announcer approval. It's a giant step backwards."

As for editorial control by the sports organizations, Arledge ways he has fought it and has tried to unite the three major networks in an attempt to eradicate it.

ABC does allow the NCAA to puff itself up on the air, however. Further, Chris Schenkel's enduring fascination with the "color of pagentry of college football" smacks of NCAA flackery, but officials at ABC explain that Schenkel is just the kind of fellow who gets irresistibly enthralled with the excitement of being in a college town for a big game.

Clifford Robers, who runs the Masters Golf Tournament, isn't the slightest bit subtle or surreptitious about telling CBS how to televise the event.

When announcer Jack Whitaker once referred to the "mob" following the last twosome up the 18th Fairway, Roberts informed CBS that the terms was inappropriate at the Masters. He barred Whitaker from the Masters for several years. Roberts even objected strenously once when a CBS camera showed a littered fairway after the tournament had ended.

There is give and take, of course, and the networks occasionally get to do things the way they see fit. One instance was CBS' ill-fated experiment with pro soccer.

The network imported Anny Blanchflower from England as an expert commentator. Blanchflower was as frank as he was expert, and eventually was fired for his disparaging comments about the quality of play. He then claimed CBS had ordered the team to fake injuries for the purpose of doing commercials, since there are no time outs in soccer.

A Federal Communications Commission official says the agency intended to investigate this intriguing assertion but that Blanchflower had returned to England by the time the slow-moving FCC was ready.

In other ways — artificial time outs in hockey, two-minute signals, commercial time outs and at least one repeat kickoff in football — the networks have altered sports where they found it necessary.

In his absorbing book on television's effect on sports, "Super Spectator And The Electric Lilliputians," Willie O. Johnson quotes Chet Simmons, NBC's sports director:

"We don't give 10 seconds thought to our effect on sports. It does not really dawn on us that we have any power to change things in sports. What we want is balanced programing for our network. We are in the broadcast business."

Stander's Anniversary

Sports shorts while wondering what Ron Stander will be doing Friday night to celebrate the first anniversary of his being cut to ribbons by then heavyweight champion Joe Frazier:

A number of Lincoln husbands will be relegated to baby-sitting chores and doing their own cooking this weekend.

Two chartered 707 jets carrying 246 women bowlers left Thursday to compete in the WIBC Tournament in Las Vegas with one plane returning Sunday, the other on Monday.

With a few husbands and other guests going along the entourage with Stella Kaufman serving as trail boss numbers 347.

For Ginny Kimball the trip will represent her 20th appearance in the WIBC event.

Four of the gals will be taking along averages of 175 or better with Marilyn McDonald at 175, Kathy Jaeger at 176, Kathy Dinges at 176 and Terry Bohannon at 178.

From that high of 178, the averages go down to a low of 102.

Nebraska's Richest Tournament

The biggest golf tournament from a money standpoint in Nebraska history will be the first KOLN-KGIN-TV Tournament this summer at the Lochland Country Club in Hastings.

The purse for the Aug. 25-26 tourney is $15,000 with $10,000 in cash being divided among the pros and $5,000 in merchandise for the amateurs.

The amateur field is set up for 80 players in four flights with an entry deadline of Aug. 6 and the top pro prize is $2,100.

Host pro Bud Williamson Jr. says he has hopes of attrecting some talent from the pro golf tour, such as Jim Colbert.

The touring pros are scheduled to be competing in the PGA Match Play Championship, a limited field, and the $100,000 Liggett and Myers Open on those dates, so chances are excellent that Williamson might lure some of them to Hastings.

In case you're wondering where that registration fee goes that you pay when enrolling your youngster or youngsters in Lincoln's Little Chiefs baseball program, $6,343.94 was spent last year on equipment and uniforms.

Another $3,376 went for insurance from the fees which totaled $9,322.68.

Bettors Must Be On Time

Ak-Sar-Ben racing fans are getting home earlier or getting somewhere earlier after the races these days, but they're going to have to learn to get to the betting windows earlier, also.

Bettors at Ak-Sar-Ben have become accustomed to Ak-Sar-Ben officials holding races up to get more money in the mutuel tills, often resulting in the last race running as much as 30 minutes behind its scheduled post time.

This year, however, Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Dick Becker — bully for him — has issued an order that each race is to be run within two minutes of the stated post time.

This has resulted in some bettors being shut out at the mutuel windows, but despite that the Ak-Sar-Ben handle is up appreciably over last year.

When it was announced at last week's Big Eight meetings that the coaches of the winner and runner-up in the league's basketball race would serve as coaches for a conference all-star team to go to Yugoslavia, Charlie Smith of United Press International in Kansas City asked:

"Is that true even if it turns out to be Joe Cipriano (Nebraska) and Ted Owens (Kansas)?" It's common knowledge around the league that the two do not see eye-to-eye on most matters.

Amateurs Trying To Even Series With Pros

. . .SECOND NEBRASKA CUP MATCHES ON TAP FRIDAY AT LCC

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

A Nebraska Amateur Golf Association team with the top five finishers from last summer's State Amateur Championship in its lineup will try once again Friday to defeat the best of Nebrska's golf professionals in the second annual Nebraska Cup matches at the Lincoln Country Club.

The Nebraska Professional Golfers Association team rallied a year ago at the Omaha Country Club to take a 26-22 victory after trailing by 16-8 when they stopped for lunch.

The competition, patterned after the U.S.-British Ryder Cup Matches, consists of six two-man, best-ball team matches in the morning, getting under way at 8:30 a.m., and individual matches starting at 2 p.m.

Heading non-playing captain Phil Aitken's amateur lineup are Dan Bahensky of Lincoln, Jim Hogeland of Alma, Jim Brownfield of Cozad, Charlie Borner of North Platte and Guy Lammle of Peru who finished 1-2-3-4-5 in last summer's Men's State Amateur at the Lochland Country Club in Hastings.

The amateur lineup also includes eight-time State Amateur king Bob Astleford of Omaha, four-time champion Bob Fraser of Omaha and three-time winner Dick Spangler Jr. of Lincoln.

But the pros' non-playing captain Max Crouch of the Omaha Field Club also can display a bulging portfolio of credentials on the golfing prowess of his team members.

Heading the professionals lineup is Nebraska PGA champion Jerry Fisher, who will be playing over his home layout.

Then there's John Frillman of Omaha's Happy Hollow Country Club and Merle Backlund of Aurora, who between them have won a half dozen Nebraska PGA championships.

Also in the pro lineup is Bud Williamson Jr. of the Lochland Country Club in Hastings, who led qualifiers for the U.S. Open Monday at the Lincoln Country Club.

The first two team matches rate as toss-ups with Borner and Spangler facing Fisher and Frillman and with Brownfield and Bahensky taking on Backlund and Bob Popp of the Omaha Country Club.

The pros should enjoy a slight edge in the third match with Williamson and Wes Malnack of Millard's Oak Hills Country Club taking on amateurs Bob Reynolds of Lincoln and Lammle.

And you'd also have to give the pros an edge in the fourth match where Ron Gunia of the Alliance Country Club and Juan Elizondo of Omaha's Highland Country Club are pitted against amateurs Leo Gard and Fraser, both of Omaha.

But the amateurs rate the advantage in the fifth match with Astleford and Al Ludwig of Omaha meeting pros Jack Hoskins of Grand Island's Riverside Country Club and Gene Johnson of Omaha's Applewood.

The final match in the team division rates as a toss-up between amateurs Mike Ley of Lincoln and Hogeland and pros Bob Schuchart of Lincoln's Holmes Park and Carl Faddis of Sidney.

The pairings for the individual matches Friday afternoon will not be made until the completion of the team competition.

Dennis Houlihan, president of the Nebraska Amateur Golf Association, and Bob Popp, president of the Nebraska PGA, point out that the public is welcome to view the matches at the Lincoln Country Club with no admission charge.

Prize Wagon Wins Feature

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Prize Wagon, a 30-1 longshot, showed his heels to the pack in the stretch run to win by a neck in the $10,000-added Good Neighbor Stakes at Ak-Sar-Ben Thursday.

But then owner Millard Cole of Fairbury had to wait out a claim of foul by Nebraska Harvest's owner Felix Beda before the race was declared official.

"This is the biggest race I've ever won," Cole said following Prize Wagon's victory. "But I wasn't surprised about the victory. He's beaten every horse in that field before."

What did surprise Cole was still having the 3-year-old chestnut colt by Peace Prize out of Grace Good after Prize Wagon fell and broke five ribs, punctured his spleen, stomach and lung following a fall on the last day of Lincoln racing last year.

"He has a plate in his side now," Cole laughed. "They call him Ol' Ironsides."

Cole, who works as a conductor on the Rock Island railroad freight run between Fairbury and Council Bluffs seven days a week and puts in as much time as he can with Prize Wagon and Gracie C., said when he delivered the colt, he never thought he would grow to 17½ hands high.

"He's a big colt," Cole said. "He's the best horse we've got. He's even better then his mother."

On the race, Cole said he told jockey Dave King to settle Prize Wagon down before making a play against the field in the 5½ furlong jaunt.

"He's (Prize Wagon) kind of a loafer," Cole said. "So you have to keep after him. That's just what Dave did and that's what won the race."

Prize Wagon, carrying 118 pounds, broke second from the gate then fell to fourth three lengths back down the backstretch before moving up to third by a length while rounding the turn.

When he came out of the turn, he had moved into second place five lengths behind Nebraska Harvest, but came between horses with Gem D.H. to win by a neck in 1:05 3-5 while hitting the quarterpole in :21 and :05 3-5 at the half.

Beda claimed the foul at that point, alleging that his charge was interfered with in the stretch run, but it was disallowed.

The win was worth $8,910 to Cole from the $16,200 total purse as Prize Wagon, sixth in his last outing, boosted his 1973 record to three wins, one place and two shows out of eight starts and his earnings to $14,425. Maurice S. Huff, owner of Gem D.H., picked up $3,078 for second while Beda collected $2,268 for Nebraska Harvest.

The backers in the crowd of 10,923 collected $71.60, $23.80 and $12.40 for Prize Wagon while Gem D.H. returned $19.80 and $11.00 with Nebraska Harvest showing for $6.20.

"He never should have gone off at those odds," Cole said. "He's beaten every horse in that field before. They should've had him down a little lower."

The majority of the bettors had gone with Rideniron and Maye Commander with Larry Leroy the No. 3 choice for the race.

Jockey Don Lewis scored a riding triple win on Loup De Shane in the sixth, Chazzar in the eighth and Love O'Gold in the ninth.

Blanchflower was as frank as he was expert, and eventually was fired for his disparaging comments about the quality of play. He then claimed CBS had ordered the team to fake injuries for the purpose of doing commercials, since there are no time outs in soccer.

A Federal Communications Commission official says the agency intended to investigate this intriguing assertion but that Blanchflower had returned to England by the time the slow-moving FCC was ready.

In other ways — artificial time outs in hockey, two-minute signals, commercial time outs and at least one repeat kickoff in football — the networks have altered sports where they found it necessary.

In his absorbing book on television's effect on sports, "Super Spectator And The Electric Lilliputians," Willie O. Johnson quotes Chet Simmons, NBC's sports director:

"We don't give 10 seconds thought to our effect on sports. It does not really dawn on us that we have any power to change things in sports. What we want is balanced programing for our network. We are in the broadcast business."

Lavanne Johnson fired a two-hitter to pace Bob's Tavern to a 4-0 victory Thursday night at Ballard Field over previously undefeated Mason-Bowes in Lincoln AAA softball action

Royals Lose To Triplets

EVANSVILLE, Ind (AP) — Ron Espy and Alan Ashby drove in runs with a triple and a double in the bottom of the eighth inning here Thursday to give Evansville a 4-2 American Association victory over Omaha

The Triplets managed only five hits, all off loser Al Autry 4-4 but four of them drove in runs Centerfielder Wilbur Howard doubled in Evansville's first run in the third inning and Steve McCartney followed with a single to score Howard

Winning pitcher Archie Reynolds 4-5 scattered all nine Omaha hits in seven and two-third innings of work

Atlanta Lead Shared

ATLANTA (UPI) — Always-favored Jack Nicklaus, showing the class that has carried him to the top of the golf world, closed with a pair of birdies Thursday to post a 5-under-par 67 and a tie with David Glenz and B R. "Mac" McLendon for the first round lead in the $150,000 Atlanta Golf Classic

Nicklaus, who had not played since winning the Tournament of Champions last month — his third victory this year in just nine appearances —seemingly was out of contention for the lead going into the final two holes

But he two-putted from 60 feet on the par 5, 17th hole to close within one stroke and then placed his approach shot just five feet from the cup and sank the putt he needed at the final hole to catch Glenz and McLendon

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Former University of California football and baseball star Jackie Jensen was named Thursday as the university's head baseball coach.

Royals Lose To Triplets

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Ron Espy and Alan Ashby drove in runs with a triple and a double in the bottom of the eighth inning here Thursday to give Evansville a 4-2 American Association victory over Omaha.

The Triplets managed only five hits, all off loser Al Autry, 4-4, but four of them drove in runs. Centerfielder Wilbur Howard doubled in Evansville's first run in the third inning and Steve McCartney followed with a single to score Howard.

Winning pitcher Archie Reynolds, 4-5, scattered all nine Omaha hits in seven and two-third innings of work.

Atlanta Lead Shared

ATLANTA (UPI) — Always-favored Jack Nicklaus, showing the class that has carried him to the top of the golf world, closed with a pair of birdies Thursday to post a 5-under-par 67 and a tie with David Glenz and B.R. "Mac" McLendon for the first round lead in the $150,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

Nicklaus, who had not played since winning the Tournament of Champions last month — his third victory this year in just nine appearances —seemingly was out of contention for the lead going into the final two holes.

But he two-putted from 60 feet on the par 5, 17th hole to close within one stroke and then placed his approach shot just five feet from the cup and sank the putt he needed at the final hole to catch Glenz and McLendon.

Kings Stay In Omaha

Omaha (AP) — It was reported Thursday that any change in ownership of the Kansas City Kings would not have any bearing on Omaha games by the National Basketball Association team

Omaha auditorium manager Charlie Mancuso said he learned some time ago that exploratory conferences have been going "with Kansas City people concerning the Kings Those things are not uncommon in pro sports"

Even if the club is sold, he said, the Kings will play 14 games in Omaha next season

Jeremy and Max Jacobs of Buffalo, N Y and members of their families own most of the stock in the basketball club

They moved it to Kansas City last year from Cincinnati and 15 of the home games were played at Omaha because the arena at Municipal Auditorium was already reserved for other events

Kings Stay In Omaha

Omaha (AP) — It was reported Thursday that any change in ownership of the Kansas City Kings would not have any bearing on Omaha games by the National Basketball Association team.

Omaha auditorium manager Charlie Mancuso said he learned some time ago that exploratory conferences have been going "with Kansas City people concerning the Kings. Those things are not uncommon in pro sports."

Even if the club is sold, he said, the Kings will play 14 games in Omaha next season.

Jeremy and Max Jacobs of Buffalo, N.Y. and members of their families own most of the stock in the basketball club.

They moved it to Kansas City last year from Cincinnati and 15 of the home games were played at Omaha because the arena at Municipal Auditorium was already reserved for other events

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY
Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
42,000 miles / 40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00

33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00

Two Husker Records Fall

One Nebraska career record was broken during the recently completed 1973 baseball season, and one season record was tied.

Bob Munson, a senior from Bradford, Vt., broke Bob Cerv's 23-year-old record of 18 doubles hit from 1947-50 by slashing out 19 two-baggers in a career which began in 1970. The record-breaker came in the second game of the May 12 doubleheader with Friends at the NU Diamond.

Munson hit four doubles as a sophomore, six as a junior, and just missed the season record of 10 set by Cerv and Don Brown in 1950 when he banged out nine doubles in 1973.

As a junior, Munson set a new Husker season fielding percentage record of .991, breaking the old mark of .986 set by Dick Becher in 1958.

But he'll be joined in the record books in that department as Lincoln junior Sam Sharpe, son of NU diamond coach Tony Sharpe, committed only two errors in 234 chances this spring to tie Munson's mark. Sharpe played errorless ball in the Huskers' last 15 games to tie the record.

Quarry Signs With Shavers

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Quarry signed Thursday to fight Earnie Shavers in Madison Square Garden June 18 and said, "I've been here before with the same kind of fighters; guys who were supposed to take my head off.

"And no one's done it yet," added Quarry at a news conference announcing the scheduled 12-round heavyweight fight.

In 1970 Quarry fought unbeaten Mac Foster, who had won 24 fights by knockout, in the Garden and Quarry stopped Foster in six rounds. Then last February in the Garden, Quarry scored a unanimous 12-round decison over Ron Lyle, who had a 19-0-0 record.

Now it will be Shavers, a 27-year-old slugger from Newtown Falls, Ohio, who has a won 44 pro fights, 41 by knockout, against two losses but is unranked by the World Boxing Association. Quarry is ranked fifth.

He phoned Lincoln officials Thursday to cancel the appearances, explaining that he was tied up in California with a movie production.

Honors To Nelson, Fosbender

Fred B. Nelson and Doris Fosbender, both of Lincoln, received awards Monday evening for outstanding contributions to the Nebraska Acres for Wildlife program, according to the Game and Parks Commission.

Nelson, formerly editor of NEBRASKAland magazine, and presently information director for the Department of Roads, provided national exposure for the program with his story "Let's Go Wild" in the October, 1972 issue of OUTDOOR LIFE.

Mrs. Fosbender, who submitted an Acres for Wildlife enrollment, has fully shared her involvement with her husband, Bentley, and sons. The Fosbenders purchased 129 acres of land and water from the former Upper Big Nemaha Watershed Conservancy District.

The site adjoins the town of Firth. The sole purpose in purchasing the area has been wildlife management. The family has added 5,000 trees and some food plots to the area.

Commission Sets Meeting

Quarry Signs With Shavers

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Quarry signed Thursday to fight Earnie Shavers in Madison Square Garden June 18 and said, "I've been here before with the same kind of fighters; guys who were supposed to take my head off.

"And no one's done it yet," added Quarry at a news conference announcing the scheduled 12-round heavyweight fight.

In 1970 Quarry fought unbeaten Mac Foster, who had won 24 fights by knockout, in the Garden and Quarry stopped Foster in six rounds. Then last February in the Garden, Quarry scored a unanimous 12-round decison over Ron Lyle, who had a 19-0-0 record.

Now it will be Shavers, a 27-year-old slugger from Newtown Falls, Ohio, who has a won 44 pro fights, 41 by knockout, against two losses but is unranked by the World Boxing Association. Quarry is ranked fifth.

Mizzou Athlete Killed

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Calvin Patterson, whose poor grades forced him off the University of Missouri basketball team last winter, was shot five times and killed Thursday at the edge of the campus.

Lanier Cancels Lincoln Events

Willie Lanier, Kansas City Chiefs linebacker, failed to appear for two scheduled events in Lincoln Thursday.

Lanier was scheduled to speak at the Nebraska Center for Children and Youth at 1 p.m. Thursday and at the Cedars Home for Children at 3:30.

He phoned Lincoln officials Thursday to cancel the appearances, explaining that he was tied up in California with a movie production.

Saldana Tops Knoxville Race

Former Lincoln racer Joe Saldana heads a list of over 30 nationally known and Indy 500 drivers entered in USAC's seven event championship sprint car races June 2 in Knoxville, Iowa.

Saldana, recent winner of the Tony Hulman Classic, holds the Knoxville one lap trial record of 20:37.

Indy 500 drivers entered include: Sam Sessions of Nashville, Mich.; George Snider of Bakersfield, Calif.; Bill Puterbaugh of Indianapolis, Ind.; Lee Kunzman of Guttenburg, Ia.; Jim McElreath of Arlington, Tex.; and Bruce Walkup of St. Paul, Ind.

USAC's winningest sprint driver Larry Dixson of Maretta, Ohio and IMCA champion Darl Harrison of Tiffin, Ohio are also entered.

Honors To Nelson, Fosbender

Fred B. Nelson and Doris Fosbender, both of Lincoln, received awards Monday evening for outstanding contributions to the Nebraska Acres for Wildlife program, according to the Game and Parks Commission.

Nelson, formerly editor of NEBRASKAland magazine, and presently information director for the Department of Roads, provided national exposure for the program with his story "Let's Go Wild" in the October, 1972 issue of OUTDOOR LIFE.

Mrs. Fosbender, who submitted an Acres for Wildlife enrollment, has fully shared her involvement with her husband, Bentley, and sons. The Fosbenders purchased 129 acres of land and water from the former Upper Big Nemaha Watershed Conservancy District.

The site adjoins the town of Firth. The sole purpose in purchasing the area has been wildlife management. The family has added 5,000 trees and some food plots to the area.

Commission Sets Meeting

The Nebraska State Game Commission will meet Friday at 9 a.m. in the Game Commission Building with at least six items on the agenda.

A public hearing will be held on endangered species. Also scheduled to be discussed are free camping at Fremont State Lakes, motor boat speed regulations at Johnson Lake, a policy statement on the proposed wilderness area at Fort Niobrara, a historical outlook at the Fort Robinson boundary lines.

A request for authority to advertise for concessionaires at Pawnee, Branched Oak and Louisville Lakes is also set.

Eyth Elevated To Head Coach

Lincoln East athletic director Phil Sprague announced a coaching change at the school.

Beatrice native Bob Eyth is now the Spartans' head track coach after serving as an assistant to Jim McConnell for the past six years.

McConnell will remain at the school as the cross country coach, a post he now holds.

Eyth was graduated from Nebraska, where he lettered in track as a sprinter. He was the assistant track coach and sophomore football coach at Lincoln High for six years before moving to East.

Eyth is also the head reserve football coach for the Spartans.

Borgialli Signs State Champions

Two high school state wrestling champions have signed national letters-of-intent to attend Nebraska, coach Orval Borgialli announced Thursday.

Kirk Gardner of Wakefield, this year's 155-pound Class C Nebraska champion and Paul Medina, voted the outstanding wrestler in the New Mexico state tournament, both signed NU letters.

Gardner, who was undefeated his senior year, won the 155-pound title in 1972. Medina, from Taos, N.M., was undefeated this year while winning the 112-pound title, and was the New Mexico runnerup in 1972.
